DIED ON COMMON

ELECTRIC ENGINEER OF BEVERLY

Was Formerly a Resident of This City

Edward Hassett, general superintendent of the Gas and Electric corporation of Beverly, but a former resident of this city, died very suddenly in the North common shortly before seven o'clock while being accompanied to the home of Mr. Thomas J. Enright. Death was due to heart failure and occurred so quickly that medical aid could not be summoned before he expired.

The deceased was born in this city and has a mother, a sister and two brothers living here.

Yesterday he came to Lowell and called at the office of Mr. Enright who was an old friend of his while living in Lowell, and the two friends spent a very pleasant afternoon. A visit was made to the office of James H. Carmichael in the Central block and about 6.15 o'clock Mr. Enright and Mr. Hassett boarded a Merrimack street car and got off at Cabot street. After passing through Cabot street the two men made their way across the common. When near the band stand Mr. Hassett complained of feeling weak and was unable to continue any farther. He sought a seat close by and thought that the weak spell would pass over in a few minutes.

Mr. Enright remained seated with Mr. Hassett for a short time, after which the ill man said he was feeling somewhat better. The two men arose and proceeded a short distance, and then Mr. Hassett again became weak.

Seeing that his friend was in a serious condition, Mr. Enright hurried to his house nearby with the idea of calling for a carriage. As he was about to call central, his sister informed him that a crowd was gathering around a bench on the common.

Mr. Enright hurried out, but was too late to be of assistance to Mr. Hassett, who was either dead or dying. The body was placed on the grass, and a hurry call for the ambulance was given. A quick response was made, and in the meantime everything possible was done to revive the man.

Although it was not known that Mr. Hassett was dead at the time when the ambulance arrived at St. John's hospital an examination soon showed that life was extinct. The body was then removed to the funeral parlors of Undertakers Thomas Saunders & Co., 522 Merrimack street.

The deceased had not lived in this city for about 15 years. He was born in the vicinity of Broadway and after graduating from the local schools went to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology where he completed a course of electrical engineering and after graduating secured a position as electrician for the Beverly Electric Co.

Later upon the consolidation of the electric with the gas company he was advanced to the position of general superintendent. He was married, several years ago, to a Salem woman, and has one child, a boy, about a year old. His widow and the child live in Beverly. Of late years he had made trips to see his relatives here, an aged mother, Mrs. Mary Hassett, who now lives at 1417 Gorham street; a brother, Fred, employed by the Boston & Northern Street Railway company, another brother, James J. Hassett, employed as a weaver by the Bigelow Carpet company, and one sister. He is survived by another brother, Rev. Arthur Hassett, curate in the cathedral of Trenton, N. J., and another sister, Mrs. James Carey of Boston.

LIVELY BLAZE

IN A HOUSE ON VARNUM AVENUE.

A fire broke out in the house of George F. Falls in Varnum avenue late yesterday afternoon and Mr. Falls succeeded in extinguishing it as he thought, but feeling that he might not have thoroughly extinguished it, telephoned to the central fire station and asked that aid might be sent to the house in order to be sure that the fire was out.

The combination wagon from engine 5 was sent out and an investigation showed that there was a lively fire in progress between the beams. A portion of the flooring was torn away and the fire extinguished. The fire was caused by a defective chimney.

But for the presence of mind of Mr. Falls the fire might have smouldered until late in the night and destroyed the building.

RECEIVER APPOINTED.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8—Judge Adams of the U. S. district court has appointed a receiver in bankruptcy for the assets of the American Knit Goods Mfg. company, whose factory is in Brooklyn. The bond of the receiver was fixed at $150,000. The company was incorporated on July 1, 1902, with a capacity stock of $1,550,000. The liabilities are reported to be about $400,000.

STATE FARM MAN'S QUICK RETURN

Officer Bigelow's Prisoner Released

Judge Pickman presided at the session of the police court this morning and Lieutenant Donaldson appeared as the public prosecutor in the absence of Deputy Welch, who is on his vacation.

John Meehan, a long-haired medicine man from the wild and wooly west, was allowed to go without a fine.

Ellen O'Brien, who has been before the court several times for drunkenness, was fined $6. She appealed.

Three drunks were released.

Thomas Barrett, who was released under the new drunk law, Sunday morning, was before the court again this morning upon the same charge.

Barrett pleaded not guilty to the charge. Officer Gerow testified that he arrested the defendant at 12.30 yesterday, because he was staggering drunk. His breath smelt of liquor, and he was drunk. Officers McClougherty and Coleman said the defendant was drunk.

Barrett was found guilty and given a suspended sentence of four months at the solicitation of his honest wife.

Fred M. Billings, once upon a time one of Lowell's brightest men, and a great ball player, fell from grace yesterday afternoon and wound up with the usual result. He pleaded hard to be let out, but Judge Pickman thought otherwise and Fred will sojourn for 20 days in the stone mansion on Thorndike street.

Louis Libby, a second offender, got a six dollar fine.

John Kennelley and John McFadden owed considerable board money to Hannah M. Sheppard, a boarding house keeper on the Hamilton corporation. Mrs. Sheppard had a lien on the trunks of the two men. A few days ago the two defendants removed the trunks. Last night both were arrested for removing baggage illegally. Both pleaded not guilty in court this morning and said they were ready for trial. The government was not ready and the case goes over until tomorrow.

Patrolman Maloney and Abbott told about the breaking last Sunday morning. The defendant denied the story of the officers. After a lengthy trial he was found guilty and fined six dollars.

MILKMEN FINED.

Victor N. Cluff, charged with violation of the milk law, by selling milk below the standard of 12 per cent. pleaded guilty. Milk Inspector Allen related the circumstances and the defendant was fined $20.

Louis Sincklo with whom Officer Bigelow had considerable trouble on Moody street last night was released with a bandaged head.

BEAT THE MAIL

KENNEDY'S WONDERFUL SPRINT FROM BRIDGEWATER.

James J. Kennedy, a veteran of many a well fought drunk, performed the wonderful stunt of beating the United States mail, Yesterday morning he was released from the state farm at Bridgewater and last night he was arrested and brought to the station on a charge of drunkenness.

This morning Supt. Moffatt received a postal mailed yesterday forenoon informing him of the release of Kennedy from the state farm.

"Well," said Mr. Moffatt, "this beats the record. Here I receive this postal this morning and Kennedy beats it out by arriving here last night."

This morning in court Kennedy pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Patrolman Reilly arrested the man on the Dracut boulevard and says he was so drunk that he could not stand.

Kennedy was found guilty and will be returned to Bridgewater tomorrow.

HE MAY LIVE

GEORGE W KELLY SHOT BY AN UNKNOWN MAN.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Aug. 8—The police were unable today to throw any light on the mystery which surrounds the shooting of George W. Kelly by an unknown man on the outskirts of the city last night. Kelly is at the hospital suffering from three severe scalp wounds, but his recovery is expected.

INDIAN GIRLS

CONSTABLE JONES SAYS THERE IS OPEN TRAFFIC IN THEM.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 8.—A report has been made to the provincial police by Constable Jones, who just returned from the Indian village at Cape Mudge stating that in that settlement, there is open traffic in Indian girls. Jones found a number of well authenticated cases where half breed and quarter breed girls have been recently sold to white men at prices ranging from $50 to $200. A complete investigation will be made by the authorities.

THE PEACE ENVOYS

Receive Great Ovation on Reaching Portsmouth

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 8.—With one of the foreign peace envoys within its gates, and the other three practically at the harbor's mouth, Portsmouth aroused itself this morning to the realization that one of the most important days in its history was actually at hand. The Russian envoy, Mr. Witte, arrived late last night and early this morning a wireless message was received from one of the fleet which left Oyster Bay on Saturday with the other envoys, that the vessels were not far from the Isles of Shoals and that the little fleet would be in the harbor on time.

Like yesterday the day dawned clear and bright and also with indications of considerable heat before the festivities would be concluded.

The streets were not quite so thronged during the early morning hours as at the same time yesterday, but still there was quite a little animation and the soft morning air gently waved the flags and streamers draped about many of the buildings, making an attractive picture to those who strolled up and down the highways and byways of the old seaport.

Portsmouth, the settlement of which dates back to within a few years of the Pilgrims' landing at Plymouth ,for days has had an air of appreciating the importance of the pending conference. With actual coming of the day of meeting, with the envoys at the doors, with the governor and other state dignitaries in readiness to speak their welcome, with the militia arriving to de escort duty and with people thronging into the city, sentiment was changed to positive belief that the event which was about to take place, had no precedent in history. It was the first time that three continents were interested in peace negotiations and it was declared by those interested that if peace were concluded, Portsmouth would take her place in fame with Utrecht and Campoformi.

The postponement of the ceremonies for 24 hours on account of the delay of the arrival of the envoys and the fact that hundreds came here yesterday to be disappointed by the change in arrangements, apparently did not cool the ardor of those who desired to participate in the event. The capacity of the various traffic lines was taxed to the limit by those who desired to visit the city today.

SOLDIERS ARRIVE.

The New Hampshire National Guard began coming in at 8.30. Twelve hundred troops arrived between that hour and 10 o'clock, coming from every section of the state and as they sought breakfast places in the business section there was a bustle and hurry greatly in contrast to the usual sober quietness of the staid old town.

In the harbor the shipping had been dressed for the occasion and several handsome steam yachts with brightly colored signal flags from stem to stern over their masts added a gala appearance to the scene at the navy yard. At the yard the battalion of marines who are to form a guard of honor while the envoys breakfast as the guests of Rear Admiral Mead were on parade in regular uniforms going through the evolutions which were to be their part in the ceremonies. A considerable squad of secret service men arrived in the city this morning and stationed themselves for work according to their carefully prepared plans for forming an effective guard for the safety of the distinguished personages.

ARMY OF CORRESPONDENTS.

FLEET ARRIVES.

The fleet was off the harbor entrance shortly after nine o'clock and at a quarter past that hour was slowly steaming in by the Wentworth. It was but a few moments after half past nine when the vessels dropped anchor off the navy yard.

At that hour the ideal weather conditions had changed slightly. The sky had become somewhat overcast with hazy clouds but a dog-day sultriness was tempered by a cool air from the sea.

At the navy yard the finishing touches were given to have everything ready for the conference, the whole preparations serving also to give to the guests a fine specimen of American comfort. Admiral Meade today imparted the last strictest instructions to insure the perfect secrecy of the meetings and the arrangements are such that the members of the peace commission while within the navy yard will be watched closer than the cardinals during the last conclave for the election of the pope.

The program, as officially mapped out by Third Assistant Secretary of State Peirce, Rear Admiral Meade, commandant of the Portsmouth navy yard, and Governor John McLane, for the official reception of the peace envoys, was carried out without modification or hindrance.

OFFICIAL CALLS.

It was 10 o'clock when Rear Admiral Meade left the navy yard on his launch to make his official calls on the envoys. He first paid his respects to his senior officers and Assistant Secretary Peirce and then to the Russians on board the Mayflower, concluding with a visit to the Japanese mission on board the Dolphin. These calls were made with the usual precision and consumed a half hour. As the admiral left each ship a salute of thirteen guns was given in his honor. The admiral then returned to the navy yard, where a battalion of marines in white uniforms under command of Major Franklin Moses and headed by a United States naval band, was drawn up to receive the envoys. Also at the landing, in full dress uniforms, were the officers in charge of the various departments of the yard who were to assist Rear Admiral Meade in the shore reception of the envoys, which was immediately to follow.

WITTE GREETED.

At 10 o'clock a steam cutter flying the American flag and a Russian flag rounded Henderson's Point and headed for the navy yard. The officers and men stood at "attention." The launch was made fast to the decorated float moored at the sea-wall and as Mr. Witte, the Russian chief Plenipotentiary stepped out, he was formally greeted by the read admiral and his staff.

A launch bearing Ambassador Rosen and party then drew up and greeting was extended to him. As these envoys stepped ashore, the ambassador's salute of nineteen guns was fired.

JAPANESE ARRIVE.

The echoes of the cannon shots were still throbbing over the harbor when the steam cutter with the Japanese envoys aboard hove in sight. The saluting battery again repeated its thunderous salute while the same form of presentation and greeting as had been given the Russians was extended to Baron Komura and Minister Takahira.

The march of the envoys to the scene of their further labors, was then begun, a company of marines lining the path and the band played American national airs. The procession was led by Admiral Meade and M. Witte. Once inside the building the plenipotentiaries and their suites were assigned to their respective rooms where they occupied themselves for a few

IS NOT GUILTY

Mrs. Dube Not a Railer and Brawler

COURT GIVES GOOD ADVICE

Tells Neighbors to Patch Up Troubles

Another case of common railing and brawling occupied the attention of the police court for over an hour this morning, and after the evidence was all in Judge Pickman ordered the defendant Odile Dube discharged.

Odile Dube, a Centralville woman residing on Campaw street, was charged with railing and brawling, and pleaded not guilty. Patrolman Quinn was the first witness for the government and testified that he went to the defendant's house last Froday night and warned her if she did not desist from annoying her neighbors he would have to arrest her.

Lawyer Hammel cross examined the witness at length, and the officer said he had to go to her houre several times.

John George Tucker testified that he lived across the street from the defendant and that the defendant had not talked to him for a year but said she always hollered "epitafs" at him. On the 24th of June she called him an "old Indian." Then she told him to go pay his bills. She never talked to him but she hollered names at him across the street. She called him in French "Le Sauvage" several times.

Noe T. Patinaude lives next to the defendant, and he said she called him, in French, a liar, a thief, a jail bird and other vile names. She continually hollered at him from her window. She said he was a convict and his whole family ought to be in jail. He saw no neighbors around when she was calling him names. The last time she called him names was on the 24th of June.

Bella De Roche testified that she could not come home a night without the defendant putting up the window and calling out names at her. On the 23rd of June the witness was playing around the yard when the defendant called out to her to go home for it would be better for her. The defendant also called her a vile name.

One night when the witness was coming home with a friend the defendant called her a low dirty name.

Mrs. Josephine Patinaude who resides at 16 Campaw street testified that on the 24th of June the defendant called her an "old scamp" a "tale bearer," "an old beer barrel." Since the first of January every time the defendant saw the witness she either called her names or made faces at her. She called her names four times since the first of January.

The witness lives on the other side of the road from Mrs. Dube about 30 feet.

To Lawyer Hammel she said that outside of those words she and the defendant had not spoken.

DEFENCE.

Six witnesses were sworn for the defence. Mrs. Dube testified in her own behalf and said she had lived on Campaw street for seven years. She had not spoken to the DeRoches for three years and the Patinaude for four years. She never cried out anything to them, because she had not spoken to them at all. Her conduct in her house was peaceful and quiet. She has been sick for five years, and under the care of a physicin for that length of time. She never swore at Mrs. DeRoche. She did not call anybody vile names. In relation to Bella DeRoche she said she had some words but that Bella called her a drunkard and a gin drinker.

Mrs. Elsie Patinaude testified that she has lived on Campaw street for one year. She was always in her house right next to Mrs. Dube and she's always found her a perfect lady. It was very quiet in Mrs. Dube's house. She never heard a word, never heard any noise from either side.

Mr. Miller Bellfontaine lived on Campaw street for a numbe rof years, and always found Mrs. Dube a perfect lady, a good woman and a good mother.

Judge Pickman stopped the case at this point. His honor said he had allowed the case to drift on in order to get the atmosphere of the situation. It was nothing out of the ordinary to find in a neighborhood like the one in question, and occasional outbreak among the children or the neighbors. The statute requires it to be "common railing and brawling," that is hobitual, so as to disturb the neighborhood and be a nuisance.

His honor did not think the evidence sufficient in this case to show common railing and brawling. He advised the parties on both sides to return to their respective homes, not with a view that Mrs. Dube had won a victory, but with a view of becoming good friends. The defendant was then found not guilty and discharged.

STRIKE OVER

RAILROAD OFFICIALS SAY ALL OFFICES BUT ONE IS OPENED.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 8.—According to Supt. Weymouth of the Seattle division of he Northern Pacific and Supt. Scott of the Cascade division of the Great Northern railway the telegrapher's strike is practically over. The former states that every office on the Seattle division of the Northern Pacific road save one is now in operation and that the company has all the operators it wants.

Supt. Scott, with headquarters at Everett, stated that every station, north of Everett, except Lockport, is supplied with an operator. Supt. Scott said also that the strikers are manifesting a willingness to go back to work.

DIED FROM PARALYSIS.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 8.—C. H. Prescott, a capitalist of this city and at one time prominent in railroad circles died last night as the result of a stroke of paralysis, which occurred six weeks ago. Mr. Prescott was born in Boston in 1839 and entered the railway business in 1869. He was at one time auditor and cashier of the Missouri river, Fort Scott and Gulf R. R., and at different times manager of the Oregon R. R. and navigation company and second vice president of the Northern Pacific company. When the latter road went into the hands of a receiver in 1893, Mr. Prescott, was appointed receiver of the western division. Of late years he has been the trustee of Boston, Mass., capitalists, who have large holdings of real estate in Portland.

DEATHS

CHURCH WRECKED

St. Thomas' in New York Destroyed by Fire

Valuable Paintings and Bas Reliefs Were Lost—John D. Rockefeller's Home Was in Danger—The Damage is Estimated at $250,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—St. Thomas Episcopal church at Fifth avenue and 53rd street, one of the most richly furnished religious edifices in America, was wrecked by fire today. Within a block of the ruined church are the homes of half a score of the country's wealthiest men. On 54th street, directly in the rear is the city residence of John D. Rockefeller and nearby are the residences of Wm. Rockefeller, H. McKay Twombley, Col. J. J. McCook and the home of the late Daniel S. Lamont. The hotel St. Regis is scarcely one block away and scores of the finest city homes in America are in the section of which St. Thomas church was practically the centre. The fire was confined to the church.

Defective electric wiring is supposed to have started the fire. The loss is estimated by Fire Chief Croker as at least a quarter of a milliondollars. Only a mere shell of stone walls was left standing and paintings and bas reliefs worth many thousands of dollars were ruined. A bronze bas relief called "The adornation of the cross," executed by Augustus St. Gaudens and valued at $50,000, was totally destroyed. Sumptuous altar and chancel furnishings, including a $20,000 organ, were destroyed by the fire.

For a time John D. Rockefeller's home was in danger. Firemen stood in the windows of Mr. Rockefeller's home and concentrated the streams of water on the 265-foot stone tower of the church which for a time threatened to topple over on the Rockefeller home.

A dramatic incident, the ringing of a big bell in the tower, marked the close of this struggle just at the moment when the firemen had succeeded in saving the surrounding homes from the impending danger. The peril was greatest when the roof of the church fell in. This shock shook the great tower to its top.

The on-lookers shrank back, but the only sign the tower gave of the tremendous impact of the falling roof was one stroke from the clapper of a shaken bell.

The church was closed for the summer, with pastor and parishioners nearly all out of town. Only little more than an hour preceding the fall of the roof, the smoke was first seen curling out of the tightly closed edifice, and by the time the first engine had arrived, flames were everywhere breaking from the windows.

The church has stood on its present site for 50 years and has been the scene of some of America's most brilliant weddings, including that of May Goelet to the Duke of Roxburgh. The Rev. Ernest M. Stires is the rector.

SUDDEN DEATH

Of Bridget Fleming of Merrimack St.

Bridget Fleming, an old resident of this city, died suddenly this morning at her home, 362 Merrimack street. She was in what appeared to be the best of health. Heart failure was the cause of death.

She is survived by a brother in Boston. The remains were removed to the funeral parlors of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

MINOR ACCIDENTS.

NEEDLE IN HAND.

Edward Buckley, residing in No. Billerica, while at work at the Talbot mills this morning, had a needle run through the palm of his left hand. He was taken to the Emergency hospital, where the needle was removed and the wound dressed.

IN CUSTODY

Charged With Poisoning Several Persons

OWINGSVILLE, Ky., Aug. 7.—Mrs. Julia McGraw will be placed on trial at the next term of the Menifee county court, at Frenchburg, for the alleged poisoning to death of Mrs. Martha Yocum, 55, and the serious poisoning of Mrs. Silas Bowling and two women named Botts.

Mrs. McGraw, her husband and children, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Bowling, Mrs. Yocum and the Botts women lived in the McCauney neighborhood of Menifee county prior to last August. One evening last August Mrs. Silas Bowling went to the home of Mrs. Yocum and the Botts women to make a call. Soon afterward Mrs. McGraw arrived. She was very friendly, and insisted on preparing supper for all. The women consented and Mrs. McGraw cooked an appetizing meal, which included a big pot of coffee.

All the women, except Mrs. McGraw, drank of the coffee, and soon afterward all, with the same exception, became ill. Mrs. Yocum succumbed to her illness, but the other women recovered.

The fact that all the women had become ill at a meal prepared by Mrs. McGraw, who was not affected and who had not partaken of the coffee, caused suspicion, and the contents of the coffee pot were sent to a Lexington chemist for examination. He analyzed the coffee grounds, and announced that they contained enough arsenic to kill several persons.

Mrs. McGraw was arrested, charged with the poisoning. She protested her innocence, and was released on bond.

Silas Bowling became ill suddenly last February, and died the next day. A few days later a family living in the neighborhood were suddenly taken ill after drinking from a bucket of water. An examination of the bucket showed that a large quantity of arsenic had been placed therein.

MET IN TAUNTON

Lowell Men Honored by Spanish War Vets

The annual convention of the United Spanish War Veterans was held in Odd Fellows' hall, Taunton, Saturday and was called to order at 1.30 p. m., there being a full attendance of delegates. After the transaction of the regular business a recess was taken at 2.30 o'clock until 5.30, and during the interim the delegates were shown through the Taunton court house, the insane asylum and other places of interest in the city. Lunch was then served, after which the election of officers was held, with the following result:

573 FEVER CASES

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 7.—New yellow fever cases in New Orleans up to noon today, four; total cases, 573; deaths, up to noon, three. Total deaths 108.

Dr. H. J. White, of the federal forces, took charge of the fever situation in New Orleans shortly before noon today on final instructions from Washington. A decrease in the number of new cases and sub foci over Sunday and up to noon in New Orleans is a hopeful indication that the strenuous work is at last bringing results. Two deaths, both of Italians, occurred in the Emergency hospital early in the day and another was reported from Jefferson Parish, across the river and just above New Orleans.

The last vessel of the Louisiana naval brigade has returned to New Orleans from the Rigolets and no further misunderstandings as to scope of authority is apprehended.

NEW ORLEANS

WILL FACE CRISIS IN YELLOW FEVER SITUATION SOON.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—According to Brig. Gen. Arsene Perrilliatt, chief of ordnance of Louisiana, it will be five days before New Orleans will face a crisis in the yellow fever situation, Gen. Perrilliatt arrived here from the south last night.

"New Orleans is suffering more from commercial anxiety," said he, "but residents of the city feel that the health officials and the various committees, aided by the federal authorities, will cope with the fever. In the meantime business in that section of the state is at a standstill.

"Unfair discrimination is being made against Louisiana by other states, and her commercial interests are suffering in consequence.

"The city is opposed to the parishes and the parishes are arrayed against one another with "shot gun" quarantines.

"The mosquito which carries the disease breeds in clean stagnant water. New York is safe, I am sure.

"By this time New Orleans is protected.

"The exodus from New Orleans is a little more than usual at this time of the year. While commercial interests are paralyzed now, I think that the situation will clear within two weeks. We will stamp out the disease."

Sir Patrick Metson, K. C. M. G., medical adviser to the British colonial office, who is here on his way to San Francisco, declares that mosquitoes are among the greatest curses of mankind.

"We are yet in the infancy," he said, "of the discoveries of the transmission of such diseases by insects, but in the matter of yellow fever infection all credit should be given to the Yankees, who went ahead of our eminent men and demonstrated that the stegomyia, was the vehicle that caused all the trouble.

"If there is not there should be a law in every state making it a criminal offense of high degree to fail to report immediately the prevalence of yellow fever cases. The slightest attempt at concealment by a physician should be followed by summary punishment."

HELD AS A SPY

Prince Henry Placed Under Arrest

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—Prince Frederich Henry, eldest son of Prince Albrecht of Prussia, was arrested as a spy by the guards at the East Battery in Swinemunde, Pomrana, Saturday. The prince was in ordinary dress and was photographing the environs of the fort. When apprehended he said he was Prince Friedrich Henry, but the guards told him they were "not to be fooled." The prince went quietly with one of the guards to the commandant of the fortress, who recognized him and ordered his release.

The sentinels have been specially alert because of the arrest last week of an American accused of spying. The Austrian was photographing with a strong camera parts of the fortress from a neighboring light house.

CHURCH GUARDED

"Reds" Made Threat to Use Dynamite

BOSTON, Aug. 7.—With policemen guarding the Roman Catholic Italian church building in North square against threats made by anarchists, the North End police force is watching closely the 200 odd members of the "Reds" who have arrived in the city during the past week to attend the secret conferences with local and Lynn members of the fraternity.

The priests in charge of the church have been told that any interference with the anarchists will result in the dynamiting of the church, and they were speedily granted the police protection asked.

The Paterson members of the organization have been distributing tracts and other documents among the North End Italians, most of whom cordially detest the plans of the Reds and who told the police.

Patrolmen Walsh, Cronin and Leonard yesterday caught four of the anarchists passing their tracts and stopped them.

The police have been instructed to arrest promptly any person who violates either public statute or municipal ordinance in the slightest degree, and to take no chances with the strangers.

SAVAGE DOGS

ATTACKED WOMAN WHO HAD A THRILLING ESCAPE.

DANBURY, Conn., Aug. 7.—Attacked by a pack of savage dogs, her clothing half stripped from her body and her flesh lacerated in many places, Mrs. Milton T. Van Keuren, wife of a marketman of this city, had a thrilling battle for her life yesterday within a stone's throw of her home in Smith street. She owes her escape from more serious injury and perhaps from death to the pluck of Miss Mary E. Knapp, a neighbor, who ran to her assistance.

PRISONERS OF WAR

ARE BEING TRANSPORTED TO JAPAN.

TOKIO, Aug. 7.—The disposition of the convicts on Sakhalin island is now under consideration. They will probably be taken to the Russian coast and will there be transferred to the Russian authorities.

Under arangement, the Russian prisoners of war on the island, 40,000 in all, are being transported to Japan.

TORPEDO BOAT LAUNCHED.

TOKIO, Aug. 7.—The torpedo boat destroyer Yaylo was successfully launched at Yokosuka today. Her dimensions and armament are similar to the class of destroyers now in course of construction at the navy yards of Japan.

GENERAL STRIKE

Bridge Workers Have Been Ordered Out

CLEVELAND, Aug. 8.—The Plain Dealer today says:

"Orders were issued Monday morning from the headquarters of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers by Secretary J. J. McNamara for a general strike against the American Bridge company from Maine to California.

"It is estimated that between 15,000 and 20,000 bridge and structural iron workers will quit work. Bridge work will be tied up in many parts of the country and a number of big building projects will be delayed. The strike of the iron workers when it comes will affect thousands in the building industry.

"The general strike, according to Secretary McNamara, is the outcome of trouble between the union and the American Bridge company over the sub-letting of a contract to a Boston concern which the union claims is 'unfair.' A three thousand ton contract for bridge work was let to the American Bridge company by the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad under the impression that the company would employ union bridge and structural iron workers. It was said that the company refused to consider the New Haven organization of bridge and structural iron workers and sub-let the work to the Boston concern.

"No satisfactory adjustment was made and President Buchanan of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers put the question of a general strike up to the general executive board of the union. The votes of the members of the board were sent to the Cleveland headquarters. It was stated by Mr. McNamara that all were in favor of a general strike."

IN BOSTON

NATIONAL C. T. A. U. MAY HOLD NEXT CONVENTION.

WILKESBARRE, Penn., Aug. 8—The advance guard of the New England delegation to the national convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence union arrived last night. Only two Boston men have reported so far. The other delegates stopped over en route and will be joined by the Philadelphia delegation, reaching here today. The Boston delegation will have their headquarters at the Wyoming Valley house.

There is some talk of holding the next convention in Boston, but until the Boston delegation is heard from on the matter the delegates will not commit themselves.

The last two conventions were held in the west and it is not likely that a western city will be chosen again. Some of the smaller towns where the Catholic temperance sentiment is strong would like to have the convention, but owing to the great expense they have no chance of being selected. The Pennsylvania delegates are said to favor Boston.

The visit of President Roosevelt on Thursday, when he will address the delegates, has overshadowed to a great extent the official program of the convention. The city is gayly decorated, and Mr. Roosevelt's picture is everywhere.

SWEPT BY FIRE

$500,000 Damage Done by Blaze

DOCKS AND FERRY-BOATS RUINED

Hotel an Easy Prey to Flames

NEW YORK, Aug. 8—Inside of three quarters of an hour late last night, fire swept away the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad company's terminal in Hoboken, seized upon two ferry boats and practically ruined them, and for half an hour threatened a conflagration of the entire water front in the vicinity, including the big Hamburg-American and North German Lloyd steamship docks at which several big ships were lying. The property damage is estimated at from $100,000 to $500,00. So far as known, no lives were lost.

For over an hour huge tongues of flames leaped from the wooden structures on the Lackawanna docks, lighting the New Jersey and New York water fronts. For a time it promised a loss greater than that of the big dock fire of several years ago when the North German Lloyd piers were destroyed with a great loss of life. Blazing ferryboats, cut from their docks floated in the river, wandering fireships which for a time endangered shipping in the river.

The fire started on an old wooden ferryboat and swept by a northerly breeze, communicated with the ferry house, spread to the main building of the Lackawanna and then to the Duke's house, a famous Hoboken hostelry. The hotel was a frame structure and was an easy prey to the flames.

By this time the flames were spreading in all directions, utterly beyond the control of the first fire fighters who had responded to the first alarms.

Following the hotel the structure of the public service corporation, the street car operating company of Hoboken, N. J., and nearby places, went down before the flames.

At 1 o'clock this morning the fire was under control the big steamship piers having been saved and a rough estimate placed the loss at nearly half a million dollars.

A remarkable feature of the great blaze was that inside of twenty minutes after its start it had seized upon the Lackawanna's terminal and swept its 600 feet of train sheds, dooming them.

The flames started from an unknown cause on the old wooden ferryboat Hohacong which had been tied up in the open slip between the Hamburg docks and the Chester street ferry slip. The fire was discovered about 11 o'clock. It was then leaping from the boiler room below the main deck through the engine room and attacking the wooden superstructure.

A watchman on the ferry dock turned in calls for the fire department and also for the Lackawanna fire brigade. Almost before the company's men could lay a line of hose and before the city firemen could reach the scene, the flames had leaped to the ferry office building between the piers and then to the brand new ferry boat Binghamton, which was lying in the northern slip of the Barclay street line. From these it leaped in a few seconds to the high frame structure above the waiting rooms and in five minutes after the fire was first seen, the entire buildings, covering many acres, were burning. Ten minutes later the high tower, which surmounted the building, crashed down. Twenty minutes after the alarm it looked as if the entire lower part of Hoboken including the Hamburg piers, would go.

There were four slips with high pilings and these burned fiercely and sent the fire southward into the freight piers.

These had been destroyed for the most part by a great fire on May 29, 1904 and had just been rebuilt.

From the waiting room the flames leaped into the train shed and so rapid was the spread there that engines which were drawing out the cars for use in the morning had to be hurried out. Seven coaches were left behind, but there had been time enough to save about sixty others.

The two burning ferryboats were towed into the stream by tugs. The Hohacong sank later. The Hohacong when she took fire was tied against the Hamburg-American dock No. 3. The flames licked the sides of the pier but did not set it on fire.

The wind was blowing lightly from the north and that carried the flames on the Hohacong away from the pier and into the superstructure of the ferry terminal.

Fire aid was early summoned from Jersey City and New York, the former city sending all available engines and the latter despatching two fire boats. With the aid of the extra engines the Hoboken firemen were able to prevent the fire from spreading through lower Hoboken, while the fireboats held the flames in check along the water front.

While the fire was held by the firemen to the north and west, it was spreading along the freight piers to the southward, where only tugs and fireboats from Manhattan could attack it. Here it caught the new immigration station. This building was of brick and stone and had been occupied only two weeks. It cost $70,000 to build and was supposed to be fireproof, but was soon a mass of fire, the interior burning rapidly. Only a few persons were in it at the time of the outbreak and they were hurried out.

Just as the alarm was given the men on the railroads terminal bridge were making ready for the arrival of boats from New York. The captains of the approaching ferryboats, however saw the fire and stopped their heavily loaded craft.

The railroad company had arranged to run its trains into its yards outside the burned district tomorrow. Thousands of persons saw the fire from the docks and buildings off Manhattan. The crowds became so great that it was necessary to turn out the police reserves. An alarm was turned in from Manhattan and Chief Croker ordered the fire boats New Yorker and McClellan to the scene.

The blaze in the Hohacong spread so rapidly that when she got out into the river and began to slowly move up stream she was burning from end to end. The ferryboat Binghamton was pushed over towards Christopher street, where she was beached.

The ferry boat Musconetcong, loaded with several hundred passengers was reported to have had a narrow escape, just backing out and missing the bursting Hohacong.

MAN OBJECTS

OFFICER BIGELOW INSISTS, BAD HEAD THE RESULT.

Officer Bigelow, while making his rounds in lower Moody street, last evening, encountered two pretty tough characters, who were decidedly under the influence of liquor. The officer placed both men under arrest. The prisoners were inclined to object and one made good his objections by escaping.

The other declined to go with the officer, and absolutely refused to be handcuffed. The usual forcible argument was used by the officer, and when the prisoner arrived at the police station the city physician, Dr. Forster Smith had to be called to sew up the wounds in the prisoner's head. Bigelow's past experience may perhaps excuse his severity in this case.

POPE PIUS

SAYS ROOSEVELT IS ENTITLED TO THANKS OF CIVILIZED WORLD.

ROME, Aug. 8.—The pope yesterday received in private audience Edward J. Sullivan, American consul at Trebizond, Turkey, and E. Martin, his secretary. The pope was most cordial and sent his salutations to President Roosevelt.

He expressed the most fervent desire that peace would be concluded between Russia and apan, and said that President Roosevelt was entitled to the thanks of the whole civilized world for his efforts to bring the bloody conflict to a close.

IRISH LEAGUE

WILL GIVE REDMOND A GREAT WELCOME.

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—A special joint meeting of the Boston Central Branch and Boston Central Council of the United Irish League of America will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the American house to commence arrangements for a reception in Boston to the Hon. William Redmond, M. P. for East Clare, who is now on his way from Australia to San Francisco, and who will visit Boston Sept. 14.

It is planned to give Mr. Redmond a splendid welcome. Immediately after his last visit to Boston, three years ago, Mr. Redmond was sentenced to a term of six months' imprisonment in Kidmainham jail, Dublin, because of his energy in the national movement.

Mr. Redmond sailed from Sydney July 31 on the steamer Ventura, and is due in San Francisco Aug. 21. A committee consisting of the most representative Irish citizens of San Francisco is engaged in preparing a welcome for the distinguished Irish representative, and there is no doubt that his welcome will be a hearty one.

Mr. Redmond has consented to visit Boston when he comes east, and the United Irish league of Boston and vicinity will arrange an out-door welcome for him at the American League baseball grounds, Huntington avenue, on Thursday, Sept. 14.

CRUSHED TO DEATH

Adams College Student Was Caught in Shafting

ADAMS, MASS., AUG. 7.—WHILE INSTALLING LOOMS IN THE BASEMENT OF THE JACQUARD COTTON MILL OF THE RENFEW MFG. CO., TODAY, HERBERT P. YURKEE, 19 YEARS OLD, WAS CAUGHT IN A SWIFTLY MOVING BELT AND ALMOST INSTANTLY CRUSHED TO DEATH. YURKEE WAS A STUDENT AT ADAMS COLLEGE AND WAS WORKING IN THE MILL DURING HIS VACATION.

LID ON TIGHT

Chicago Determined to Catch Criminals

CHICAGO, Aug. 7—Fifty picked detectives, formed into a flying squadron, scoured Chicago for seven hours last night and this morning. They began at 7 p. m. and did not finish until 2 a. m. They found the lid on tight. Gambling houses and pool rooms were deserted. Leves saloon keepers were on their good behavior and offered the courtesies of a guide over their establishments. The thugs and hold-up men operated only in spots, far frm othe sound of the squadron's dashing movements. It was Colrons' eleventh day and lawbreakers apparently had decided he was in earnest.

The squadrons, divided into sets of four or five men each in charge of an experienced sergeant, made dashes through the south, north, west and northwest districts looking for whom they might seize. Their catch was not impressive. Swift descents were made on the resorts, but empty chairs and tables covered with a week's accumulation of dust confronted the disappointed detectives. One squad, in an excess of zeal, confiscated a lot of chairs and green covered tables at 112 Madison street but the others were contented to report that the games for the present were closed.

MARSHAL OYAMA

Says War Will Soon be Over

LIDIAPUDZE, Manchuria, Aug. 7.—It is rumored among the Chinese that Field Marshal Oyama declared at Chingtufu that the war would soon be over and that the Chinese would soon be able to devote themselves to agricultural pursuits. The Russians have adopted precautionary measures to prevent the communication of cholera from the Japanese army.

KING NEEDS REST

Crown Prince Will be Appointed Regent

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 7.—King Oscar is leaving the capital in search of quiet and rest and Crown Prince Gustave will again be appointed regent. The king today issued the following proclamation:

"As, on the advice of my doctors, I must for some time seek quiet, fresh air and the baths in order to once more, with God's help, to find health and strength after the strenuous time so trying to body and mind, through which I have passed in consequence of trials that I have been subjected to in the last few months, I wish to hand over the reins of government to my son, the crown prince, and before leaving the capital, to renew the thanks to the Swedish people which I have previously expressed.

"I cannot sufficiently emphasize how dear to me the many proofs of love and sympathy which I have received from many directions have been and how great a consolation they have been to me for the loss of a people whom I wished with all my heart to unite with my Swedish people."

THE STATE POLICE

Investigating Death of Two Women

WORCESTER, Aug. 7—The Post this afternoon will say:

State Detective Peleg F. Murray, is in Warren today investigating the deaths of Mrs. Lyman R. Hawkes and her guest, Miss Anna Skipper, 17 years old, both of whom, Mrs. Hawkes' husband said were burned to death in the fire that destroyed his house and barn early Thursday morning last. The medical examiner, Dr. E. W. Norwood of Spencer said today that he would report the woman and girl met death under suspicious circumstances.

D. M. Hawkes' story of the fatality is that he was unable to rescue them because he had been kicked by a horse that he was trying to save from the flames. He quickly recovered from his injury.

FAVOR A STRIKE

Officers of Bridge Workers So Vote

CLEVELAND, Aug. 7.—"Five of the seven members of the executive board of the International association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers have voted in favor of a strike against the American Bridge company," said Secretary J. J. McNamara today. "The strike is contingent upon the action that may be taken by President Frank Buchanan. He is in Chicago but we expect that he will arrive in Cleveland by Tuesday. I have not the least idea that he will go against the vote of the executive board; that being so, a strike, in my opinion is inevitable."

If the Structural Iron Workers are called out on account of the grievances that exist at New Haven, Conn., it is said that 50,000 men will be involved, mostly in the eastern states.

HIGH TRIBUTE

Japanese Official Praises Russian Officers

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

TOKIO, July 9.—An officer of the naval staff has made a statement in which he pays high tribute to some of the Russian officers participating in the battle of the Sea of Japan. His statement follows:

"There were several Russian officers whose conduct in the recent battle deserves to be held high as a model and example for all naval officers. Among them the most noteworthy was the conduct of Captain Rodinoff, commander of the Nakhimoff. His gallantry is as praiseworthy as that of Commander Hirose. During the first day of the battle the Nakhimoff was exposed to the fire of our main squadron and sustained serous damage.

During the night she was made the object of severe torpedo attack and finally, completely disabled, drifted close to Tshshima. The vessel was sinking and Captain Rodinoff sent seventy of the crew to land at Tsushima, remaining aboard himself with his chief navigator. When the Japanese approached the sinking vessel they asked the captain to leave the vessel, but he refused. The Japanese boarded the vessel and endeavored to drag him into a boat, but he resisted.

The ship was listing badly and threatened momentarily to plunge into the sea. The Japanese were forced to draw off and the captain went below, there to meet his death. Suddenly the ship went down and our men thought the gallant officer was drowned. But providence willed otherwise. We found the captain and navigator floating in the water locked in each other's arms. They had embraced at what they thought was the moment of death and were partly unconscious when we rescued them.

There was a dramatic scene when the Monomach went down. The Sado Maru which survived the remarkable experience with the Vladivostok squadron in which the Hitachi Maru was sunk came upon some of the crew of the Monomach and rescued them. Among them, was an engineer officer, who died and the officers of the Sado Maru gave him a military funeral from the deck. Later the Sado picked up the Monomach and getting a line to her endeavored to tow her to Tsushima. The Monomach was leaking badly and the attempt to tow her was a failure. Suddenly there was a great explosion aboard the Monomach and she began to settle in the water. Seeing that she was going down, Captain Kamaya ordered the men of the Sado Maru to line the decks and calling the buglers directed them to sound taps. It was a pretty tribute to the ship which had been gallantly fought and to the men who gave up their lives in her.

SENT TO JOLIET

Salvation Army Lass Begins Sentence

CHICAGO, Aug. 7—Inga Hanson, the Salvation Army girl, convicted of perjury in connection with a personal injury suit brought by her against the Chicago City railway was taken to the penitentiary at Joliet today to begin an indeterminate sentence. Since her trial several months ago, Miss Hanson has been confined in the Cook county jail hospital, claiming to be still suffering from the effects of a paralytic stroke resulting from her injuries.

GIRL A SUICIDE

Heiress Was Tired of Life

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—Miss Elizabeth Burgess, daughter of the late William Burgess of Mattoon, Ill., an heiress to half of a fortune of $500,000, climbed through a porthole of the steamer Manitou, en route to Mackinac, and drowned herself. The body was not recovered. Miss Emily Burgess, sister of the suicide, is at the home of Mrs. Alfred Goods, 201 Munroe avenue. Miss Burgess had been under treatment for melancholia at a sanatorium in Kenilworth. Her mother died within a year after the death of Mr. Burgess.

Miss Emily Burgess decided that her sister's condition was such that a trip to Mackinac would improve her health. Although the sick girl said little to arouse suspicion, her sister locked the door of the stateroom that night and placed the key under her pillow. Elizabeth Burgess slept in the upper berth.

When Emily Burgess awoke in the morning she climbed on a stool to awaken her sister. She clutched what looked like the sleeping form of a woman, but found it was a pile of clothing and pillows.

The purser searched the room and found the following note:

"I am tired of life. I have nothing to live for. Don't grieve for me. Good-by, Elizabeth."

KOSHER BAKERS

TROUBLE EXPECTED BY POLICE

Strikers Want a Ten Hour Day

NEW YORK, Aug. 7—With thousands of Hebrews out of bread on the East Side owing to a strike of "Kosher" Journeymen bakers, much trouble is expected by the police in the district affected. Reserves patrolled the streets all night to preserve order. A great effort, will be made today by the journeymen to bring about a real bread famine in the hope that this will win the strike.

The strikers say they are determined to remain out of employment until a ten hour work day is granted. They say they are 1200 strong and that the bosses cannot go on without them. The bosses however, say they will soon have enough non union bakers if they can depend upon police protection. The strikers at a meeting last night appointed a committee to wait on Acting Mayor Farnes today and demand police protection. They said the police on Saturday night had clubbed many of their number. The police say the strike is hard to handle, as the people sympathize with the strikers and assaults on non-union men, are numerous.

DISMISSED

INDICTMENT AGAINST LATHROP WAS DEFECTIVE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7—The charge of manslaughter, pending against the Christian Science Reader John C. Lathrop, of the First Church of Christ of New York City since 1902, was dismissed today by County Judge Platt, of White Plains. Lathrop was called to attend seven year old Esther Quimby, who was ill with diphtheria and whose life was not saved. Judge Platt decided that the indictment was defective.

STEAMER HELD

TO SEE IF IT IS INFECTED WITH YELLOW FEVER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7—The steamer Comus from New Orleans was stopped at quarantine today and will be held there with 28 passengers and a crew of 66, until a period of five days out of the port of New Orleans has elapsed. This is the time limit for yellow fever infection to show itself. The Comus' five days will be up tonight and no medical examination of those on the vessel will be made until the time limit is passed.

YACHTS SAIL

CONVOYS ON THEIR WAY TO PORTSMOUTH.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 7—The yachts Mayflower and Dolphin, and their convoys, bearing the members of the Russian and Japanese commissions, sailed for Portsmouth, N. H., at 7.55 o'clock this morning.

With the exception of Mr. Witte, who left for Boston by special train last night, the members of the Russian and Japanese parties remained on board their respective vessels during the night. The fog which hung heavily over Long Island Sound yesterday and which made necessary the stop at this port, was burned away by the sun this morning and the conditions were ideal for continuing the voyage to Portsmouth.

Shortly after the departure of the fleet, the Dolphin picked up the wireless station and sent a large number of despatches which are to be cabled to Japan. The Dolphin reported excellent weather outside. A message was also received stating that the police commissioners had had a restful night and were enjoying the sail.

FRENCH FLEET

IS GUEST OF THE BRITISH NAVY.

COWES, Isle of Wight, Aug. 7—The French fleet consisting of eighteen battleships, cruisers and torpedo boat destroyers, under the command of Vice Admiral Caillard dropped anchor in the Solent this afternoon to spend a week as guests of King Edward and the British navy The clerk of the weather threw somewhat of a damper on the occasion, heavy down pours throughout the morning drenching the decorations ashore and afloat, shrouding the great gathering of yachts and British warships, collected to welcome the visitors in a heavy mist.

ANOTHER TRAIN

ADDED TO SERVICE BETWEEN LOWELL AND LAWRENCE.

Through the efforts of Mayor Casey the following schedule has been arranged:

Boston & Maine Railroad,
President's Office,
Boston, August 4th, 1905.

My Dear Mr. Mayor:—

I have arranged to add a new train between Lowell and Lawrence beginning tomorrow, Saturday, to leave Lowell at 1.15 p. m., and arrive at South Lawrence at 1.48 and North Lawrence at 1.55 p. m.; returning, the train will leave North Lawrence at 2 p. m., and arrive at Lowell at 2.35 p. m. This will give close connections with our Western Division train No. 63 for Portland, and it will be run until the 15th of September.

In the arrangement of our winter time table we shall endeavor to keep up this connection in some way.

Yours truly,
LUCIUS TUTTLE, President.

Hon. J. B. Casey,
Mayor of Lowell.

BIG LIQUOR RAID

Large Amount Seized at York Beach

YORK BEACH, Aug. 7 A successful raid was made [illegible] morning, when several gallons of [illegible] and beer were seized at the Monta[illegible] House on Long Beach By Deputy Sheriff [illegible] Preble and a corps of assistants.

At 11 o'clock Deputy [illegible] E. J. Littlefield of Kennebunkport [illegible] Clark of Kennebunkport and [illegible] Clark of Ogunquit entered [illegible] unnoticed, and placed the [illegible] Joseph Marcotte of Dover, [illegible] arrest.

Deputy Sheriff [illegible] and Policeman Frank P. Leavitt, [illegible] were known by the inmates of the [illegible] and remained secreted in a closet [illegible] close by. These two officers [illegible] called upon the scene, and under the direction of Sheriff Preble, a search was begun.

In one of the [illegible] the first floor, a party of men from [illegible] and the neighboring cities and towns comprising several of the most successful business men of this locality, was found seated at a table. Before them were several bottles of ale and lager and there was sufficient evidence of drinking. Many of the men were caught in the act of emptying their glasses, while several others were making ineffectual attempts to hide the liquors in various parts of the room.

After the officers had secured the several bottles of whisky and beer, and the revelers were safely locked in the room under the watchful care of two of the officers, a full search was completed.

On the grounds adjoining the house, in pigpens and marshes, gallons upon gallons of liquors were found. The officers went so far as to search under every rock or mound within a radius of 100 yards from the house, but no more liquor was found.

The visitors to the house were released upon their own recognizance. They will appear as witnesses at the session of court.

This is the first successful raid accomplished in the town of York for years, where so many well-known business men are involved, barring the famous cockpit raid and trial by Sheriff Atherne.

A WARRANT

FOR THE ARREST OF CITY CLERK BOOTHBY.

BERLIN, N. H., Aug. 7.—Frederick Barrows has been appointed by the local court keeper for Wilbon A. Boothby, city clerk and treasurer who is accused of having falsified his accounts. Mr. Boothby is at present confined to his home from the effects, it is said, of an overdose of morphine, which it is alleged he took when an expert accountant found wrong entries in the city's books. A warrant was issued for Boothby's arrest on Saturday and was served late last night by Deputy Sheriff John B. Noyes of Coos county, but, on account of the accused man's weakened condition, it was thought best not to attempt to remove him to jail immediately and a keeper was placed in charge of him until the prisoner is strong enough to be removed from his bed for a hearing in the court house.

The United States Fidelity and Guaranty company of Baltimore, which furnished Boothby's bonds, have been notified by the local police of a shortage in his accounts and a representative of the Boston agent of the company was expected today to investigate. On his arrival it was expected he would swear out another warrant against Boothby. Mr. Boothby's bond with the company is $15,000 and this is expected to cover the supposed shortage in the city treasurer's account. The accountant at work on the books has not yet found just what amount the alleged shortage will reach, but it is thought to be between $7000 and $10,000.

BLIND AND MUTE

FISHERMAN STRICKEN WHILE ON A TRIP.

BOSTON, Aug. 7.—Still unconscious and lying in a precarious condition at the City Hospital, the fisherman, Daniel McCarthy, who was brought in from the fishing grounds on the schooner Frances Whalen, Captain William Hogan, sacrificing a big haul in an attempt to save the man's life, has not yet been claimed by his friends. The case is puzzling the doctors at the hospital, and they have come to no conclusion as to the cause of the man's sudden illness.

Members of the crew of the schooner state that McCarthy appeared to be suddenly struck blind, deaf and dumb. He was in the best of health just prior to taking up his work of setting trawls in the dory.

Captain Hogan was busy yesterday trying to find the friends of the unfortunate fishermen, but up to a late hour his efforts had not been successful.

HIS HAND INJURED

Webster Met With Painful Injury

H. L. Webster, aged 40 years and residing at 457 Gorham street, while at work for the Lowell Gas Light Co., had his left hand caught between two stones this afternoon, causing lacerations and incised wounds of the second, third and fourth fingers.

He was taken to the Emergency hospital, where the injured members were dressed.

CAUGHT IN PICKER

Man Will Lose Three Fingers

Alexander Kirtland, residing at 17 Cambridge place and employed at the Shaw hosiery met with a painful accident this morning. He was working on a picker machine when he had his left hand caught in the machine, badly mangling all four of the fingers.

The ambulance was summoned and he was removed to St. John's hospital where it is thought that three fingers will have to be amputated.

COMPANY SUED

Because of Death of James Gallagher

Mr. Thomas Gallagher, brother of James Gallagher, who fell to his death while at work on a bridge in Flushing, L. I., has sued the company that had charge of the work.

The charge alleges criminal negligence. Mr. James Owens of this city and Lawyer Straley of New York will prosecute the case.

Mr. Thomas Gallagher went to New York and investigated the circumstances connected with his brother's death, and he has brought suit in consequence of what he learned relative to the accident. Mr. Gallagher would like to make public expression of the hospitality extended him by the Eagles of Flushing.

LOST A FINGER

JOSEPH COYLE CAUGHT HAND IN ICE CUTTER.

Joseph Coyle, residing at 385 School street, had the second and third fingers of his left hand caught in an ice cutter this afternoon, mangling them badly.

He was taken to the Emergency hospital, where it was found necessary to amputate the second and probably the third finger.

IRISH LEAGUE

MEETING CONSIDERS HO FOR THE BEACH.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the United Irish league was held last evening at Hibernian hall, Pres. Connolly in the chair.

The committee of the "Ho for the Beach" picnic reported that the affair promises to surpass anything of its kind ever before attempted. It is estimated that at least fifteen cars will be in line at 7.30 a. m., and a few more will leave at 1.45.

A letter was read from the Lawrence branch of the league intimating that they intended to take this opportunity of meeting their Lowell fellow-leaguers at the beach.

Mr. Michael Connolly was appointed general manager.

Mr. M. A. Lee and Miss Maria Markham, assistants.

It was reported that about $90 worth of beach privileges viz: Free tickets to shows, etc., will be distributed to the paty on the cars. Only those who have the league badge will receive tickets. Badges will be given out at the square. It was decided to invite Mr. O'Callahan and Mr. Fitzpatrick to be present. It was voted to make the Hotel Garland headquarters for the day.

The cars will return from the beach at 7 o'clock except those that go in the afternoon which will leave about 9 o'clock. Nobody can return on the late cars except those who go down on them as every passenger is guaranteed a seat.

SHAFTS BROKEN

COLLINS' HORSE FIGURES IN ANOTHER ACCIDENT.

The horse driven by William Collins when the latter met with an accident near Boylston street yesterday afternoon, figured in another lively episode this afternoon. The horse with John Collins holding the reins was on the way up Gorham street and had reached a point in front of the postoffice when a Boston electric car came along.

The horse took fright and made for the sidewalk. The driver was thrown out but not injured. The horse fell and two of the shafts were broken.

CANOBIE LAKE PARK.

Owing to the great success of the "Yankee Doodle Girl," Fred Hylands' new musical comedy, which the Canobie Lake Opera company has been giving to crowded houses, the management of the New Hampshire Traction company has decided to put it on for another week.

The play is crowded with music of the kind that holds a place in the memory, and the "funny business" of the three comedians is one continuous incentive to laughter, while the acting of the principals, the humorous situations developed, the great scenic and lighting effects, the complete and varied costuming, and the bouquet of pretty girls in the chorus are, what could be expected in a high-priced winter production instead of at the "popular" prices prevailing at the Park.

As a special attraction at Canobie Lake Park this week General Manager Franklin Woodman has engaged, the famous Hardy, the American Blondin, whose feats on a high wire surpass those of the noted Frenchman as far as the automobile outstrips the bicycle. This act will be entirely free, and will take place in the ball ground following each theatrical performance.

The immense excavation is being made for the tank for the diving horses, King and Queen, whose popular act will follow the week after Hardy.

The lecture on the Passion Play last night was interfered with by rain, but will be given next Sunday night when ticket holders can attend.

FATALLY HURT

AGED MAN RUN DOWN BY AN AUTOMOBILE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7—Anthony Reiff a composer, 59 years old was run down and fatally hurt last night in Harlem by an automobile which curved in on the sidewalk as it turned a corner. The chauffeur was chased some distance by a messenger boy mounted upon a bicycle. He was caught on entering the garage. Scores of persons who had seen the accident rushed to where the old composer lay unconscious. The automobilist was arrested, but no one appears to make a complaint and he was set at liberty.

STILL WEAK

BUT MISS TUCKER IS EXPECTED TO RECOVER.

ROCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 7—Miss Mary A. Tucker, the Providence, R. I., school teacher, who was found in the woods in South Lebanon, Maine, yesterday, after having been wandering over a week through the country was noticeably improved in condition today. She is being cared for at Hotel Glenwood, East Rochester. The woman is still very weak from exposure and exhaustion, but her physician expresses the opinion that a complete rest and quiet, would restore Miss Tucker to health. Rev. Dr. D. W. Faunce of Providence, Miss Tucker's stepfather, who arrived during the night said that his daughter would remain at the hotel for several weeks in order to recuperate.

Mr. and Mrs. John McCormick of 8 Livermore street are rejoicing over the birth of twin sons.

CHIEF HOSMER

TO ATTEND CONVENTION AT DULUTH, MINN.

Chief E. S. Hosmer, of the local fire department, is making preparations for his departure to the National Association of the Chiefs of Fire Departments which will convene at Duluth, Minn., August 16 to 19.

A main topic for consideration will be the establishment of a uniform coupling for the apparatus of all the departments in the United States. The desirability of such a provision, whereby any engine with uniform coupling could go to any other city and be coupled to the hose and other apparatus without trouble, is manifest. Such an adoption might well be compelled by law.

HO! FOR THE BEACH.

The picnic of the United Irish League at Revere next Thursday will bring a large crowd. The tickets are for sale at the street railway office and from members, at 50 cents for round trip. They can be had at eMrrimack square Thursday morning or on the cars. Ticket holders will get badges which will entitle them to beach privileges and free tickets to shows. Cars leave Merrimack square 7.30 and leave beach 7 p. m. Cars also in the afternoon 1.45. Every passenger guaranteed a seat. Jumbo cars will be provided with rain proof slide curtains.

A MERGER

OF CHICAGO STREET CAR LINES MAY BE MADE.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Reports of the controlling interests in the various local street car companies, will meet in New York, within a couple of days for the purpose of considering the plans for a merger of all the lines upon a one-city, one-company, one-system and one-fare basis, and also to go over the local and rehabilitation propositions which the representatives of the various street car companies of Chicago have had under discussion. A syndicate is expected to furnish the money necessary for the rehabilitation of the lines.

MANY WERE KILLED

Department Store Building in Albany Collapsed

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Three hundred persons employed in the large department store of the John G. Myers estate at Nos. 39-41 North Pearl street, had just gone to work this morning when the whole centre of the building collapsed from roof to cellar. Nearly a hundred men, girls and children, were carried down in the wreck. The first estimate placed the number of killed and injured at 40.

Thus far all those taken out of the ruins have been alive. There is no doubt, however, that when the rescuers reach the bottom of the heap of debris they will find a number of dead.

The catastrophe, which occurred shortly before 9 o'clock, is the worst of its kind in the city's history.

CAUSE OF ACCIDENT.

The Myers estate has been making extensive repairs on its building. This morning a gang of Italian workmen started to remove an iron pillar that supported the main floor. Evidently they had failed to brace the floor properly, for scarcely had they loosened the post, when down came all three upper floors within a radius of 50 feet from the fatal pillar. The wreck crashed through the cellar, burying the workmen and carrying down those who happened to be working i nthat portion of the building.

The fire department was called out and the work of rescue began at once. Considering the nature of the accident the number of persons who escaped with slight injuries is remarable. The debris in which the firemen and their assistants are digging is light, consisting mostly of wood and plaster. Little or no heavy brick or stone work fell, and this fact gives hope that the number of fatalities may not be large.

The building was comparatively new, having been erected less than 20 years ago by the late John G. Myers. Since Mr. Myers' death two years ago the business has been carried on by a company consisting of Geo. P. Hilton, H. King Sturdee and Edward F. Hackett. It was one of the city's two large department stores.

PEEPING TOM

MAKES THINGS UNPLEASANT FOR PERSONS IN CHELMSFORD ST.

A peeping Tom, the meanest of human weeds, has been focusing his vulgar gaze on windows in Grand and Chelmsford streets. Last night shortly before 9 o'clock he made things unpleasant for persons in that vicinity.

Mrs. Waushausky, who lives in Sam Silverblatt's block, was one of the persons disturbed by the Peeping Tom. She was taking in clothes in her back yard when the deluded wretch poked his head around a corner, fixed his eyes on her and then ran out of the yard into the brushwood on Chelmsford street, a few yards away.

The stranger has been seen in the vicinity several times. One night last week three little girls who were returning home saw a man acting suspiciously on Grand street near the corner of Westford. He was gazing into windows, and at the approach of the girls laughed and walked away. It is believed that the man is mentally unbalanced.

WOMEN SMOKE

THOSE IN ARMY CIRCLES ALSO DRINK HARD.

WOOSTER, O., Aug. 8.—The courtroom was crowded yesterday at the continued hearing of the Taggart divorce scandal, which has brought out sensation after sensation in army circles, some of the testimony involving Washington society.

Stories of army women drinking heavily and smoking cigarettes were part of the evidence. Mrs. Taggart was given a chair at her attorneys' table, where they might refer to her at any moment. She watched closely each development of the testimony and seemed to offer many suggestions as the trial proceeded. She seemed in better spirits than at any time during the first week of the trial.

YOUNG ARRESTED

GEORGE W. YOUNG.

Lowell Man is Accused of Perjury

George W. Young of Lowell, the venerable legislative agent, who for nearly half a century has been a familiar figure at the state house, was arrested yesterday afternoon by headquarters inspectors on a warrant charging perjury. He was almost immediately bailed out by his son, surety being fixed at $3000.

The complaint against Mr. Young is the outgrowth of a civil action which has been pending for several years. It is alleged that on April 25 and 27, 1900, Mr. Young offered himself as surety on a bond to dissolve an attachment on real estate. In the affidavit which he made before the bail commissioner, Maj. Jones, it is claimed Mr. Young stated he had unencumbered property in Lowell.

The bond was accepted and nothing more was thought about the matter until an execution was issued in the attachment case in February of last year. When an attempt was made to collect on this execution it is claimed to have then been found by an examination of the records that the property which Mr. Young offered as surety was encumbered.

H. Theodore Fletcher is the complainant, and he is represented in the prosecution of the case by Lawyer R. H. O. Schultz.

Mr. Young, who is 79 years old, is widely known in this state and especially among the lawmakers on Beacon Hill. He has been interested in some of the most important measures that have come before the legislature.

Actively interested in Massachusetts legislation for years, there is no more familiar figure in the state house corridors than Young. In this city, where for nearly half a century his home has been on Middlesex street—almost a wilderness when he first located there—Young has enjoyed the personal acquaintance of more public men probably than any other man now living in this section. He has been an active member of the republican party since its foundation and was appointed a custom house official in 1861.

While he was at the custom house Mr. Goodrich, the collector, was opposed to the transfer of the county business from Lenox to Pittsfield. He was particularly opposed to its being transferred that year, and Mr. Young was asked by him to go to the state house and with others do what he could against it. He was successful and in the two months he spent there became well acquainted. Later he lost his position at the custom house through change in party rule and since then he has devoted his attention to legislative work, being accounted one of the most successful legislative agents in the state.

Mr. Young's influence was a strong factor in the defeat of the bill to consolidate the Old Colony and the Nashua & Lowell railroad companies, and he took an active part in the sharp struggle which preceded the separation of Malden and Everett. He was also employed on the proposed annexation of Brookline to Boston and became acquainted with the members of the Whitney and Aspinwall families and many prominent Norfolk county officials who were opposed to the project.

Mr. Young has a wide acquaintance among the Boston politicians and he is also well known by many of national prominence.

He married, May 23, 1847, Miss Abby Bailey, and three sons and two daughters were born to them. He is a graduate of Exeter Academy and before his entry into politics was manager of a union grocery store on Rock street, Lowell, which was conducted on the co-operative plan.

Mr. Young assisted in forming the Middlesex club and has frequently attended the reunions of the older members. Recently he has been retained by prominent railroads to look after their interests.

The friends of Mr. Young in this city are of the opinion that there is something wrong in the matter of his arrest and that it will all be cleared up in good time.

OPPOSE DRAPER

Business Men Want Fitzpatrick to Run

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—Thomas B. Fitzpatrick of the firm of Brown, Durrell & Co. has been under serious consideration by some of the democratic leaders in connection with the party nomination for lieutenant-governor this year, but Mr. Fitzpatrick is not a party to the idea, and the leaders will have to look elsewhere.

The suggestion of Mr. Fitzpatrick arose from the fact that the democrats expect that Eben S. Draper will be the republican nominee for lieutenant-governor, and that this nomination will be displeasing to a considerable element in the party which does not like Mr. Draper's position on the tariff. The reform republicans will, the democratic leaders believe, welcome an opportunity to vote for a business man of high standing and ability, and one who would be recognized as not belonging in the class of professional politicians. Mr. Fitzpatrick has seemed to them to be an especially good representative of this type, and it is known that some of the republicans prominent in the reciprocity movement have been sounded as to whether he would be acceptable to them. The Hon. W. T. A. Fitzgerald, president of the democratic city committee, yesterday said he thought Thayer and Fitzpatrick would be an ideal ticket.

This gossip, however, was all news to Mr. Fitzpatrick when a reporter broached the subject to him. No one had mentioned it to him, he said, and he intimated that it would be useless for the party leaders to consult him on the matter, although he did not wish it to appear that he did not highly appreciate the honor involved in the suggestion. His business, however, demanded his entire attention, he assured the reporter, and declared that under no circumstances would he accept the nomination or be able to enter politics in any form.

BRIBERY CHARGE

Ten Boston Aldermen are Accused

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—The mayor's veto of the order granting trade crossing rights in East Boston combined, perhaps, with the weather, brought the board of aldermen to a boiling point at its meeting yesterday.

It is an open question whether some of its members didn't really step over.

By the first vote the veto was declared sustained, but those in favor of the order forced a second vote, in which the veto was declared lost.

Opinions differ as to the exact status of the veto at present.

Alderman Linehan made two open attacks on the 10 aldermen favoring the order, the first general and the second in detail. He charged that money had been paid for the votes of aldermen, placing on the one side public safety and convenience and on the other side money and corruption.

This was in a general way.

The climax was reached, however, when Alderman Linehan, passing from one to another until he had counted in the 10 aldermen charged each in his turn with having been bought.

Alderman Bowen called him a liar and Alderman Curley, tapping his head, indicated, while he smiled, that the alderman from ward 13 was crazy. Alderman Baldwin used the word and the remainder dropped their characterizations into the general uproar.

LINEHAN CHARGED BRIBERY.

Alderman Linehan, shaking his finger in Alderman Bowen's face, told him that he was bought cheap, while to Alderman Curley he said, "You cost twice as much as the others, as you handled the stuff." Alderman Hennessey he told that he was dirt cheap. Bolton, Nolan and O'Toole he classed under the head of "cheap."

The attack was from the shoulder and left no doubts that he intended that it should be understood that he charged each of the 10 aldermen with having received money for his vote.

When Alderman Linehan started on his perilous trip about the enclosure announcing himself before each of the aldermen in opposition as he passed, it appeared a case of even money against his returning to his seat without a mixup.

He did return in safety with no worse damage than a few muttered oaths and suggestions that he ought to take himself to a madhouse.

MINORITY'S ADVANTAGE.

It has been in the air since the order was first passed by a vote of 10 to 3 that trouble was inevitable in the event the mayor vetoed it. The minority was represented by Chairman Whelton and Alderman Linehan and Bromberg.

STEAMER SANK

180 Passengers Thrown Into a Panic

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 8.—The excursion steamboat Sunshine sank yesterday afternoon at Broad Ripple Park, 10 miles from the city, with 180 passengers on board, all of whom were men except one, a woman, who was rescued by a launch. No one was drowned, but several were injured in the panic.

The boat plies on the back water of Broad Ripple dam on White River and was carrying a picnic party consisting of employes of the Indianapolis stock yards.

The overweighting of the boat caused it to turn over on its side and the superstructure broke from the hull. The water is 14 feet deep in the channel but the boat was near the bank when the accident occurred and in but seven feet of water. The upper deck remained above the water.

Persons in launches and canoes took a number of people from the water. The greater number clung to the upper deck, which was not submerged, until taken ashore by boats.

FATALLY HURT

Controller Box Was Short Circuited

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Through the short circuiting of a controller box on the front platform of a trolley car on the Brighton beach line last night two persons were fatally injured and two others seriously injured. Two of the number are women.

WIFE IS MISSING

Man Says His Money is Gone Too

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—In a small room at 77 Harvard street, Mr. Hanna a Syrian resident of Boston, mournfully awaits tidings of his missing wife Nellie, their 3½-year-old boy, Henry, and $700 in cash.

Mrs. Hanna was last seen on Friday last, when she told her husband that she was going to collect a bill of $3 due her.

As Mrs. Hanna, like the majority of Syrian women, was a peddler of fancy goods, the husband did not see anything unusual in it, and only when he came home that day her continued absence made him feel uneasy.

Their little child of 13 months was crying lustily, and a brief investigation revealed the fact that Mrs. Hanna's clothes were missing.

Further search, the husband alleges, brought to light that his $300 which was kept at home also disappeared, and that his wife withdrew $400 kept in her name in the savings bank.

Mr. and Mrs. Hanna have been in this country but a few years. Both have the reputation of being industrious and hard working people.

"I am at a loss to understand where she has gone and am willing to do everything in my power to find out her whereabouts," said Mr. Hanna yesterday to a reporter.

"As soon as possible I shall apply to the courts, but, meanwhile, my heart is breaking over my little children.

"I long to see the one that she has taken along, and it is pitiful to see the little one, who is too small to get along without a mother's care."

Simultaneously with Mrs. Hanna's disappearance, the absence from the city of a young Syrian, Sam Derrany, was also noticed.

He has not been seen around his usual haunts since last Friday, and no one could intimate where he has gone.

Neighbors say that Mr. Hanna was a loving husband and father.

STOLE A COAT

STRAPHARA SEPARATES FRANGOS FROM A COAT.

John Straphara was arrested last night by Inspector Walsh and Special Officer Regis upon the charge of larceny of a coat from one of his fellow countrymen, by name James Frangos. Straphara denied all knowledge of the charge, but when the inspector visited his domicile and asked him to open his trunk the coat was produced.

Frangos told the officers that a cent would be found in one pocket and a button in the other. Both articles were found as described, and the offender was locked up to await the judgment of the court.

Before the court this morning Straphara pleaded not guilty and asked for a continuance until Saturday, which was granted, and he was held in $200 until said date.

GIRL WAS KILLED

Struck by a Train at Andover

ANDOVER, Aug. 8.—Miss Minnie R. Claihane was struck and instantly killed by a train while crossing the track near the Boston & Maine station last night in company with James Curry, to whom she was engaged to be married in a few months.

The couple had waited for the passing of a freight train and had started to cross the double tracks, not hearing the approaching express train on the other track.

Curley saw the engine bearing down upon them and tried to rescue his fiancee, but she evidently thought it a joke and pulled herself away from him, falling upon the track directly in front of the engine.

Curry was also struck by the locomotive, but escaped with a broken arm. Miss Claihane was 23 years old, and has relatives living in Lawrence and in Ireland.

MEDICINE MAN

FINDS HIS WAY TO THE MARKET STREET COOLER.

A patent medicine vender arrived in town about 11 o'clock last evening with a very peculiar assortment of things not patented, so much so that he was allowed to continue his journey through the City of Spindles in the patrol wagon. At the police station he talked and talked until he nearly drove the keeper crazy. When locked up he became quite penitent.

MAXIMUM AND MINIMUM TARIFF.

The standpatters are warning the president against an endorsement of the reciprocity advocates on August 16. They hint that free trade democratic influence may be booming this reciprocity movement and hence President Roosevelt may have been led to let the whole matter severely alone.

Thus it would appear that already the reciprocity principles propounded by President McKinley in his last speech are entirely repudiated by the party bosses.

The subject of a maximum and minimum tariff may be considered but this too seems to be regarded with suspicion although the principle is to fix the extremes in each case. With countries that extend tariff concessions the minimum rate or some approach to it may be adopted while the high water mark is fixed in the maximum rate.

When Mr. Draper of Hopedale was criticized for his opposition to reciprocity, he came out for a maximum and minimum tariff as a basis of negotiating commercial treaties between other countries and the United States. This form of tariff is adopted in France, Spain, Russia, Norway, Greece and Brazil so that it is not original with American statesmen. If we cannot have straight reciprocity, this would be the best substitute as the president could decide what countries should have the benefit of the minimum rate.

FEDERAL CRIMINAL CODE DEFECTIVE.

Attorney Gen. Moody is of the opinion that the criminal code of the United States should be revised and extended so as to cover certain offenses which seem to be invented by cunning rascals in the government service and for which no penalty is provided.

There is no doubt whatever that in this suggestion Mr. Moody is quite right. It seems to be a travesty on law and justice that in some cases such culprits as Gaynor and Greene are able to evade the law, or rather set it at defiance.

It is a peculiarity of the statutes of the United States that nothing comes under the law except specifically mentioned in the law. As a great many offenses entirely new have been recently developed it is plain that the criminal code needs to be extended in scope. Some years ago this was forcibly illustrated in a case of theft at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. The statutes of the federal government had not provided against theft in a navy yard and hence the offender went scot free.

Should the work recommended by Attorney Gen. Moody be undertaken it is to be hoped that some privision will also be included that will enable the attorney general and his successors to proceed more expeditiously with the prosecution of the trusts and combines that exist in defiance of United States law.

THE KINGDOM OF NEVER GROW OLD.

In the present hot weather when the system craves something more than hard work, when the fancy strays to the woodlands, the lakes and the mountains, the surf on the beach and the bright flowing fountains, it is not necessary to apologize if the hum drum of the telegraphic ticker is forgotten, if the events that flow over the wire are set aside for a ramble in the "Kingdom of Never-grow-old."

Who that has sat before the footlights through that pretty scene in Ethel Barrymore's simple play, "Cousin Kate," will ever forget the climax where the happy Irish lover throws open the gates of the "Kingdom of never-grow-old." That lover had kept close to the "kingdom" so that his years bore lightly upon his shoulders; he had sought delight in the play, the acquaintancestp and the love of little children.

There is something in the love of a child that dispels doubt, compels faith and commands admiration on account of the sweet innocence which is the foundation of their faith and love.

When you look into the child's nature, study its heart, its mind, its freshness, its innocence so recently from God, will you not be more and more impressed with the force of the command of the Divine Master, "Suffer little children to come unto Me, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."?

The man who can enjoy the ways of children has within himself a sort of panoply against the cares and ills of life, especially if the children make him an object of their innocent love. In a similar manner it refreshes the mind to go back over the scenes of our childhood, to contemplate its joys, its innocence, and the total absence of care "when the heart was young."

There is always a charm in watching the dawn of intelligence, the beautiful simplicity of childhood before self consciousness arrives. Those who study the child find lessons of philosophy, of truth, of logic and of pathos. There are men who would not exchange an evening with the best interpreters of the greatest composers for one of sweet enjoyment with their children in the hallowed circle of the home. To such a man the sublime strains of Wagner or Beethoven are not so sweet as the lullabies of the nursery, the simple rhymes and ditties on which the little ones fix their thoughts as they sink to rest in their mother's arms. Such a man is ever in touch with the "Kingdom of Never-grow-old" which is so tenderly portrayed in the following verses based on the sentiment of the Irish lover in "Cousin Kate." The poem is by Will M. Maupin:—

THE BEAUTIFUL KINGDOM.

There are faces alight with the glory of love
  In the "Kingdom of Never-grow-old."
There are hearts that are light as the clear skies above
  In that kingdom of beauties untold.
And happy is he who can dwell in that land
Where children are ruling with scepters in hand,
For youth is the monarch of one happy band,
  In the "Kingdom of Never-grow-old."

No sorrows lurk deep in grim thickets of gloom
  In the "Kingdom of Never-grow-old."
But flowers of beauty are ever in bloom
  And the pathways are shining as gold.
The laughter of little ones borne on the air
Is surcease of sorrow and cure for all care,
For happiness reigns and has banished despair
  In the "Kingdom of Never-grow-old."

The little hands wave a warm welcome to all
  In the "Kingdom of Never-grow-old."
The sweet little voices in harmony call,
  And their little arms wait to enfold.
And Father Time pauses to taste of the joys,
To join in the games full of romping and noise
That are played all the hours by sweet girls and boys
  In the "Kingdom of Never-grow-old."

Come, walk with me now through the cool shadows deep
  In the "Kingdom of Never-grow-old."
And backward the years of our troubles will creep
  While stories of youth, are retold.
All burdens grow light and all cares we dismiss;
The gates are unlocked by a sweet baby kiss,
  In the "Kingdom of Never-grow-old."

SEEN AND HEARD

Funny, isn't it, how rain water will wrinkle your clothing?

One of the neatest order wagons in the city bears the name of Lavery the baker.

It is really too bad that the bottom dropped out of the Park commission's cash box so early in the season. The commission was doing good work.

Lowell is a great town for "glad rags." To note the number of people that promenade in the street all dressed up in their Sunday clothes, the thought that the majority in Lowell do not work is liable to creep in.

This, according to statisticians, has been a great season for sleep, especially because of the cool nights.

There is ample room for improvement in the appearance of back alleys and yards and a great big opportunity for active service on the part of the board of health.

The doctor winks the other eye and smiles pleasantly at the undertaker when he sees a small boy wading into a bunch of green apples.

"Have a fresh cigar?" said the man from Porto Rico, offering his case.

"Thanks," said the Lowellian. "I'll relight this one. It's only half smoked."

"You wouldn't do that if you lived in Porto Rico," said the Islander. "There the best cigar costs four cents, and nobody who's anybody relights a cigar. The flavor is spoiled."

Tony, the bootblack, aged 11, was cleaning the broker's shoes. The broker had been on the right side of the market that day and was disposed to be friendly.

"Tony," he asked, "what would you like to be when you grow up?"

"I'd like to be de treasurer of the whole damn wort'," was the staggering reply.

A man covered seven pages and occupied one hour of Mr. Seen and Heard's time arguing in favor of a free bath. Here is the tail end of his tempest: "From the large patronage that the bath house on Broadway is receiving, the thought of a local Rockefeller with his tainted millions risen up like the foam on beer, Lowell should have a free bath house.

The largest cargo that ever left the port of Philadelphia in one bottom started for Japan on July 20 in the English built steamer Monarch. The cargo consisted of 2,470,000 gallons of refined petroleum, 100 barrels of lubricating oil and 1200 cases of wax, all consigned to a Japanese firm at Wyokkaichi. It would require, says Consular and Trade Reports, an oil well with a capacity of 7000 gallons daily to work three years to supply the quantity of oil carried by the Monarch.

Industry and Chinese laundrymen are so indissolubly linked together in the average American mind that it was quite a shock the other day when a man whose family is in the country went to Sam Sing's shop himself for the regular weekly bundle and found Sam busily engaged, not at the ironing or the washboard but in reading a well thumbed paper volume. Never having seen a Chiner reading before, he inquired what the subject matter was. To his surprise, when Sam handed over the book, its title read "Deadwood Dick and the Pirates; or, How the Millionaire's Daughter was Saved."

Japanese women now have, under the new civil code, property rights and privileges of divorce, which put them nearly on a par with women in England or the United States in those respects.

The empire of Japan, says the "Japanese Blue Book" for 1905, comprises nearly one hundred main and nearly five hundred adjacent small islands, with about 15,000 miles of seacoast. That is why Japan needs so large a permanent navy. The area of the empire is 161,148 square miles. The population has grown from 33,000,000 in 1872 to 47,812,702 in 1905, besides 3,039,225 in Formosa.

There is a remarkable evenness in the division of the sexes in Japan.

He was sitting directly beneath an electric fan and when he drew a cigar from his pocket the attentive waiter hovered near with an opened bill of fare.

"You can't light matches under the fan," he explained to the patron. "Let me shield the light with this."

The man drew from another pocket one of the flint and steel lighters, there was a stir at the ratchet wheel, a flying spark and the end of a slow match was fanned into a glow.

The next evening the same customer drew out a cigar, bit off the end and felt in his pocket for a match. There was a sharp click at his back and the waiter held one of the same sort of lighters.

"It's going to save me an hour or two a week," he said, cheerfully. "Ever since the fans were turned on it's been hard to light a cigar at this table. I've given three gentlemen lights this evening, and one of them tipped me an extra quarter for being up to date."

"Electric clocks are great things," said the merchant who counts the pennies, "but they waste a lot of the time they save.

"I had one put in not long ago after a deal fell through because the old clock was five minutes slow. There was a whiz running to a telegraph office that set it to 12 at high noon, and every hour we were given fresh assurances that the clock was right through a bell rung from the central office.

"Now the employees all stop work when the bell rings and each solemnly pulls his watch from his pocket to assure himself that he has lost no time in the last hour.

"I calculate that I am losing a half hour a day in time through this habit, to say nothing of the loss of precious moments spent in explaining to visitors how the thing works. I suppose that after a while the boys will get used to the new idea and be content to regulate only at noon. Now they want their time fresh every hour."

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. J. William Fielding and Miss Margaret Kydd were married yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock by Rev. N. W. Matthews, Ph. D., at the residence of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fielding, 14 Whidden street. The bride was given away by her father, Thomas Kydd. She wore white silk muslin, lace trimmed, and she carried bride roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Jessie Kydd, who wore pale pink silk muslin and carried bridesmaid roses. Benjamin Fielding, the groom's brother, was best man. Albert Fielding, also the groom's brother, and Edward Fielding, his cousin, served as ushers. The parlor, where the ceremony was performed, was prettily decorated with palms, ferns and cut flowers. A reception followed the marriage service and congratulations were extended, including telegrams from Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Broody and Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Kantor, the first named the president, and Mr. Kantor the treasurer of the Boston Mirror company.

Refreshments were served under the direction of Joseph Wilmot, assisted by Mrs. Wilmot, Mrs. Joseph Fielding, Jr., Miss Nellie Rawnsley, Miss Eva Law and William Fielding of Lynn. Among the out-of-town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. John Fielding of Lynn, Mr. and Mrs. David Lang of Andover and Rev. James Matthews of Plymouth, Penn., a brother of the officiating clergyman.

The wedding gifts were numerous, elegant and costly and included furniture, cut glass, china, rugs and other useful articles.

Mr. and Mrs. Fielding left Lowell on the 9.30 p. m. train, and after a wedding tour, which will include visits to Providence, R. I., Newport, R. I., and Block Island, they will make their home at 12 Birch street, Everett.

WOOD—MOODY.

Miss Bertha M. Mody and Harry M. Wood of this city were united in marriage at the residence of Rev. N. L. Colby of Manchester, N. H., July 29.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE.

People of Lowell and vicinity will find plenty of amusement at Lakeview park this week. At the theatre Joseph J. Flynn presents the Empire Specialty company. This company came to Lowell with a good reputation and will leave with a whole lot added to it. Every number on the program is very good.

George and Harrington give a horizontal bar act that is hard to beat. Enough comedy is sprinkled in to liven the act and the various stunts call forth a great deal of applause.

One of the most attractive acts is that given by William Gardner. He introduces a specialty of dancing on roller and ice skates, which certainly deserves a great deal of praise.

On the roller skates he gives an exhibition of buck and wing, executing the most difficult steps with ease and grace of the ordinary buck dancer. He changes from the roller to the ice skates without stopping. He removes one skate and at the same time continues the step while seated in a chair. After he has fastened the ice skates to his shoes he mounts a pedestal and does a good turn.

Eckoff and Gordon certainly bring a whirlwind of comedy with them, for from the time they enter the stage until they leave the audience is one continual roar of laughter. Miss Gordon is a vocalist of ability and Mr. Eckhoff renders some pleasing selections on a number of instruments. Each number was encored and Mr. Eckhoff had to respond five times after rendering a solo on the clarinet. Thomas and Payne appear in a real coon sketch. Both sing and dance well. They have some jokes that are lively and original. Mr. Thomas is a real black man, with an uncommon amount of wit, and Miss Payne is a shapely and graceful creole.

Dan J. Harrington, the well known ventriloquist, gave an exhibition with his dummies that kept the audience convulsed with laughter. Harrington is well known to the local theatre-goers for during the past several years he played engagements at the Casto and Savoy theatres. He is one of the cleverest ventriloquist artists in the business today and throws his voice around in a manner which bewilders the audience. He still has his boy "Jerry" with him, and "Jerry" makes matters interesting to the professor during the entire evening.

This show will appear every afternoon and evening for the remainder of the week at Lakeview.

The Blue Serge Suits That Were $15 and $20 Are Now Marked $11.50

We have had a splendid business in these suits since advertising them a few days ago.

Half the quantity has been sold—but there is practically every size yet in young men's 33 to 38, men's 34 to 44.

Every suit is brand new, coats are double and single breast, and have hand-finished collars and buttonholes.

The suits are all that remain of young men's lots at $20, men's at $15.

These fine highest grade serges are in many respects the best values we ever advertised in suits for $11.50

HIS OLD PARTNER

Lawson Plans to Bury Him

THEY HAD PARTED IN LIFE

Waves Brought Body Near to Dreamwold

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—To save from a pauper's grave the man who was once noted as his business associate, and who claimed he was the "brains of the combination," Thomas W. Lawson will buy and erect a headstone for the body of Prof. A. A. Woodbridge, which for the past seven days has rested unclaimed at Cohasset, where it was found last Tuesday morning, nearly nude, tossing in the surf off Black Rock.

The man who, although of highest reputation throughout the country as a scholar and educator, had been for a year past, since the death of his wife, drifting through the cheapest resorts of humanity, living, when he could pay his rent, in dingy lodging houses in the South end; penniless, begging dimes and quarters from those who had once been proud to rank him as their friend, and who was, as he himself described it, "all in," is now learned to have been once a trusted lieutenant of Lawson during a part of the latter's career.

Fifteen years ago he was said to have been a right-hand man of the now famous Boston millionaire, at a time when the position of the latter was less secure than it is today, when his fortune was in process of building. He was himself, so me believed, on the road to millions.

By one of the turns of fortune's wheel, however, while the star of Lawson kept in the ascendant, the career of Woodbridge changed, luck left him, he sank lower and lower, to die penniless, a suicide.

Woodbridge's association with Lawson was seldom mentioned by the unfortunate educator during the latter part of his life, except in the claim made by him from time to time to the effect that Lawson owed him $10,000.

"Here I am without a cent," he would say bitterly, when in a particularly downcast frame of mind, "while Tow Lawson owes me $10,000. My brains placed him in the position he occupies today."

Lawson himself never admitted the claim. The relations between him and Prof. Woodbridge, it is understood, ended in a cloud, and the latter's family never knew just why the dreams of future millions fell through. Prof. Woodbridge never explained why his relations with Lawson ceased, and declared that he himself was ignorant of the cause. He was "Lawson's brains," he told them, his right hand man, wrote all his public utterances, aided him in forming his plans, and by rights should have been as rich as the "Copper King" himself.

And here the strangest point of all in the strange case comes out. For, as if to laugh at his claims, or else to emphasize them, when the end came and the once prominent educator met his death, fate took the body of the drowned man and sent it ashore almost opposite the home of the man whom he claimed to have helped to make.

Tossing about in the surf, the body was caught by a current which cast it five miles from the gates of Dreamwold, the famous summer home of Thomas W. Lawson. Just where Prof. Woodbridge met his death, whether he jumped over from some boat or whether he cast himself into the waters from some point along the South shore, is not known.

ROYAL ARCANUM

Supreme Council Session on Aug. 30

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—W. O. Robson, supreme secretary of the Royal Arcanum, announces that the supreme council of the Royal Arcanum will be called to meet in special session at hotel Victory, Put-in-Bay, Lake Erie, O., on Wednesday, Aug. 30, at 2 p. m., 42 representatives from the grand councils having signed a request to Supreme Regent Wiggins therefor.

The supreme secretary adds that he is daily receiving resolutions from councils endorsing the action of the supreme council in establishing the new rates.

GIRL ATTACKED

BUT SHE ESCAPED FROM HER ASSAILANT.

WALTHAM, Aug. 8.—Miss Clara Wentworth, the 18-year-old daughter of Mrs. Clarence Wentworth, had a thrilling experience about 8 last night with a man who attacked her on Lake street, about half a mile from her own home.

The young woman managed to break away from her assailant and run into a neighbor's house, where she collapsed.

Word was sent to Chief McKenna, who lives at Piety corner. He telephoned to the station house, and Sergt. Taft sent Patrolman Currin to assist the chief. The two were furnished a good description of the man, and they had not gone far when they saw a man sitting on the stone wall near the E. B. Armstrong estate, Lexington street.

The man fitted the description, and the officers identified him as Bernard Butler, aged 22, who lives on Lexington street, directly opposite the police station.

Butler denied all knowledge of the affair, but objected to going to Miss Wentworth's home. He was told he could go there or to the station house, and he finally said he would face the young woman.

The instant Miss Wentworth saw Butler she declared he was the man who attacked her. Butler was then taken to the police station and locked up.

CAUSED A STIR

Non-Union Man Was Delivering Coal

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 8.—While the delegates to the annual convention of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, which began in Odd Fellows temple here yesterday did nothing of general interest or of great importance, nevertheless they had a rather busy day. The feature of the day's proceedings was the appearance of a delegate in front of the rostrum who declared that a non-union negro coal wagon driver was delivering coal at the building in which they met. This caused considerable stir and after some debate a committee was appointed to look into the matter.

In the meantime the negro driver was having a warm argument with several delegates on the sidewalk outside the hall, which attracted a large crowd. Delegate D. McCullum of New York was the man who discovered that the driver was not a union driver. He told the negro that he couldn't deliver the coal while the union was in session in the building.

The delgate sat on the cover of the manhole and began making a speech to the crowd that was rapily becoming larger. The non-union driver appealed to the chief engineer of the building who, finding that he could not persuade the delegate to let the coal be shot into the cellar, sent for a policeman. The policeman ordered the delegate off the manhole, which command he obeyed, and went into the hall with some of the delegates. The coal was then unloaded without further delay. Later in the day a committee reported that the chief engineer of the building had promised that no more coal would be delivered by non-union drivers while the teamsters are in session in the building.

Another committee reported that the employes of the bars and barber shops of two hotels where delegates were staying were not connected with labor unions, and it was recommended that delegates patronize the bars and barber shops of other hotels.

There was a half hour debate at the forenoon session over the question of admitting reporters to the hall during the sessions. It was argued that if newspaper men had been admitted to meetings of the union in Chicago the strike there would not have been a failure. The motion to admit the reporters was carried.

DIXON KILLED

HE WAS CRUSHED UNDER A BOB ENGINE.

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—George W. Dixon of 10 Oswold street, Roxbury, was instantly killed and Robert W. Russell of 30 Arlington street, Brighton, was seriously injured about 2.45 yesterday afternoon at the foot of 13th street, near building No. 76, in the Charlestown navy yard, by the falling of a bob engine and crane carrying a steam launch from the wharf to the construction and paint shop in the yard, where it was to undergo repairs.

STELLA ELLIOT

Cross-Examined by Harris' Lawyer

SHE STANDS BY HER CHARGES

She Adds to Previous Testimony

BROCKTON, Aug. 8—The searching cross-examination of Stella Elliot, the 16-year-old girl who first brought charges against Inspector Chester E. Harris, of the police department, by Atty. Elmer H. Fletcher, was the feature of the hearing before Mayor Keith and the aldermen yesterday afternoon, on the charges of immoral conduct brought by the mayor against Harris.

A new development was the testimony by the girl that at a time not before testified to she was intimate with Harris in the office of the Edison Electric Illuminating company station, R. E. McNeil letting them in.

Under cross-examination she testified that twice before the time previously testified to that she was with Harris on Foundry street they were together there.

"Why didn't you tell about the first time you were at Foundry street instead of the third?" asked Mr. Fletcher.

"I didn't think about it."

"Haven't you testified you were never in that doorway except on one occasion?"

"I don't know."

"Do you mean to say Harris told you about getting there, and how to open the slide door, the third time you were there and not the other times?"

"He did. He told me every time. He told me to open the door and go up on the steps and wait for him."

The only witness heard during the afternoon was the Elliot girl, and she was under cross-examination for two hours. The crowd at the hearing was curtailed by only allowing those to enter the council chamber for whom seats could be provided. None of the witnesses for the defence were sworn and Atty. Fletcher stated to a reporter after adjournment of the hearing that they will not be announced until they are ready to go on.

"Before we get through with this case we shall show," said Mr. Fletcher, "that Inspector Harris is innocent of these charges."

The hearing was adjourned at 5 o'clock to 1.30 this afternoon.

Atty. Fletcher, commencing at the time she left her home in Rockland, asked: "Did you say at the previous hearing that you had not been intimate with other men previous to coming to this city?"

"I refuse to answer."

"Did you make such a statement?"

"No, sir, I did not."

"Do you remember this question at the last hearing: 'Had you ever been intimate with any other man?' "

"I do."

"How did you answer?"

No reply was made by the girl.

She told of the different places where she had lived and worked after coming to Brockton in August, 1903, and telling of her first alleged intimacy with Harris, said: "He wanted me to come to the police station about 6.10 o'clock, and said everybody would be away at that time, and told me how to get there."

Witness admitted under cross-examination that she told Mrs. Taylor at the police station after she was arrested that she "would get even with Harris for arresting her."

"Up to that time you had no idea of charging Harris with being the father of your child?"

"No, I did not."

"Why had you told no one?"

"Because I didn't intend any one to know it."

She testified to telling the city marshal it was Harris, and denied she told him it was any other man. She also denied telling the matron of the lying-in hospital in Providence that it was a young man who had since left Brockton.

Asked if Mrs. A. P. Alden had not told her to push this case, witness said she did not, and that Mrs. Alden never said anything about the case until friends came forward with money to help her. She said she did not know who was furnishing the money."

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Committees from the Lowell lodges of the Knights of Pythias met last night with William B. Gale lodge in Lawrence, other lodges from other cities also being represented. The plans were made for a grand union outing of the Knights of the Merrimack valley to be held at Canobie Lake Park. The committee from Lowell were I. B. Romain and Harry Jones, Middlesex lodge; F. FOR POSTMASTER

Charles Scribner Slated at No. Chelmsford

NEW POSTOFFICE MAY BE BUILT

Interest in New Street Car Line

North Chelmsford is looking forward with considerable anticipation to the establishment of the new street railroad between Lowell and Ayer Junction which will form the connecting link between Boston and Fitchburg, for the line will pass through the north village to Westford and will open up a part of the town heretofore but sparsely tenanted. The new line will undoubtedly be one of the most popular trolley rides in this vicinity for it passes through a beautiful country and by several pretty summer resorts. The line leaving North Chelmsford passes by Crystal Lake and Falcon Heights into Westford and then proceeds along through Westford to Long-Sought-For pond or within a short distance of it. There are 50 men employed on the new line at Ayer Junction and it is the intention of the promoters to have it finished before the snow flies.

The village is soon to have a new postmaster, as the result of the resignation of John Hall and very probably will have a new post office. While the appointment has not yet been made there is little doubt that the next postmaster will be Charles Scribner, foreman at the Chelmsford Iron foundry. Mr. Scribner is also chairman of the republican town committee and Congressman Ames has a soft spot in his heart for the chairmen of the republican town committees in his district. Congressman Ames it is said has recommended the appointment of Mr. Scribner which practically gives it to him. With his appointment will come the erection of a new, roomy post office building on land owned by the Moore Spinning company just opposite the shanty at the railroad crossing, or just below Queen and Small's store. The post office at present is further up the street, about opposite the [illegible] of Dr. Varney.

The Time Will Come

When the Advice of This Lowell Resident Will Help You

Very few people are entirely free from backache. It does not take much to derange the kidneys. A little cold, a strain, stooping positions or hard work, overtaxes those delicate organs, and many aches and pains promptly follow. A Lowell citizen tells you here how every kidney ill can be relieved and cured. Read about it:

Mrs. C. Hodgman, of 31 Hastings street, Lowell, Mass., says: "My mother Mrs. Hartford, regards Doan's Kidney Pills as a remedy of great merit. They were procured for her seven years ago at Ellingwood & Co.'s drug store, and she used them for backache and other symptoms of kidney complaint which arise from a weakened or over-excited condition of the kidneys. The quick and thorough relief she obtained from Doan's Kidney Pills proved them to be deserving of great praise. During the years which have since passed she has had no reason to alter her opinion of the great value and effectiveness of Doan's Kidney Pills."

MAYOR BLISS

ARRESTED FOR HAVING CITY'S DYNAMITE IN HIS POSSESSION.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Aug. 8—Mayor Charles H. Bliss was placed under arrest here yesterday, charged with having in his possession considerable dynamite which the city had purchased for the purpose of draining a pond in the western section of the city. The dynamite was stored in a house near where the pond is located. John Burns, former street superintendent, made the affidavit containing the charge against the mayor.

FATHER HELD

HE IS CHARGED WITH USING PROFANE LANGUAGE.

BROCKTON, Aug. 8—The arrest of Philip Brady in the office of the clerk of court, followed the session of the police court yesterday.

Philip L. Brady, his 15-year-old son, was captured by the police in a raid Sunday, when Michael F. Murphy, P. W. Blunt, James J. Clifford and John F. Lynch were arrested charged with gaming on the Lord's day. The men were fined $10 each and paid. Young Brady was charged with being present and his case was placed on file.

His father is alleged to have used profane language in regard to the case and to the court and was placed under arrest on that charge.

ARMED MOB

SEIZED A NEGRO AND HANGED HIM.

WACO, Tex., Aug. 8—At 2 o'clock this morning, mounted citizens numbering 600 surrounded the court house and jail and after making prisoners of Sheriff Tilley, the jailer and all the deputy sheriffs, broke open the jail, took Hank Majors, colored, out and after hearing his confession hanged him from the New Bridge.

Majors had recently been convicted of criminal assault and given death penalty but he had been granted a new trial.

SOME PHASES OF THE WORLD'S LIFE ILLUSTRATED

AN ANCIENT LANDMARK AT GEORGETOWN, D. C.

The time worn structure shown in the cut is one of the oldest buildings in the historic town of Georgetown, D. C. It is the prison once used for debtors. As long ago as the latter part of the seventeenth century it was used as a municipal lockup, and it was the only prison in that part of the country, which at that time was within the state of Maryland. Later on it became a slave pen. Public auctions of slaves were held in it. It became in after years police headquarters for the growing city. At present it is used by a congregation of colored Baptists as a meeting house.

A STATUE INHABITED BY BEES.

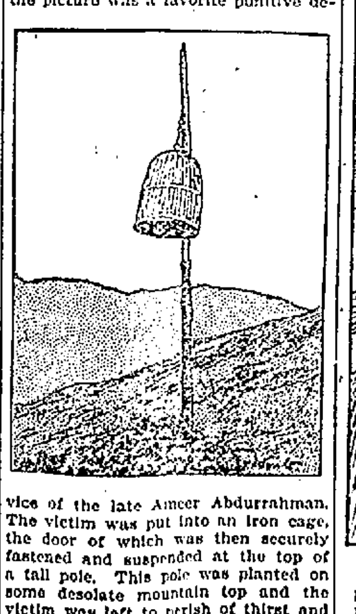

A colony of bees has been engaged for twenty-two years in storing honey in the hollow interior of the wooden statue which surmounts the dome of the courthouse at Liberty, Mo., shown in the cut. The figure of the Goddess of Liberty is made of thick pine planking and is fourteen feet in height. The statue is believed to contain at least five barrels of honey, although no one has ever attempted to secure any of it. The people of Liberty will not consent to have the statue disturbed. Whenever the dome and its goddess are painted it is necessary to do the work in the winter, when the bees are inactive.

A CRUEL AFGHAN PUNISHMENT.

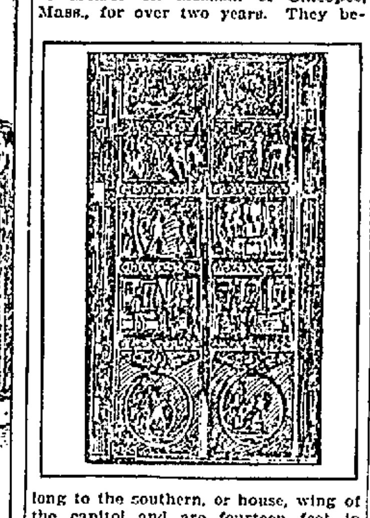

The ameers of Afghanistan still employ many of the cruel forms of punishment which were characteristic of the middle ages. The one shown in the picture was a favorite punitive device of the late Ameer Abdurrahman. The victim was put into an iron cage, the door of which was then securely fastened and suspended at the top of a tall pole. This pole was planted on some desolate mountain top and the victim was left to perish of thirst and hunger. When the recent British mission to Afghanistan crossed the Lataband pass several of these reminders of the cruel ameer were still to be seen.

BRONZE DOORS FOR CAPITOL.

The massive bronze doors shown in the picture, although designed in 1858, have only recently been completed. They have occupied the sole attention of Melzur H. Mosman of Chicopee, Mass., for over two years. They belong to the southern, or house, wing of the capitol and are fourteen feet in height and over two tons in weight. They are divided into five panels each, representing in bas-relief scenes from American history.

TRANSPORTATION IN THE INTERIOR OF NORWAY.

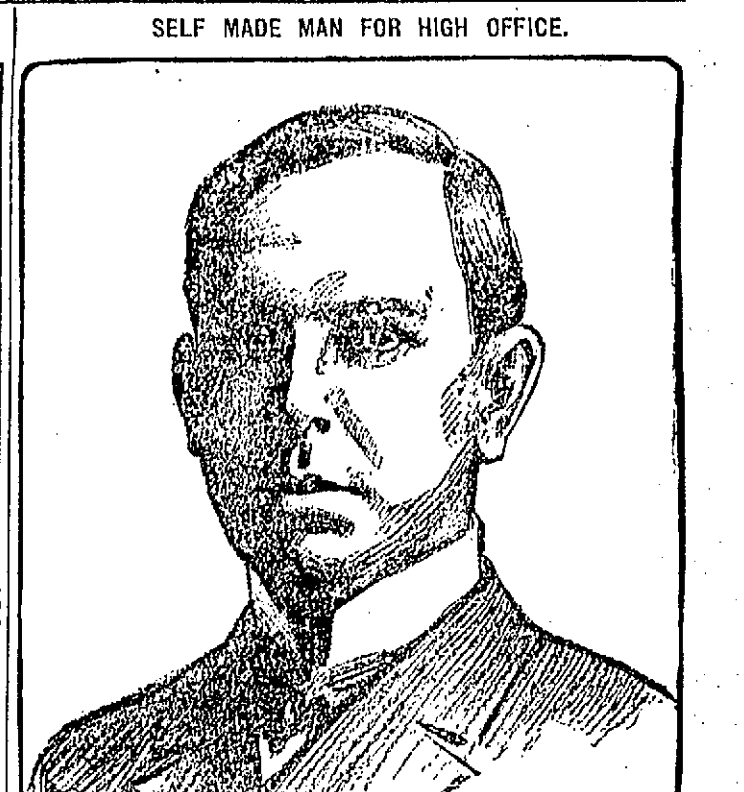

In the interior of Norway both the roads and the vehicles are of the most primitive character. The mail coach is unknown and both mail and passengers are carried in rude two wheeled carrioles like the one shown in the cut. Some of these are mere sulkies, with only a single seat in front and a rear extension for baggage and the driver. Most of them, however, are arranged for two passengers and their baggage. There are no regularly established routes, but every peasant who owns one of these go-carts is expected to respond to any demand, at any hour, and his fee is fixed by law.

ADMIRAL TOGO IN HIS CABIN ON THE FLAGSHIP MIKASA.

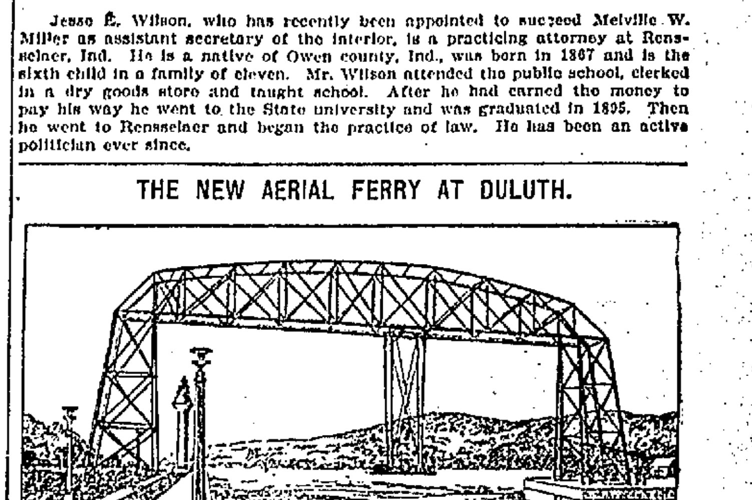

The cut shows Admiral Togo in his cabin on board the Mikasa. He is explaining to a war artist how it happened that he escaped death from the bursting of a shell during one of the engagements at Port Arthur. The fragments were collected carefully and cemented together, and the restored shell now stands in the admiral's cabin alongside a perfect one, which also came on board the Mikasa during the same engagement, but did no damage. The admiral keeps on his table two beautiful dwarf trees, several centuries old, which were presented to him by an admirer. Beside them is the indispensable smoking box, within which a bit of charcoal is always glowing. The open album is the one to which a visiting artist is always invited to contribute a sketch.

SELF MADE MAN FOR HIGH OFFICE.

Jesse E. Wilson, who has recently been appointed to succeed Melville W. Miller as assistant secretary of the interior, is a practicing attorney at Rensselaer, Ind. He is a native of Owen county, Ind., was born in 1867 and is the sixth child in a family of eleven. Mr. Wilson attended the public school, clerked in a dry goods store and taught school. After he had earned the money to pay his way he went to the State university and was graduated in 1895. Then he went to Rensselaer and began the practice of law. He has been an active politician ever since.

THE NEW AERIAL FERRY AT DULUTH.

The aerial ferry shown in the picture is now in operation at Duluth, Minn. It is the first structure of its kind in America, and it has been an unqualified success thus far. The suspended ferry car has a speed of four miles per hour. There are two electric motors, each of fifty horsepower capacity, located under the floor of the car. An ingenious arrangement of the track has been provided to carry the car and hangers. It is inclosed on three sides within the box section of the lower cord. In winter it cannot become coated with sleet or snow. It is estimated that the cost of running this ferry will not exceed $7,500 per annum. This is fully a third less than the cost of a steamboat ferry service.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT LAKEVIEW.

Next Thursday at Lakeview park will be children's day, and plans are being made to entertain a host of little ones on that date.

Every year these children's days have proved immensely popular with the small tots as well as the mothers, who find it a good opportunity to make the day one for a picnic in which the entire family takes part.

Children will be admitted to the afternoon performance in the theatre. Special features will be introduced in the show just for the entertainment of the youngsters.

After the performance is over there will be a grand exhibition of day fireworks. This is going to be a spectacle worth witnessing. The bombs burst high in the air, displaying figures which float through the atmosphere, gradually falling to the earth. The figures are captured by those in the park, for they land all over the place.

LIVELY MEETING

Billerica Voters Postpone Action

ON REMODELLING THE TOWN HALL

Land Scheme Severely Beaten

TOWN WANT NEWS ELECTRIC ROAD

To Connect It With So. Lowell

A special town meeting was held in Billerica town hall last night, and while usually the special meetings bring forth but a handful of people the attendance last night was a general surprise to a great many people, especially those who were trying to railroad a land scheme whereby the town was to accept a new street presumably for the purpose of enlarging and beautifying the residential district, but which, in fact, was supposed to be in the interest of the land owners.

The article calling for the acceptance of the street was turned down, however, as was an article suggesting changes in the town hall for the purpose of allowing theatricals to be held.

The proposition to have the town accept the road laid out on the land of Sidney A. Bull and Jasper F. Bruce brought out an interesting controversy. The proposition meant the opening up of some very desirable building lots, which, no doubt, could be readily disposed of at a great profit.

Mr. Bull stated that he believed the town should take the road in order to hasten the development of the town as a residential section of Lowell's suburb. The road as originally planned, was to be built entirely upon his land, but the selectmen decided that it must be 10 feet wider and that that much land on the frontage of Mr. Bruce's must be used.

Mr. Bruce said he seemed to be interested in the affair, and felt as though he ought to tell how interested he was. He rather surprised many of those who had signed the Bull petition when he said he knew nothing of the scheme until they had come in and staked off his land. He couldn't figure where he was going to come out if the road went through. "It would damage my property and spoil the only opportunity I would have for using my land for building purposes," he said in conclusion.

Mr. Bull allowed that there was a big demand for a new road and for building lots. He allowed that, should the road go through, many Lowell people would go out there, purchase lots and build houses, thereby increasing the tax income of the town. He said he had an opportunity of selling the lot which would come at the opening of the street, but he wanted to give the town a chance.

DeLacy Corkum, who is one of the noted orators of the town, was present, and in fact the meeting would not have been a success if he were absent. He stated that if Jasper was willing to dispose of his land under the conditions, it would be all right to let Bull have the road, but he abominably hated this crowding of individuals.

J. Nelson Parker stated that he had signed the Bull petition, but stated he would not have done so if he had known that Bruce was going to get a cold deal.

When the question was put to the voters for action it was overwhelmingly beaten, only three or four voting in favor if it and at least thirty in opposition.

The next article of interest was the discussion of the necessity of making changes in the town hall in order to comply with the requirements of the district police regulations. The matter came up under article three.

Selectman Kohlrausch said that the state inspector had inspected the hall and had notified the selectmen that several changes must be made or else the practice of holding theatricals must be discontinued. He said he had gone over the matter very carefully with the inspector but nothing could alter his attitude and the changes must be made.

Mr. Kohlrausch stated that the hall when built was made to comply with the law in every respect, but the statutes enacted last year had altered things considerably. He said the selectmen did not want to take the responsibility of making any changes or of leaving the hall as it is, and they submitted the case to the voters for settlement.

Architect Floyd was called upon to explain the situation and the solution of the problem. He said the state law would require five changes: First, a change in the arrangement for the drop curtain and the removal of all draperies on the stage; second, a skylight 8 by 10 feet over the stage, to work automatically in case of fire and to create a draft that would prevent the flames from going out into the audience; third, an exit from the hall in the rear; fourth, two stairways 5 feet in width to the galleries, and fifth, a front exit from the hall to the street, entirely disconnected from the lower portion of the building.

Mr. Floyd said that the skylight was a police regulation and not a statute, and they could get by on this. He said the present arrangement of gallery stairs would do all right, that it would cost $271 for the fire escape for the rear exit, and about $3522 to remodel the main staircase, shut it off entirely from the lower building and make an entrance from the front.

Deacon Frederick S. Clark and J. Nelson Parker were both opposed to any changes. They favored leaving the hall as it is and discontinue the theatrical parties. Mr. Parker said the income from such parties would not warrant the expense.

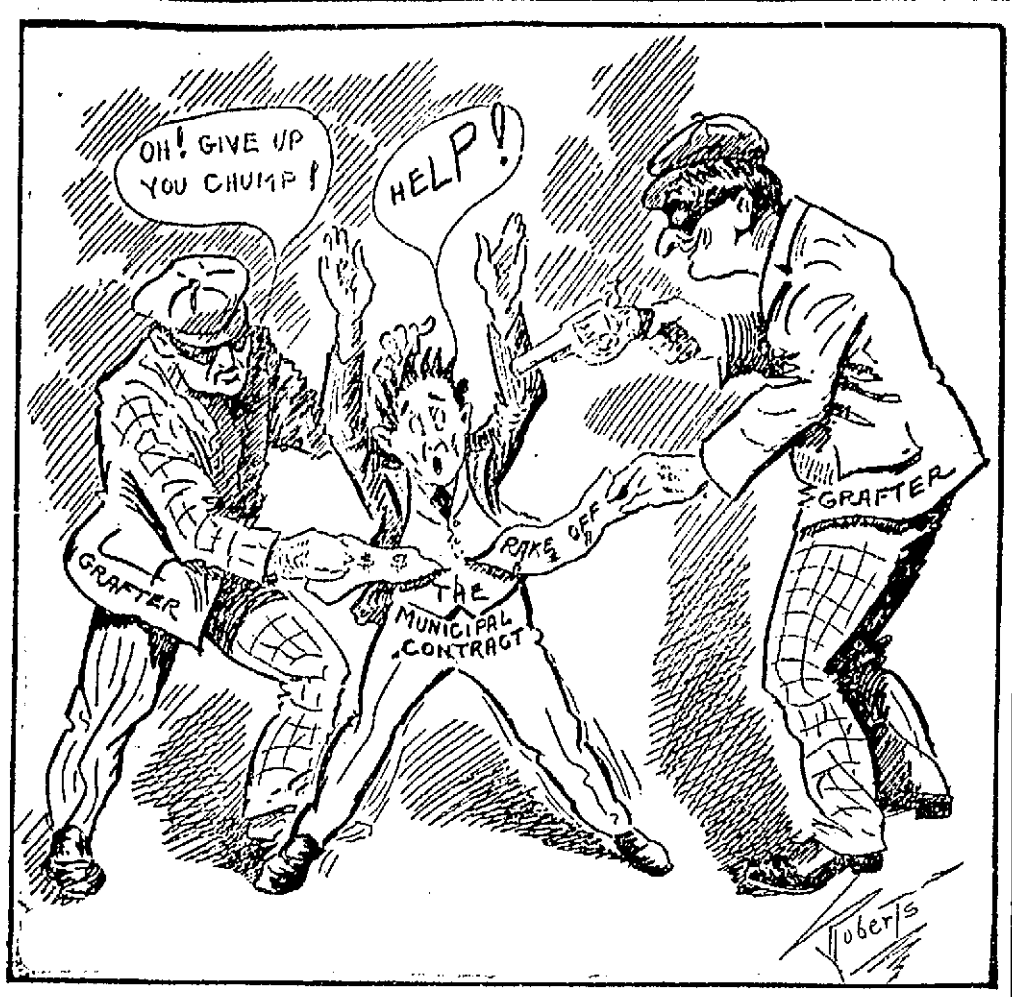

It was unanimously voted to postpone action on the matter and the hall will be left as it is for the present and perhaps always. Article 5 and 6 relating to the acceptance of a small sum of money remaining in the treasury of the Billerica Improvement association, to be used for the purpose of maintaining seats on the common, and article 6, providing for the acceptance by the town of all the personal property of the association, consisting of crockery, glass, silverware, snow plow and settees, were both adopted.

The meeting was called to order at eight o'clock with about fifty present, and after the moderator was chosen, polls were opened for balloting for an assessor of taxes for the current year to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Albert H. Andrews, who was elected last March. There were 37 votes cast, and C. A. Bowman received 21 of them, winning the election. William H. Sexton also ran and received 11 votes; DeLacy Corkum had 4 and Joseph Holt 1.

The meeting dissolved at 9.30 after the announcement of the vote.

WANT THE RAILROAD.

The residents of North Billerica are anxiously awaiting the promise of the officials of the Boston & Northern Street Ry. Co. to extend its tracks from South Lowell and Lown through North Billerica. A franchise was granted the railroad company, but after it was granted it seems that the officials changed their minds and thought it unwise to extend the tracks. The residents of Billerica are of the opinion that nothing would be lost by the railroad if it should connect South Lowell with North Billerica.

CHIEF HOSMER

Will Answer Mayor Casey's Letter on Lighting

Chief Hosmer of the fire and street lighting departments is in favor of the present method of lighting streets and is diametrically and otherwise opposed to electric lights.

He will give a report to the papers tomorrow or the day after. The report will contain figures contradictory to those contained in Mayor Casey's letter that appeared a few days ago.

Mr. Hosmer says he is not looking for trouble, but he says he must make a statement, in figures, to defend himself and to rectify wrong impressions formed by those who studied the figures in the mayor's letter.

THE POPULATION.

The unverified population of the town of Billerica according to the census of 1905 is 2843, a gain of 266 over the figures of 1895. There are 1397 males and 1446 females. These figures were sent by Chief Statistician Charles F. Pidgin to Selectman Charles H. Kohlrausch.

JEWELS STOLEN

REWARD OF $250 OFFERED FOR THEIR RETURN.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 8—An advertisement, published in the local papers today, offering a reward of $250 for the return of jewelry stolen at Block Island on Saturday last, revealed the fact that Harry D. White and wife, of New York were robbed of watches and rings valued at $200. The robbery occurred while Mr. and Mrs. White were bathing, they having left the jewelry in a bath house. efforts were made to recover the jewelry without unnecessary publicity but without success and Mr. White has now offered to pay $250 for the return of his property and "ask no questions."

Mr. White, is a member of the firm of Stern & Co., New York.

Master J. Harold Hackett, of Amherst street, is spending his vacation with Miss Lena Wood, of Portsmouth, N. H. He witnessed the explosion there on July 22nd, and the arrival of the envoys on August 5th. During the past three weeks he has visited Hampton, Rye, York and several other beaches.

Saturday, August 12, 1905

ABSOLUTE SALE BY PUBLIC AUCTION OF A VERY PRETTY COTTAGE HOUSE AND ABOUT 3000 SQUARE FEET OF LAND, SITUATED AT NO. 54 HAMPSHIRE STREET. ALSO A LOT OF LAND CONTAINING ABOUT 9800 SQUARE FEET ON HILDRETH STREET.

Having reached an age where the care and responsibility of real estate is more than I wish to carry, I will pledge for absolute sale these two parcels to be sold on their respective premises, Saturday, Aug. 12, 1905, regardless of any condition of the weather.

At 3 O'Clock

The first parcel is a pretty and attractive little home, situated on the westerly side of Hampshire street, numbering 54 on said street. It is a modern house of seven rooms and bath, cemented cellar, best of sewerage, gas lighting, and has all the requisites for a perfect home property. To the reader of this notice, I want to say, as to the situation and beauty of this parcel, you will have to look upon it with your own eyes. The rooms are of good size and conveniently set apart; the building is in perfect repair, and sets on good, high, level land. The lot is about 3000 feet in area, with a frontage on the street of about 30 feet. I have it rented at the present time and it brings in a yearly rental of about $192. Now this is a perfect little home for someone, in a first class neighborhood, and I am determined to sell it to the highest bidder on that day set apart.

At 3.30 O'Clock

I will sell a lot of land containing about 9800 square feet situated on the easterly side of Hildreth street, about opposite the cemetery. The city at this point has grand elevation and the surroundings are very beautiful, many pretty homes having been built during the past six or seven years. The lot has a frontage of about 50 feet on Hildreth street; the extreme depth being over 300 feet.

Now one could so place buildings upon this lot, giving it a 10-foot avenue the entire length on one side and fronting the buildings on the avenue. This would allow the erection of four or five houses that would certainly rent to good advantage as there are not many idle tenements in this locality. The same conditions go with this parcel as with the first, being that I have absolutely pledged my word that I will sell to the highest bidder.

Terms of sale: $250 must be paid to the auctioneer as a deposit on the cottage on Hampshire street, as soon as it is struck off. The same must be done with $50 on the Hildreth street land.

Per Order, STEPHEN McMONAGLE.

Saturday, August 12, at 4.15 O'Clock

POSITIVE SALE BY PUBLIC AUCTION OF A TWO AND ONE-HALF STORY, TWO TENEMENT HOUSE AND ABOUT 2447 SQUARE FEET OF LAND, AT NO. 21 ROBINSON STREET.

Being a non-resident of your city, I have pledged this property to be publicly disposed of to the highest bidder. I have recently papered and painted the interior, putting it in very good shape. The house contains eight rooms, four with each tenement. They are of good size, conveniently laid out and, for small families very desirable. The building is in very good repair and for the person who could look after it properly it will make a grand good investment on the purchase price. The lot contains about 2447 square feet of land and is situated at the corner of Robinson street and Robinson court. It has good elevation and a number of fruit trees, and has a frontage of about 40 feet on Robinson street and about 60 feet on Robinson court. Robinson street is a short street running westerly off Congress street, and this house numbers 21 on said street. Now I am determined to sell this property as I do not want the bother of traveling down here from Manchester in order to look after it.

Terms: $200 must be paid as a deposit to the auctioneer as soon as the property is struck off.

By Order of ELIZABETH M. DRISCOLL, Manchester, N. H.

THE FUMIGATOR

Spencer Brown Tells About His Work

How would you like to be the fumigator?

This has been a very hard summer for the man who fumigates officially. His name is Spencer Brown and he has been connected with the health department for the last 12 years.

Mr. Brown has had some close calls while fumigating houses and while he is not overburdened with flesh he says that his health is good. He is subject to headaches, but that is due entirely to the fumes of the disinfectants that he uses. A person unaccustomed to the work could not stand what Mr. Brown stands.

This forenoon he gathered his pans and the rest of his fumigating apparatus including a generator and fumigated a house in Meadowcroft street, where a person had died of consumption. Although he exercised what he considered necessary caution he was almost overcome and when he returned to the health department stables he was not feeling inclined to do much talking. He had remained too long in the room where he was fumigating.

When he first started in the business of fumigating Mr. Brown had some pretty close calls and while he no longer fears for himself he is constantly in dread that persons in a house that he is fumigating may suffer.

"You have to keep your mind on your work all the time," said Mr. Brown. "You cannot afford to depend on anybody's word. I have known people in tenement houses whose apartments were being fumigated to tell us that the upstairs tenement was vacant. I always investigate, however, and by so doing we save lots of trouble. I have in mind a case of an old lady who was in an attic room and the people on the lower floor told me there wasn't anybody living up stairs.

"I went up stairs and found the old lady. If I had proceeded to fumigate that house I would have killed her. There are a great many things to guard against. When I enter a room I first turn the window fasteners so that I can throw the window up at short notice. In order to open the window while the fumes of the disinfectant are in the room we have to crawl on our hands and knees. I found it pretty hard when I first started but I don't mind it now. I have had some pretty close calls and have run up against some pretty funny people, yet. I rather enjoy it. It is more or less interesting and there is a certain fascination about it that I can't explain. The process of fumigation for different diseases is about the same. It may differ a little but not much. We have everything that is supposed to be up-to-date for our line of work and I think we do a pretty good job.

"Despite the fact that there is lots of opportunity for accident to persons while fumigating dwelling houses yet the city has never been called upon to settle any bills on that account. We have been very fortunate. Once in a while we have found the pet cat knocked out under the stove or some secluded spot where she stretched herself and escaped our notice. The apparatus we use is very simple, consisting of a lot of tin cans and a generator. I venture to say, however, that the job is not one everybody would relish."

STATE FARM MAN'S QUICK RETURN

Officer Bigelow's Prisoner Released

Judge Pickman presided at the session of the police court this morning and Lieutenant Donaldson appeared as the public prosecutor in the absence of Deputy Welch, who is on his vacation.

John Meghan, a long-haired medicine man from the wild and wooly west, was allowed to go without a fine.

Ellen O'Brien, who has been before the court several times for drunkenness, was fined $6. She appealed.

Three drunks were released.

Thomas Barrett, who was released under the new drunk law, Sunday morning, was before the court again this morning upon the same charge.

Barrett pleaded not guilty to the charge. Officer Gerow testified that he arrested the defendant at 12.30 yesterday, because he was staggering drunk. His breath smelt of liquor, and he was drunk. Officers McClougherty and Coleman said the defendant was drunk.

Barrett was found guilty and given a suspended sentence of four months at the solicitation of his honest wife.

Fred M. Billings, once upon a time one of Lowell's brightest men, and a great ball player, fell from grace yesterday afternoon and wound up with the usual result. He pleaded hard to be let out, but Judge Pickman thought otherwise and Fred will sojourn for 20 days in the stone mansion on Thorndike street.

Louis Libby, a second offender, got a six dollar fine.

John Kennelley and John McFadden owed considerable board money to Hannah M. Sheppard, a boarding house keeper on the Hamilton corporation. Mrs. Sheppard had a lien on the trunks of the two men. A few days ago the two defendants removed the trunks. Last night both were arrested for removing baggage illegally. Both pleaded not guilty in court this morning and said they were ready for trial. The government was not ready and the case goes over until tomorrow.

Emil Therriault, charged with breaking into a gum box located at the corner of Hanoverand Moody streets, pleaded not guilty.

Patrolman Maloney and Abbott told about the breaking last Sunday morning. The defendant denied the story of the officers. After a lengthy trial he was found guilty and fined six dollars.

MILKMEN FINED.

Victor N. Cluff, charged with violation of the milk law, by selling milk below the standard of 12 per cent. pleaded guilty. Milk Inspector Allen related the circumstances and the defendant was fined $20.

Louis Sinckle with whom Officer Bigelow had considerable trouble on Moody street last night was released with a bandaged head.

THE LATE EDWARD HASSETT.

DIED ON COMMON

ELECTRIC ENGINEER OF BEVERLY

Was Formerly a Resident of This City

Edward Hassett, general superintendent of the Gas and Electric corporation of Beverly, but a former resident of this city, died very suddenly in the North common shortly before seven o'clock while being accompanied to the home of Mr. Thomas J. Enright. Death was due to heart failure and occurred so quickly that medical aid could not be summoned before he expired.

The deceased was born in this city and has a mother, a sister and two brothers living here.

Yesterday he came to Lowell and called at the office of Mr. Enright who was an old friend of his while living in Lowell, and the two friends spent a very pleasant afternoon. A visit was made to the office of James H. Carmichael in the Central block and about 6.15 o'clock Mr. Enright and Mr. Hassett boarded a Merrimack street car and got off at Cabot street. After passing through Cabot street the two men made their way across the common. When near the band stand Mr. Hassett complained of feeling weak and was unable to continue any farther. He sought a seat close by and thought that the weak spell would pass over in a few minutes.

Mr. Enright remained seated with Mr. Hassett for a short time, after which the ill man said he was feeling somewhat better. The two men arose and proceeded a short distance, and then Mr. Hassett again became weak.

Seeing that his friend was in a serious condition, Mr. Enright hurried to his house nearby with the idea of calling for a carriage. As he was about to call central, his sister informed him that a crowd was gathering around a bench on the common.

Mr. Enright hurried out, but was too late to be of assistance to Mr. Hassett, who was either dead or dying. The body was placed on the grass, and a hurry call for the ambulance was given. A quick response was made, and in the meantime everything possible was done to revive the man.

Although it was not known that Mr. Hassett was dead at the time when the ambulance arrived at St. John's hospital an examination soon showed that life was extinct. The body was then removed to the funeral parlors of Undertakers Thomas Saunders & Co., 522 Merrimack street.

The deceased had not lived in this city for about 15 years. He was born in the vicinity of Broadway and after graduating from the local schools went to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology where he completed a course of electrical engineering and after graduating secured a position as electrician for the Beverly Electric Co.

Later upon the consolidation of the electric with the gas company he was advanced to the position of general superintendent. He was married, several years ago, to a Salem woman, and has one child, a boy, about a year old. His widow and the child live in Beverly. Of late years he had made trips to see his relatives here, an aged mother, Mrs. Mary Hassett, who now lives at 1417 Gorham street; a brother, Fred, employed by the Boston & Northern Street Railway company, another brother, James J. Hassett, employed as a weaver by the Bigelow Carpet company, and one sister. He is survived by another brother, Rev. Arthur Hassett, curate in the cathedral of Trenton, N. J., and another sister, Mrs. James Carey of Boston.

EXTRA

FOUND FUSE CAP

Michael Grosse Feared Plot to Kill Him

Did some uncouth, unfriendly spirit in Providence, R. I., intend to blow up our musical citizen Michael Grosse? It would appear so from what Michael discovered this morning, when he opened one of his hurdy-gurdys and found a stick of dynamite. He rushed down to the police station with the stick, and loudly announced that an attempt had been made on his life, because stored within one of his musical boxes was an infernal machine, and he produced the supposed stick of dynamite.

The inspector's room was crowded at the time and the way everyone ducked would do credit to any bunch of professional dodgers. When things quieted down and the terror stricken officers had been reassured that things were not so bad as at first supposed, an investigation was made and it was found that the dynamite was a fuse cap, not so fatal as a stick of dynamite.

It seems that early in the summer Mr. Grosse rented one of his machines to a Providence party. This morning the machine was returned to Mr. Grosse, and when opened the fuse cap was discovered. How it came or for what purpose it was put there nobody seems to know, but the cap now rests quietly over in Derby & Morse's store on Middle street.

A BREAD FAMINE

Is Threatened Because of the "Kosher" Bakers' Strike

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—With five thousand striking Jewish bakers in Greater New York this morning the city faces the greatest bread famine in its history. At midnight delegations from Brooklyn, East New York and Harlem, visited strike headquarters in Clinton street on the East side, and notified leader Samuel Kuriz that none of the Jewish shops in these districts would be open today.

Information has also been received that German local No. 1 and locals 40 and 305 in New York are ready to go on a sympathetic strike that may affect a number of the largest bakeries in the city. The Jewish bakers of Jersey City and Newark have announced that they will no longer furnish the boss bakers with kosher bread with which to supply the clamoring thousand on the East side, who until the present time have been the greatest sufferers from the strike.

The New Jersey bakers are said to have held meetings last night at which committeemen from the strikers were assured that they would walk out of the shops today if it could be shown that their employers were selling bread on the New York side of the river.

Driven to desperation by the increaser prices of bread and rolls the poor inhabitants of the East side were in a sullen mood and hundreds of women and children crowded the streets in the vicinity of strike headquarters offering encouragement to the men, who declare that they will starve before they will go back to work under the old arrangement of the sixteen hour day.

Rioting among the bakers continued throughout the east side during the early part of the night, necessitating an extra patrol of 225 uniformed policemen in addition to all the plain clothes men that could be spared from uptown precincts. One man was placed in front of every bakery below Twelfth street and east of the Bowery, besides the regular duty men.

Clashes occurred at nearly all the bakeries where an effort was made to employ non-union men. Various committees were sent from the continuous meeting in Clinton street to non-union men to induce them not to go to work. One of the committees, finding the doors of the bakery of Isaac Baron, at 196 Madison street, barricaded, made an onslaught on the place, and were clubbing the men found at work when the police arrived upon the scene.

The police, with drawn sticks, charged the crowd and arrested the leaders before any one had been seriously hurt. A crowd of at least 500 women and children—all of them strike sympathizers—crowded about the police and begged them not to arrest the strikers.

LAW OBSERVED

Lowell Has a Very Good Record

The city of Lowell is quiet and orderly and one of the most law abiding cities in the country.

This morning a Sun reporter looked over reports from over fifty cities that had been sent to the police department of Lowell by the chiefs of these cities. These reports told of breaks, of robberies, of rape, of larceny, of assault with intent to kill, of highway robbery, of assaults, even of murder and other crimes too numerous to mention, all committed during the month of July. When you compare these reports of dire conditions in these cities with the record for Lowell you indeed may marvel.

Superintendent Moffatt speaking of police affairs said: "This summer things are especially quiet, but still you take it all in all Lowell is a pretty good city, and for observance of the law it compares favorably with any city in the country and is perhaps more law abiding than half of them."

JOSEPH SMITH

IS COMING HOME IN TWO WEEKS.

A letter was received from Clerk of the Police Board Joseph Smith, who is now spending his vacation at Vancouver, B. C., to the effect that he was in good health and would be home about the 18th of the month.

WENT TO REVERE.

Four special cars left this city this morning on the Revere beach limited, over two hundred people availing themselves of the chance of getting a nice cool ride to that popular beach.

The next excursion will be held Thursday.

LIVELY BLAZE

IN A HOUSE ON VARNUM AVENUE.

A fire broke out in the house of George F. Falls in Varnum avenue late yesterday afternoon and Mr. Falls succeeded in extinguishing it as he thought, but feeling that he might not have thoroughly extinguished it, telephoned to the central fire station and asked that aid might be sent to the house in order to be sure that the fire was out.

The combination wagon from engine 5 was sent out and an investigation showed that there was a lively fire in progress between the beams. A portion of the flooring was torn away and the fire extinguished. The fire was caused by a defective chimney.

But for the presence of mind of Mr. Falls the fire might have smouldered until late in the night and destroyed the building.

FUNERALS

JACKSON—The funeral of the late Bridget Jackson took place yesterday afternoon from the home of her sister, Mrs. Maria Regan, 78 Appleton street, and was largely attended. The bearers were John Roarke, John Roarke, 2d, Timothy Roarke, Patrick Roarke, Peter Roarke and Charles Higgins. Services were held at St. Peter's church at 2.30, Rev. Fr. McDermod officiating. The burial was in St Patrick's cemetery, in charge of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

PAPPAS—The funeral of George Pappas took place this morning at 8.30 o'clock from the funeral parlors of Undertakers C. H. Molloy & Sons and services were held at the Greek Othodox church in Lewis street at 9 o'clock. Rev. Joaquin Georges officiating. The interment was in the Edson cemetery.

FOSTINE—The funeral of Gaquin Fostine took place this morning at 10.30 o'clock from the home of his parents, Manuel and Amelia, rear of 14 Queen street. The interment was in the Edson cemetery under the direction of Funeral Directors Charles H. Molloy & Sons.

JOHN J. PINDER

ACTING AS POLICE BOARD CLERK PRO TEM.

Messenger John J. Pinder of the Lowell police department is a very busy man these days, for in addition to his other duties he is now performing the duties of Clerk Smith of the police board, who is absent on his vacation.

Mr. Pinder says that the meetings of the "Nitro Glycerine" club continue, and that he is fast becoming acquainted with the gigantic financial problems of the day.

LOCAL POLICE

NOTIFIED OF LARCENY OF TEAM OF HORSES.

The local police station was notified, by telephone from the Lawrence station this afternoon, of the larceny of a team of horses in Lawrence. The thief is supposed to have started for Lowell. As description of the man and horses was given and all the local inspectors and patrolmen were notified.

BEAT THE MAIL

KENNEDY'S WONDERFUL SPRINT FROM BRIDGEWATER.

James J. Kennedy, a veteran of many a well fought drunk, performed the wonderful stunt of beating the United States mail. Yesterday morning he was released from the state farm at Bridgewater and last night he was arrested and brought to the station on a charge of drunkenness.

This morning Supt. Moffatt received a postal mailed yesterday forenoon informing him of the release of Kennedy from the state farm.

"Well," said Mr. Moffatt, "this beats the record. Here I receive this postal this morning and Kennedy beats it out by arriving here last night."

This morning in court Kennedy pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Patrolman Reilly arrested the man on the Dracut boulevard and says he was so drunk that he could not stand.

Kennedy was found guilty and will be returned to Bridgewater tomorrow.

HE MAY LIVE

GEORGE W KELLY SHOT BY AN UNKNOWN MAN.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Aug. 8—The police were unable today to throw any light on the mystery which surrounds the shooting of George W. Kelly by an unknown man on the outskirts of the city last night. Kelly is at the hospital suffering from three severe scalp wounds, but his recovery is expected.

BRADEN AWAY

ALDERMAN PAYS ANOTHER VISIT TO HIS OLD HOME.

Alderman Thomas H. Braden left Lowell this morning for his old home in northern New York where he will remain for about ten days. In view of the fact that there was some doubt as to his whereabouts when he paid his last visit to New York, Sir Thomas decided to inform the good people, who took such a kindly interest in him, as to where he was going and how long he would remain. He notified the mayor, members of the city council and the reporters.

SUDDEN DEATH

Of Bridget Fleming of Merrimack St.

Bridget Fleming, an old resident of this city, died suddenly this morning at her home, 362 Merrimack street. She was in what appeared to be the best of health. Heart failure was the cause of death.

She is survived by a brother in Boston. The remains were removed to the funeral parlors of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

MINOR ACCIDENTS.

NEEDLE IN HAND.

DEATHS

NEALON—Mary Nealon, wife of Thomas Nealon, died last night at her home, 168 Market street, aged 56 years. Deceased was an old resident of Lowell, and for the past 25 years a member of St. Patrick's parish. Besides her husband she is survived by 3 sons, Michael, John J. and Patrick, the two former being well known employes of the New England Telephone Co., and two daughters the Misses Julia and Jennie G. Nealon.

CAR DEMOLISHED

Ten Persons Injured, One Fatally

EMPORIA, Kas., Aug. 8.—A switch engine crashed into a way car attached to an east-bound Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe stock train, standing on the tracks here early today. The way car, which contained a number of stock men, was demolished and ten persons injured, one fatally.

CAUGHT IN ROOM

Patrick Coleman Corners Alleged Thief

Patrick Coleman, the well known boarding house keeper at 139 Colburn street, caught a sneak thief red handed this afternoon and now the culprit languishes in the tolls.

After dinner Mr. Coleman took a short walk and upon his return he went up stairs. He heard a noise in one of the boarders' rooms. He thought it strange as the man who occupied the room was at work in the Merrimack. He opened the door and beheld a stranger going through one of the trunks. Mr. Coleman never said a word but quietly locked the door and notified the police.

He will be arraigned on the charge of larceny from a dwelling tomorrow morning.

$15,000 LOSS

FIRE IN BIG MILLING COMPANY'S STOREHOUSE.

MONTREAL, Aug. 8.—A fire started at noon today in the storehouse of the Lake of the Woods Milling company at Ville St. Louis, a suburb of this city. A telephone message received here this afternoon stated that the fire was under control and placed the loss at $150,000.

Charles A. Burns, the popular hair dresser at Paradis' barber shop, returned this morning from a three weeks' vacation spent at Salisbury, Nahant and Salem Willows. He reports a very enjoyable time.

CAPT. STEVENS

WAS ARRAIGNED ON CHARGE OF ARSON.

PEABODY, Mass., Aug. 8.—Captain Walter C. Stevens of the signal service corps of the state militia, was arraigned in the local court today, and his case was continued until Sept. 11 at the request of the government. Captain Stevens was charged with having attempted to burn a dwelling house in West Peabody on July 21.

DIED FROM PARALYSIS.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 8.—C. H. Prescott, a capitalist of this city and at one time prominent in railroad circles died last night as the result of a stroke of paralysis, which occurred six weeks ago. Mr. Prescott was born in Boston in 1839 and entered the railway business in 1869. He was at one time auditor and cashier of the Missouri river, Fort Scott and Gulf R. R., and at different times manager of the Oregon R. R. and navigation company, and second vice president of the Northern Pacific company. When the latter road went into the hands of a receiver in 1893, Mr. Prescott was appointed receiver of the western division. Of late years he has been the trustee of Boston, Mass., capitalists, who have large holdings of real estate in Portland.

CHURCH WRECKED

St. Thomas' in New York Destroyed by Fire

Valuable Paintings and Bas Reliefs Were Lost—John D. Rockefeller's Home Was in Danger—The Damage is Estimated at $250,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—St. Thomas Episcopal church at Fifth avenue and 53rd street, one of the most richly furnished religious edifices in America, was wrecked by fire today. Within a block of the ruined church are the homes of half a score of the country's wealthiest men. On 54th street, directly in the rear is the city residence of John D. Rockefeller and nearby are the residences of Wm. Rockefeller, H. McKay Twombley, Col. J. J. McCook and the home of the late Daniel S. Lamont. The hotel St. Regis is scarcely one block away and scores of the finest city homes in America are in the section of which St. Thomas church was practically the centre. The fire was confined to the church.

Defective electric wiring is supposed to have started the fire. The loss is estimated by Fire Chief Croker as at least a quarter of a million dollars. Only a mere shell of stone walls was left standing and paintings and bas reliefs worth many thousands of dollars were ruined. A bronze bas relief called "The adoration of the cross," executed by Augustus St. Gaudens and valued at $50,000, was totally destroyed. Sumptuous altar and chancel furnishings, including a $20,000 organ, were destroyed by the fire.

For a time John D. Rockefeller's home was in danger. Firemen stood in the windows of Mr. Rockefeller's home and concentrated the streams of water on the 205-foot—stone tower of the church which for a time threatened to topple over on the Rockefeller home.

A dramatic incident, the ringing of a big bell in the tower, marked the close of this struggle just at the moment when the firemen had succeeded in saving the surrounding homes from the impending danger. The peril was greatest when the roof of the church fell in. This shock shook the great tower to its top.

The on-lookers shrank back, but the only sign the tower gave of the tremendous impact of the falling roof was one stroke from the clapper of a shaken bell.

The church was closed for the summer, with pastor and parishioners nearly all out of town. Only little more than an hour preceding the fall of the roof, the smoke was first seen curling out of the tightly closed edifice, and by the time the first engine had arrived, flames were everywhere breaking from the windows.

The church has stood on its present site for 60 years and has been the scene of some of America's most brilliant weddings, including that of May Goelet to the Duke of Roxburgh. The Rev. Ernest M. Stires is the rector.

Ladderman Mooney helped to save the tower by a heroic climb to its burning belfry, during which he was severely injured and narrowly escaped death. Wood work in the belfry was ablaze and the order was issued to chop it down. Mooney volunteered and after going to the top of an extension ladder, which was too short to reach to the belfry he climbed the remainder of the distance on a scaling ladder. Big, loosened stones were falling from above and all about him. The ladderman made the ascent safely, loosened the woodwork so that it fell to the ground and started to descend when a falling rock struck him on the head and shoulder, dazing him. He collapsed against the rungs of the ladder and clung there until other firemen climbed to his dangerous position and carried him to the ground where he was revived.

IN A TRANCE

BOY MOVES FOR FIRST TIME IN FOUR MONTHS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—A remarkable change in the condition of little Charles Canepi of Yonkers, who has been in a trance-like state for months as a result of an attack of spinal meningitis, was observed yesterday, bringing home to the distressed parents of the child after they had practically given up all hope of his recovery.

Four months ago today, the boy, after being out in the fields with several small companions picking flowers, was stricken by a strange malady which for a time baffled accurate diagnosis. At length it was found by the examining physicians to be a peculiarly pernicious form of spinal meningitis, which reduced the sufferer to a state of coma, producing a blood clot on the brain.

Charlie moved yesterday for the first time since he was stricken, stretching his arms up and giving other indications that the spark of life was still strong within him. Another favorable indication is that though the boy was a few weeks ago totally blind his physician says he has now regained the use of one eye. He is also taking a little more nourishment than formerly.

A TOOTHPICK

FURNISHED CLUE TO WIFE WHO RUN DOWN HUSBAND.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Mrs. Amanda May, of Bridgeport, took her four small children across the street to her neighbor, Mrs. Martha Simonson, to care for while she went downtown, as she says, and then she eloped with Mrs. Simonson's husband. Mrs. Simonson, acting as her own detective, and following as a clew the toothpick which her husband, Harry, always carried either in his mouth or in the band of his hat, ran down the couple in a rooming house, No. 77 South Sixth street, Brooklyn, yesterday, and haled them into the Adams street police court.

Simonson is a good looking young fellow of about twenty-eight, dark, smoothly shaven, and of a somewhat flashy fashion of dress. Mrs. May appeared to be about four years his junior. She is tall and attractive. She said that she had been married very young, and that her husband was "too slow for her," while Simonson was "just her style."

Mrs. Simonson is older. She has a girl eleven years old, a boy nine years old and a baby was born just three months after its father ran away. She said that she and Simonson had lived happily together until about the Christmas holidays of last year, when her own kindness of heart toward another woman began to lay the foundation of her present unhappiness.

She said that she had observed that her neighbor, Mrs. May, was very lonely evenings, as her husband was a night worker, and that she therefore made a practice of going over and getting Mrs May to come to her house and spend the evening. It was not three months after that Mrs. May took her the four May youngsters one morning, asked her to look after them while she went shopping, and then went away with the kind neighbor's husband.

Simonson was committed to prison in default of bail. Mrs. May was turned loose.

OPEN WAR

MAYOR OF MT. VERNON MAY ASK FOR TROOPS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Open war is threatened in Mount Vernon because of the persistence of the Interborough Water company in carrying out its intention to shut off the water of all consumers who refused to pay their bills. Conditions reached a critical stage yesterday when Mayor Brush instructed the commissioner of public works to refuse the company permits to disconnect the water of any consumer. Orders were also issued by the mayor to the police to see that the employes did not open the streets to shut off water cocks.

Last night the entire police force of Mount Vernon was on active duty to carry out the mayor's orders. Employes of the water company were equally determined that the instructions of their superiors should be obeyed, and the two parties marched up and down the pavements ,keeping a close watch on each other.

Mayor Brush declared last night that if the police of Mount Vernon were insufficient to prevent the turning off of the water he would call upon Governor Higgins to send several companies of the National Guard to aid the police in maintaining order.

Corporation Counsel Sherman has not yet been located, although every effort was made to reach him yesterday by telegraph. As soon as he can be communicated with another injunction will be sued for. In the meantime Mayor Brush declares that the water supply of Mount Vernon shall not be shut off and intimates there will be blood shed, as he has instructed the police to resist to their utmost any disconnection of water mains.

GUESTS OF PRESIDENT.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Francis B. Loomis, assistant secretary of state, was a guest of the president and Mrs. Roosevelt at luncheon today. Another luncheon guest was Dr. Jacob H. Hollander of Baltimore, who came here to talk over with the president the results of his inquiries as special commissioner to Santo Domingo.

THE PEACE ENVOYS

Receive Great Ovation on Reaching Portsmouth

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 8.—With one of the foreign peace envoys within its gates, and the other three practically at the harbor's mouth, Portsmouth aroused itself this morning to the realization that one of the most important days in its history was actually at hand. The Russian envoy, Mr. Witte, arrived late last night and early this morning a wireless message was received from one of the fleet which left Oyster Bay on Saturday with the other envoys, that the vessels were not far from the Isles of Shoals and that the little fleet would be in the harbor on time.

Like yesterday the day dawned clear and bright and also with indications of considerable heat before the festivities would be concluded.

The streets were not quite so thronged during the early morning hours as at the same time yesterday, but still there was quite a little animation and the soft morning air gently waved the flags and streamers draped about many of the buildings, making an attractive picture to those who strolled up and down the highways and byways of the old seaport.

Portsmouth, the settlement of which dates back to within a few years of the Pilgrims' landing at Plymouth ,for days has had an air of appreciating the importance of the pending conference. With actual coming of the day of meeting, with the envoys at the doors, with the governor and other state dignitaries in readiness to speak their welcome, with the militia arriving to de escort duty and with people thronging into the city, sentiment was changed to positive belief that the event which was about to take place, had no precedent in history. It was the first time that three continents were interested in peace negotiations and it was declared by those interested that if peace were concluded, Portsmouth would take her place in fame with Utrecht and Campoformi.

The postponement of the ceremonies for 24 hours on account of the delay of the arrival of the envoys and the fact that hundreds came here yesterday to be disappointed by the change in arrangements, apparently did not cool the ardor of those who desired to participate in the event. The capacity of the various traffic lines was taxed to the limit by those who desired to visit the city today.

SOLDIERS ARRIVE.

The New Hampshire National Guard began coming in at 8.30. Twelve hundred troops arrived between that hour and 10 o'clock, coming from every section of the state and as they sought breakfast places in the business section there was a bustle and hurry greatly in contrast to the usual sober quietness of the staid old town.

In the harbor the shipping had been dressed for the occasion and several handsome steam yachts with brightly colored signal flags from stem to stern over their masts added a gala appearance to the scene at the navy yard. At the yard the battalion of marines who are to form a guard of honor while the envoys breakfast as the guests of Rear Admiral Mead were on parade in regular uniforms going through the evolutions which were to be their part in the ceremonies. A considerable squad of secret service men arrived in the city this morning and stationed themselves for work according to their carefully prepared plans for forming an effective guard for the safety of the distinguished personages.

ARMY OF CORRESPONDENTS.

FLEET ARRIVES.

The fleet was off the harbor entrance shortly after nine o'clock and at a quarter past that hour was slowly steaming in by the Wentworth. It was but a few moments after half past nine when the vessels dropped anchor off the navy yard.

At that hour the ideal weather conditions had changed slightly. The sky had become somewhat overcast with hazy clouds but a dog-day sultriness was tempered by a cool air from the sea.

At the navy yard the finishing touches were given to have everything ready for the conference, the whole preparations serving also to give to the guests a fine specimen of American comfort. Admiral Meade today imparted the last strictest instructions to insure the perfect secrecy of the meetings and the arrangements are such that the members of the peace commission while within the navy yard will be watched closer than the cardinals during the last conclave for the election of the pope.

The program, as officially mapped out by Third Assistant Secretary of State Peirce, Rear Admiral Meade, commandant of the Portsmouth navy yard, and Governor John McLane, for the official reception of the peace envoys, was carried out without modification or hindrance.

OFFICIAL CALLS.

It was 10 o'clock when Rear Admiral Meade left the navy yard on his launch to make his official calls on the envoys. He first paid his respects to his senior officers and Assistant Secretary Peirce and then to the Russians on board the Mayflower, concluding with a visit to the Japanese mission on board the Dolphin.These calls were made with the usual precision and consumed a half hour. As the admiral left each ship a salute of thirteen guns was given in his honor. The admiral then returned to the navy yard, where a battalion of marines in white uniforms under command of Major Franklin Moses and headed by a United States naval band, was drawn up to receive the envoys. Also at the landing, in full dress uniforms, were the officers in charge of the various departments of the yard who were to assist Rear Admiral Meade in the shore reception of the envoys, which was immediately to follow.

WITTE GREETED.

At 10 o'clock a steam cutter flying the American flag and a Russian flag rounded Henderson's Point and headed for the navy yard. The officers and men stood at "attention." The launch was made fast to the decorated float moored at the sea-wall and as Mr. Witte, the Russian chief Plenipotentiary stepped out, he was formally greeted by the read admiral and his staff.

A launch bearing Ambassador Rosen and party then drew up and greeting was extended to him. As these envoys stepped ashore, the ambassador's salute of nineteen guns was fired.

JAPANESE ARRIVE.

The echoes of the cannon shots were still throbbing over the harbor when the steam cutter with the Japanese envoys aboard hove in sight. The saluting battery again repeated its thunderous salute while the same form of presentation and greeting as had been given the Russians was extended to Baron Komura and Minister Takahira.

The march of the envoys to the scene of their further labors, was then begun, a company of marines lining the path and the band played American national airs. The procession was led by Armiral Meade and M. Witte. Once inside the building the plenipotentiaries and their suites were assigned to their respective rooms where they occupied themselves for a few

It was shortly after the noon hour when the rear admiral and the envoys entered the room in the building where the formal breakfast of Rear Admiral Meade to the plenipotentiaries had been spread.

The apartment had been decorated with flags and streamers, the plain walls being completely hidden by a profusion of naval penants in artistic designs. The tables were prepared for 65 persons, those present including besides the distinguished Russians and Japanese, the naval officers attending Rear Admiral Meade, their wives, and a number of prominent Portsmouth residents.

At the conclusion of the luncheon the peace envoys at 1.35 o'clock started for Portsmouth. A squad of marines escorted the distinguished party to the navy yard gate. At the navy yard limits the marine escort was withdrawn and the mile and a quarter to Portsmouth was covered speedily in automobiles, without military guard. At the Portsmouth end of the bridge was drawn up the escort regiment of the N. H. National guard, commanded by Col. Tetly. The regiment, headed by a band, took up the line of march to the county court house where Governor McLane and his staff were waiting to extend the greetings of the state, and where Mr. Peirce also welcomed the envoys as the representative of the nation. The governor's opening address was brief but cordial.

Governor McLane spoke as follows:

In behalf of the government and the people of New Hampshire, I have the pleasure and honor of extending to your excellencies the hospitality of our state. We realize that you have come upon a momentous errand and I am sure that I voice the sentiments of all the world in expressing the hope that here in this ancient community, where cluster many of the finest traditions of American history, you may be able so to proceed with your historic negotiations that they may be crowned by a treaty of Portsmouth whose enduring terms will reflect upon yourselves, will meet the approval of the illustrious sovereigns whom you represent and will prvoe a blessing to your peoples and a benefaction to all mankind.

Upon the conclusion of this happy result, we shall ask you further to be our guests and take a wider view of our attractive environment in a tour of our mountains and our lakes, where we may further strengthen, by social intercourse, the friendly ties which have always bound the American people to nations of our kindred. Your excellencies, I welcome you in the name of the sovereign state of New Hampshire.

The personnel of the reception party was as follows:

Governor John McLane; U. S. Senators Jacob H. Gallingher and Henry E. Burnham, Congressmen Cyrus A. Sulloway and Frank E. Currier, Major General Augustus D. Ayling, Brig. Gen. Jason E. Tolles, Geo. D. Waldron, Daniel C. Remick, Ernest L. Bell, Frank E. Kaley and Wm. F. Thayer, Colonels Frederick J. Shepard, Clement J. Woodward, Willis P. Shaw, A. Melvin Foss, George E. Danforth, John H. Bartlett, Edwin C. Bean, Henry W. Anderson and Wm. E. Storer, Councilors Fred S. Towle, Charles M. Floyd, Joseph W. Howard, Edward G. Leach and Charles H. Greenleaf.

The exercises in the court house were over in twenty minutes and the envoys again took their places in the automobiles and were driven to the Wentworth hotel where they were assigned to their respective quarters.

The passing of the envoys from the bridge to the court house and thence to New Castle was observed by crowds who showed great enthusiasm, cheering repeatedly the distinguished foreigners. It had been understood that this short journey would afford probably the best opportunity that the public would have of seeing the representatives of both Russia and Japan together and the throngs took every advantage of it. The plenipotentiaries rode in open barouches and frequently acknowledged the cheering of the people.

About the court house thousands massed the streets and as the Russians alighted, the ovation was such as to prompt them to waive the hats which before that time they had been compelled to hold almost constantly in the air.

MR. WITTE

WILL DO ALL HE CAN TO CONCLUDE PEACE.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 8.—Mr. Witte got up early as usual, beginning at once to work preparing, with Mr. Wilkenkin, some despatches to his government in answer to those which reached him during the night.

Speaking to the representatives of the Associated Press, he said that he is more than ever animated by the desire of doing all in his power to conclude peace, but that, as he has often stated, all will depend on what the Japanese expect to obtain. However, he will leave nothing unattempted to reach the desired object, and in case of failure, the world will judge on whom the responsibility will rest. Changing argument of conversation. Mr. Witte, who had been working up to then in his shirt sleeves, said that notwithstanding the beautiful scenery and the sea breeze, he had felt pretty warm even here. "I expected," he added, "that it would be coo'er."

Mr. Witte lunched in his own room, then dressed in a frock coat and white vest to go on board the Mayflower.

Mr. Witte walked from the Hotel Wentworth to the boatlanding accompanied by Mr. Wilenkin and Mr. Batcheff, and escorted by Mr. Moses, secretary to Gov. McLane and the officer in command of the launch on which he left at 9.30 a. m. to reach the Mayflower.

All the guests of the Hotel Wentworth gathered on the veranda of the hotel to assist at this departure, while several amateur photographers photographed him.

A SUICIDE

BODY OF MAN FOUND IN THE HARLEM RIVER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—The body of a man supposed to be A. Ursch, an upholsterer, was found floating in the Hudson river yesterday off 177th street by Edward Clapper, a fisherman of 93 West 134th street. Clapper was out in a rowboat about 20 feet from shore when he saw the body. He towed it ashort and notified a policeman of the West 152d street station.

When the body was taken out of the water a stone weighing about twenty pounds was found tied around the waist with a long piece of wire, such as is used for hanging picture frames. When Clapper first saw the body the face and shoulders were above water, but the lower part was under the surface. The police at first thought that they might have a murder mystery on their hands, but the man's coat was found later on the short near where the body was picked up, and the police were satisfied that the man was a suicide.

FOUND DEAD

MAN WAS PROBABLY KILLED BY A WIRE CUTTER.

BUTTE, Mont., Aug. 8.—Joseph Whitford, an old man employed as a special watchman by the Northern Pacific railroad since the beginning of the telegraphers' strike, met a mysterious death last night, and everything indicates that he was murdered. It was at first thought he was killed by being run over by a suburban car, but developments today show that he was either dead or unconscious when the car struck him, and was placed on the track by his murderers. He had been employed to watch the telegraph and telephone wires of the Northern Pacific. Near the scene of his death one of the wires, passing under a railroad viaduct, had been cut, and it is surmised that he caught the perpetrators in the act and was killed for it. Some distance from the electric track a big pool of blood was found, and there was evidence that from that spot he had been dragged to the car tracks. The motorman says the old man's face was upturned and was covered with blood before the car struck him.

RECEIVER APPOINTED.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8—Judge Adams of the U. S. district court has appointed a receiver in bankruptcy for the assets of the American Knit Goods Mfg. company, whose factory is in Brooklyn. The bond of the receiver was fixed at $150,000. The company was incorporated on July 1, 1902, with a capacity stock of $1,500,000. The liabilities are reported to be about $100,000.

SWEPT BY FIRE

$500,000 Damage Done by Blaze

DOCKS AND FERRY-BOATS RUINED

Hotel an Easy Prey to Flames

NEW YORK, Aug. 8—Inside of three quarters of an hour late last night, fire swept away the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad company's terminal in Hoboken, seized upon two ferry boats and practically ruined them, and for half an hour threatened a conflagration of the entire water front in the vicinity, including the big Hamburg-American and North German Lloyd steamship docks at which several big ships were lying. The property damage is estimated at from $100,000 to $500,00. So far as known, no lives were lost.

For over an hour huge tongues of flames leaped from the wooden structures on the Lackawanna docks, lighting the New Jersey and New York water fronts. For a time it promised a loss greater than that of the big dock fire of several years ago when the North German Lloyd piers were destroyed with a great loss of life. Blazing ferryboats, cut from their docks floated in the river, wandering fireships which for a time endangered shipping in the river.

The fire started on an old wooden ferryboat and swept by a northerly breeze, communicated with the ferry house, spread to the main building of the Lackawanna and then to the Duke's house, a famous Hoboken hostelry. The hotel was a frame structure and was an easy prey to the flames.

By this time the flames were spreading in all directions, utterly beyond the control of the first fire fighters who had responded to the first alarms.

Following the hotel the structure of the public service corporation, the street car operating company of Hoboken, N. J., and nearby places, went down before the flames.

At 1 o'clock this morning the fire was under control the big steamship piers having been saved and a rough estimate placed the loss at nearly half a million dollars.

A remarkable feature of the great blaze was that inside of twenty minutes after its start it had seized upon the Lackawanna's terminal and swept its 600 feet of train sheds, dooming them.

The flames started from an unknown cause on the old wooden ferryboat Hohacong which had been tied up in the open slip between the Hamburg docks and the Chester street ferry slip. The fire was discovered about 11 o'clock. It was then leaping from the boiler room below the main deck through the engine room and attacking the wooden superstructure.

A watchman on the ferry dock turned in calls for the fire department and also for the Lackawanna fire brigade. Almost before the company's men could lay a line of hose and before the city firemen could reach the scene; the flames had leaped to the ferry office building between the piers and then to the brand new ferry boat Binghamton, which was lying in the northern slip of the Barclay street line. From these it leaped in a few seconds to the high frame structure above the waiting rooms and in five minutes after the fire was first seen, the entire buildings, covering many acres, were burning. Ten minutes later the high tower, which surmounted the building, crashed down. Twenty minutes after the alarm it looked as if the entire lower part of Hoboken including the Hamburg piers, would go.

There were four slips with high pilings and these burned fiercely and sent the fire southward into the freight piers.

These had been destroyed for the most part by a great fire on May 29, 1904 and had just been rebuilt.

From the waiting room the flames leaped into the train shed and so rapid was the spread there that engines which were drawing out the cars for use in the morning had to be hurried out. Seven coaches were left behind, but there had been time enough to save about sixty others.

The two burning ferryboats were towed into the stream by tugs. The Hohacong sank later. The Hohacong when she took fire was tied against the Hamburg-American dock No. 3. The flames licked the sides of the pier but did not set it on fire.

The wind was blowing lightly from the north and that carried the flames on the Hohacong away from the pier and into the superstructure of the ferry terminal.

Fire aid was early summoned from Jersey City and New York, the former city sending all available engines and the latter despatching two fire boats. With the aid of the extra engines the Hoboken firemen were able to prevent the fire from spreading through lower Hoboken, while the fireboats held the flames in check along the water front.

While the fire was held by the firemen to the north and west, it was spreading along the freight piers to the southward, where only tugs and fireboats from Manhattan could attack it. Here it caught the new immigration station. This building was of brick and stone and had been occupied only two weeks. It cost $70,000 to build and was supposed to be fireproof, but was soon a mass of fire, the interior burning rapidly. Only a few persons were in it at the time of the outbreak and they were hurried out.

Just as the alarm was given the men on the railroads terminal bridge were making ready for the arrival of boats from New York. The captains of the approaching ferryboats, however saw the fire and stopped their heavily loaded craft.

The railroad company had arranged to run its trains into its yards outside the burned district tomorrow. Thousands of persons saw the fire from the docks and buildings off Manhattan. The crowds became so great that it was necessary to turn out the police reserves. An alarm was turned in from Manhattan and Chief Croker ordered the fire boats New Yorker and McClellan to the scene.

The blaze in the Hohacong spread so rapidly that when she got out into the river and began to slowly move up stream she was burning from end to end. The ferryboat Binghamton was pushed over towards Christopher street, where she was beached.

The ferry boat Musconetcong, loaded with several hundred passengers was reported to have had a narrow escape, just backing out and missing the bursting Hohacong.

MAN OBJECTS

OFFICER BIGELOW INSISTS, BAD HEAD THE RESULT.

Officer Bigelow, while making his rounds in lower Moody street, last evening, encountered two pretty tough characters, who were decidedly under the influence of liquor. The officer placed both men under arrest. The prisoners were inclined to object and one made good his objections by escaping.

The other declined to go with the officer, and absolutely refused to be handcuffed. The usual forcible argument was used by the officer, and when the prisoner arrived at the police station the city physician, Dr. Forster Smith had to be called to sew up the wounds in the prisoner's head. Bigelow's past experience may perhaps excuse his severity in this case.

POPE PIUS

SAYS ROOSEVELT IS ENTITLED TO THANKS OF CIVILIZED WORLD.

ROME, Aug. 8.—The pope yesterday received in private audience Edward J. Sullivan, American consul at Trebizond, Turkey, and E. Martin, his secretary. The pope was most cordial and sent his salutations to President Roosevelt.

He expressed the most fervent desire that peace would be concluded between Russia and apan, and said that President Roosevelt was entitled to the thanks of the whole civilized world for his efforts to bring the bloody conflict to a close.

IRISH LEAGUE

WILL GIVE REDMOND A GREAT WELCOME.

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—A special joint meeting of the Boston Central Branch and Boston Central Council of the United Irish League of America will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the American house to commence arrangements for a reception in Boston to the Hon. William Redmond, M. P. for East Clare, who is now on his way from Australia to San Francisco, and who will visit Boston Sept. 14.

It is planned to give Mr. Redmond a splendid welcome. Immediately after his last visit to Boston, three years ago, Mr. Redmond was sentenced to a term of six months' imprisonment in Kildmainham jail, Dublin, because of his energy in the national movement.

Mr. Redmond sailed from Sydney July 31 on the steamer Ventura, and is due in San Francisco Aug. 21. A committee consisting of the most representative Irish citizens of San Francisco is engaged in preparing a welcome for the distinguished Irish representative, and there is no doubt that his welcome will be a hearty one.

Mr. Redmond has consented to visit Boston when he comes east, and the United Irish league of Boston and vicinity will arrange an out-door welcome for him at the American League baseball grounds, Huntington avenue, on Thursday, Sept. 14.

LATEST

State to Aid Fever Stricken District

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 8.—Some probability exists that there will soon be considerable relaxation of the yellow fever quarantine restrictions in Louisiana. Governor Blanchard is urging President Souchon of the state board of health to take steps toward that end and Dr. Souchon's energy in the matter is already beginning to show results, his intimation of litigation in St. Landry having so modified the quarantine in that parish that it is to be opened to all freight forwarded in fumigated cars.

Lieut. Gov. Sanders and Speaker of the House Snyder, men of large influence in the two branches of the legislature, have announced hearty support of the proposition for state aid to the extent of $100,000 in the present emergency. The appearance of many cases in St. Mary and St. Charles parishes has intensified state interest in the fight here and assures practically unanimous support of the governor in borrowing the money now.

Heretofore the Marine Hospital surgeons as a rule have appeared in civilian dress. Now, however, that they have assumed official control of the situation, all the members of the corps on duty are to wear their uniforms which will carry authority wherever the wearers go.

The general situation is considered to have shown considerable improvement. Although new foci are appearing here and there, it is still looked upon as being held within bounds and Dr. White he regards this as showing practical results from the more perfect organization recently formed.

TWO CASES

FEVER MAKES ITS APPEARANCE AT BON AMI, LA.

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 8.—State Health Officer Taber has been advised that there are two cases of yellow fever at Bon Ami, La. The telegram also stated that one of the suspects was dead. The two men were Italian refugees from New Orleans. A demand has been made from the Texas border for troops to act as guards but the request has been declined by both Dr. Tabor and the governor.

ONE DEAD

FIVE CASES OF YELLOW FEVER IN MEXICO.

MEXICO CITY, Mex., Aug. 8.—The superior board of health officials report but five cases of yellow fever in the Republic, four at Vera Cruz and one at Coatzacoalcos. One patient died at Vera Cruz Wednesday and another case was found on the same day. All five cases are thoroughly isolated.

The fight against the mosquito continues at all points. Daily reports are received from places where the disease is likely to manifest itself.

SCARE IS OVER.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 8.—The yellow fever scare in Montgomery is now entirely passed and the board of health announced today that there is no further need for bulletins.

DR. GOLDBERGER

REPORTS CONDITIONS AT THE DENTENTION CAMP.

SHREVESPORT, La., Aug. 8.—Dr. Goldberger of the United States marine hospital service last night gave out the following statement on conditions as he finds them at the detention camp outside of the city:

Barney Tracey, convalescing from yellow fever.

All the cases were of men who tried to enter the city from other points, but were stopped on the outskirts by the quarantine inspectors and conveyed under proper precautions to a detention camp and there carefully screened. There appears to be no danger to spread and no cases are known to be present in the city.

SECRETARY TAFT

May Go on Supreme Court Bench

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Talk is renewed since the appearance of Elihu Root at the head of the cabinet of the possibility of Secretary Taft going on the supreme bench when the first vacancy occurs and yielding the administration's favor ungrudgingly to Mr. Root as the presidential nominee for 1908.

A civil officer recently returned from the Philippines relates an incident that occurred during Judge Taft's occupancy of the post of civil governor there to illustrate the trend of his personal ambitions.

"One day Judge Taft summoned me to his office," said he, "and read me a number of cablegrams from President Roosevelt offering him an appointment as associate justice of the supreme court, to fill a vacancy then existing. The last cablegram received amounted to a demand that Judge Taft accept. He seemed in a quandary and asked me what I thought he ought to do. 'If I ever had a political ambition in my life,' said Judge Taft to me, 'it has been to serve on the United States supreme bench. Now the opportunity is before me.' I promptly advised him to accept. After hesitating he replied: 'No, my duty for the present is to complete the work begun here and trust to the future for the rest.'"

This conversation occurred under circumstances different from those which now surround the war secretary. His name was not before the country for the chief magistracy, nor was he so much in the public eye. "Sitting on the Bl" was then an unclined expression. Family influences are quietly at work to prevail upon him to go after the presidency. Personal friends who stand close to him say the buzzing of the presidential bee almost drowns the sound of the small voice calling him to a future vacancy on the supreme bench.

112 DESCENDANTS

WILKESBARRE WOMAN MAY MEET THE PRESIDENT.

WILKESBARRE, Aug. 8.—Among the many visitors to this city when President Roosevelt comes here next Thursday, may be Mrs. Lydia Rantz of Danville and some of her 112 descendants. As an exponent of the president's anti-race suicide ideas Mrs. Rantz is entitled to a prize. She has six children, 35 grandchildren, 64 great-grandchildren and seven great-great-grandchildren. She is only 87 years old, and is in such good health that she expects she will live to welcome several more great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Rantz's son John is a great-grandfather at the age of 60. His daughter, Mrs. Lloyd of Milton, is a grandmother at the age of 40. She has two daughters, who were each married when they were 20 years old and each has children.

James Wertman, one of Mrs. Rantz's grandchildren, has 13 children, including three pairs of twins and one set of triplets.

The twin and triplet history of the family is in itself interesting. Mrs. Rantz is the grandmother of one pair of twins, great-grandmother of three pairs of twins and of triplets; great aunt of two pairs of twins; great-greataunt of two pairs of twins and second cousin of one pair of twins.

Mrs. Rantz is active and energetic, despite her great age and works constantly, still doing excellent needlework.

GOLD PLATE

GIFT OF 10,000 MEN TO PRESIDENT'S DAUGHTER.

MANILA, Aug. 8.—Miss Alice Roosevelt was accorded here yesterday the triumph of her life. Ten thousand men, including the barbaric and picturesque members of the thrifty provincial delegations, the gorgeously uniformed marines and members of the military and sailors and industrials of the port, marched under the reviewing stand, where she sat with Secretary Taft, Governor-General Wright, Major General Corbin and Rear Admiral Train and presented her with a magnificently decorated gold plate, amid the acclamations of thousands of natives and colonials.

Miss Roosevelt beamed upon the multitude and accepted the plate with a deep bow.

After the procession Miss Roosevelt assisted Secretary Taft in receiving a party of sugar planters and listened to talk about the sugar interests of the island. Later there was a magnificent reception given by Governor General Wright, at which Miss Roosevelt met Rear Admiral Enquist and staff of the interned Russian ships.

INDIAN GIRLS

CONSTABLE JONES SAYS THERE IS OPEN TRAFFIC IN THEM.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 8.—A report has been made to the provincial police by Constable Jones, who just returned from the Indian village at Cape Mudge stating that in that settlement, there is open traffic in Indian girls. Jones found a number of well authenticated cases where half breed and quarter breed girls have been recently sold to white men at prices ranging from $100 to $250. A complete investigation will be made by the authorities.

FAIRBANKS' BOOM

Is Meeting With Some Obstacles

SHAW SENTIMENT IS GROWING

But Gov. Cummings Is Against Him

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—A hot summer has had the usual effect of suspending nearly all except routine public business in Washington. The official bigwigs are away, the exception being such personages as Secretary Wilson who had to forego a western trip to watch a trap set for grafters, and Attorney General Moody, who has to devise a form of punishment for the game when once entrapped.

But the hot weather has not wilted the presidential booms. They grow without the nourishing influences of nitroculture, or any of the agencies known to government science. The friends of Secretary Leslie M. Shaw are more than usually active. Word comes from Chicago that Congressman William Lorimer, a republican boss who wears many medals for smooth work in politics, is setting up the plea for Shaw in a way calculated to make Uncle Joe Cannon reach for the chunk of ice in the water pitcher as he did at Portland, Ore., a few weeks ago, when he nearly broke up the opening ceremonies of the Lewis and Clark Exposition. Mr. Lorimer, incidentally, is showing a total lack of regard for the neighboring Fairbanks boom.

A stranger story of the ferret-like work of the Shaw men comes from the banks of the Wabash. Congressman Crumpacker is openly avowing his preference for Shaw, while Congressman Jesse Overstreet, who lives in the classic environs of North Meridian street, Indianapolis, a few doors from the vice president's home, is busier than the keeper of a bowling alley at a Hoosier Fourth of July, setting up the pins for the secretary of the treasury. Down in Virginia the republican children are carrying flags, the race question is obscured and young and old are preparing for the advent of Secretary Shaw, who is shortly to address the republican state convention.

The only discord at present is the news from Iowa that Governor Cummins is to take the field against Shaw, with tariff revision according to the "Iowa idea" as the watchword. Even this seeming defection is said by Secretary Shaw's friends here to be overestimated and to be largely the work of presidential candidates outside of Iowa.

Senator Foraker is in Cincinnati but is expected here in a few days. Some of his friends are quietly feeling the southern pulse. Within a week he has told those anxious to start his boom that it is too early, but that he will give a definite answer to the question in the early fall. If he decides that the skies are propitious he will embark with more zeal than he has shown up to this time. It is believed here that Senator Foraker will enter the race and ask for the support of his own state. The other favorite son of Ohio, "Big Bill" Taft, the secretary of war, is in the Philippines.

The Fairbanks boom is having troubles in its own household. They are not confined to the reported inroads made by Secretary Shaw. The mayoralty campaign in Indianapolis is the vice president's chief embarrassment. In the recent city primaries ex-Mayor Bookwalter, who attributes his defeat two years ago to the open hostility of the vice president's afternoon newspaper and the covert opposition of Mr. Fairbanks himself, went out again after the nomination for mayor and cleaned up the Fairbanks candidate by 2500.

On the heels of this triumph the ex-mayor and other republican leaders pointed out to Mr. Fairbanks that he must fall into line and support the republican ticket or he could not hope for a united state delegation for president in 1908. Congressman Overstreet, Acting National Chairman Harry New and other prominent republicans delivered this ultimatum to Mr. Fairbanks by word of mouth. Meanwhile Mr. Beveridge is getting control of the state organization. He is demanding the retirement of Goodrich, a Fairbanks man, from the head of the state committee and the selection of a new man.

Incidentally J. K. Gowdy, who endeared himself to the Hoosier republican heart as "Coon Jack," a state chairman with a backbone in the troublous times of 1896, is hastening back from Paris where he was consul-general for eight years, to get an axe out for Fairbanks. This is because Mr. Fairbanks refused to assist him to keep his job as consul-general.

Gowdy will bring back to the Hoosier state his radiant smile and almost everything he took away with him eight years ago except the chin whiskers. In lieu of these, much remarked at the time he went away, he acquired enough to buy about all the land in Rush, his home county. Gowdy's return to Indiana will be the occasion for an ovation by republican workers. He is expected immediately to get busy in politics. It has been said that Senator Beveridge would like to restore to him the state chairmanship.

A dozen or more Indiana republicans wearing broadbrimmed slouch hats, who happened to be in Washington last week, declare that Mr. Fairbanks "will have to thaw out," or a political dirge will supplant that Hoosier classic "On the Banks of the Wabash" in the Indiana repertoire. Gumshoe agents are traversing the country trying to make political pacts three years in advance of the national convention, but leaving no tracks behind them. That wise old political fox William Pitt Kellogg said to a friend today that in his memory, covering every national convention of the republican party since his birth, he had never seen so many candidates for president acandidating three years ahead of the convention.

MOCK DUCK HELD

Chinese Bail Was Fixed at $1000

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—For more than a week there have been talk about the criminal courts building that another killing in Chinatown was due and that members of the On Leong Tong, of which Tom Lee is the head, were to be the victims. Just a week ago Lee Toy, a nephew of Tom Lee, said to a reporter in the corridors:

"You had better look out. There is going to be something doing in about a week. Some leading members of our men have been picked out. It will come off in some place that has not been touched before."

The Chinatown theatre, where three Chinamen were killed on Sunday night and one fatally injured, had hitherto been neutral ground. The On Leong Tong and the Hip Sing Tong, the rival organizations had mingled freely at the play, but they had never carried their warfare into the theatre. When the managers of the theatre sued for a renewal of the license recently Commissioner McAdoo held the application up while he made an inspection of the place. It was only a few weeks ago that the commissioner granted the license, after he had been satisfied that the theatre was orderly.

All this time Mock Duck, head of the Hip Sing Tong and ally of the Parkhurst society, was very busy in Chinatown.

Mock Duck, who was arrested about three hours after the shooting in the Chinese theatre, Sunday night, was arraigned before Coroner Schober yesterday and held in $1000 bail as an accessory. On Quong and Don Kim were held without bail for killing Lee Kim and Lee Yuk. Six other Chinamen who were caught in the theatre were held in $5000 bail each. The inquest will be next Friday.

Chinamen swarmed around the criminal courts building all day yesterday. The twenty-two caught by Capt. Hodgins were all released on the recommendation of the captain.

Old Tom Lee, guarded, paraded over to the building to look after the interests of his On Leong Tong. As he started out of the building the report of a pistol sounded a few blocks away. The Chinamen in the tombs court stirred uneasily. Tom's knees shook. He hurried over to his lawyer's office, trembling and white, and insisted that the shot had been meant for him.

Chinatown wore a holiday air. A score of Eggers's men marched through the district. Two uniformed cops stood in front of the Chinese theatre. The small storekeepers stood in front of their stores and gossiped about the shooting. The dreaded Mock Duck was behind bars for a few days at least. In the chop suey joints Chinamen talked in groups. Here and there were heard whispers of a mysterious $1700. What was done with the money every week? Wasn't it money that the gamblers were spending? Could there be any connection between that $1700 and a weekly raid? Wasn't it pretty well known in advance what particular gambling joint was to be raided and when? But who cared about the raids when the evidence vanished in court next day, if there ever had been any.

Sergt. Eggers says that the fight between the two tongs and the fact that the one is forever squealing on the other were responsible for the shooting.

STOLE A HORSE

MAN WITH SEVERAL ALIASES IS UNDER ARREST.

KEENE, N. H., Aug. 8.—A man who the police believe is one of a gang who are wanted in various parts of Massachusetts and Vermont, was arrested by local officers here today on the charge of stealing a horse from C. H. Holden of Bellows Falls, Vt. The man first gave the name of James Morgan, but later changed it to James Sullivan. A man of the latter name is wanted by Springfield, Mass police for horse stealing. The prisoner was taken to Bellows Falls and will probably be arraigned in court tomorrow.

INJURED GIRL

MAY NEVER RECOVER SPEECH SAY DOCTORS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—The physicians in attendance upon Miss Ethel Cram, daughter of Mrs. Henry A. Cram, of No. 5 East Thirty-eighth street, the society girl whose skull was crushed in a runaway accident at Lenox on July 19, are watching eagerly now for one spoken word to determine whether the brain centers which control the faculty of speech have been permanently injured.

In the three weeks that the young girl has been in bed at the Cram summer home, at Lenox, she has not spoken one word, although she has not been in a state of coma. Her physicians have now begun to fear that her speech has been taken from her. Her vocal organs are intact, because she frequently cries out and moans in a perfectly normal manner, but it is feared that the cells in the brain which control them, may have been injured by the pieces of bone which were removed from the brain after the accident.

Miss Cram was operated upon by Dr. Henry Colt, of Pittsfield, assisted by Dr. Charles McBurney and Dr. William M. Polk of New York, and William Armstrong and Dr. E. P. Hale, of Lenox. Dr. Colt announced yesterday that Miss Cram was progressing satisfactorily, except for her silence, and that while she was not yet out of danger, there was hope for her ultimate recovery.

TWO INJURED

MEN WERE RIDING ON TOP OF FREIGHT TRAIN.

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—Edward J. Monahan and Jacob Fries were seriously injured by striking a bridge in South Boston while riding on top of a freight train today. At the Massachusetts general hospital, where the men were taken for treatment it was said that each was suffering from concussion of the brain and a fractured skull. Their recovery is considered doubtful.

PASSENGERS HELD UP.

SKULL CRUSHED

Body of Man Found in Deserted House

NASHUA, N. H., Aug. 8.—The finding of the body of Geo. Lee, in a deserted farm house in the village of Antrim, last Sunday and about whose death there are suspicious circumstances will be investigated by the authorities. County Solicitor Edward H. Wason and Medical Referee James T. Greeley went to Antrim today on the purpose of conducting an investigation and holding an autopsy.

A superficial examination of the body yesterday showed that the man's skull had been fractured. A box of tablets were found near the body but the contents of which they are composed is not yet known.

THE SONYA

WON RACE OVER SHORT QUEEN'S COURSE.

COWES, Isle of Wight, Aug. 8.—The regatta of the Royal Yacht squadron opened today. The chief event was the race for King Edward's cup. Almost as great interest however, centered in the race for fifty-two footers over the short Queen's course, which resulted in a victory for the Herreshoff-built boat Sonya.

The winner was followed in by the Moyana, the Britannnia, the Maymon and the Gauntlet in the order named.

SENT TO JAIL

GIRLS PUNISHED FOR GOING TO A DANCE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Acting under orders of Chief Wagner to arrest girls under 16 years of age who frequent Bayonne public dances unaccompanied, the police yesterday arraigned in court Virginia Lehr, Mary Taylor, Hattie Flanagan and Annie Smith. Recorder Lazarus sent the Flanagan girl to a home and the others to the county jail.

IS NOT GUILTY

Mrs. Dube Not a Railer and Brawler

COURT GIVES GOOD ADVICE

Tells Neighbors to Patch Up Troubles

Another case of common railing and brawling occupied the attention of the police court for over an hour this morning, and after the evidence was all in Judge Pickman ordered the defendant Odile Dube discharged.

Odile Dube, a Centralville woman residing on Campaw street, was charged with railing and brawling, and pleaded not guilty. Patrolman Quinn was the first witness for the government and testified that he went to the defendant's house last Froday night and warned her if she did not desist from annoying her neighbors he would have to arrest her.

Lawyer Hammel cross examined the witness at length, and the officer said he had to go to her house several times.

John George Tucker testified that he lived across the street from the defendant and that the defendant had not talked to him for a year but said she always hollered "epitafs" at him. On the 24th of June she called him an "old Indian." Then she told him to go pay his bills. She never talked to him but she hollered names at him across the street. She called him in French "Le Sauvage" several times.

Noe T. Patinaude lives next to the defendant, and he said she called him, in French, a liar, a thief, a jail bird and other vile names. She continually hollered at him from her window. She said he was a convict and his whole family ought to be in jail. He saw no neighbors around when she was calling him names. The last time she called him names was on the 24th of June.

Bella De Roche testified that she could not come home a night without the defendant putting up the window and calling out names at her. On the 23rd of June the witness was playing around the yard when the defendant called out to her to go home for it would be better for her. The defendant also called her a vile name.

One night when the witness was coming home with a friend the defendant called her a low dirty name.

Mrs. Josephine Patinaude who resides at 16 Campaw street testified that on the 24th of June the defendant called her an "old scamp" a "tale bearer," "an old beer barrel." Since the first of January every time the defendant saw the witness she either called her names or made faces at her. She called her names four times since the first of January.

The witness lives on the other side of the road from Mrs. Dube about 30 feet.

To Lawyer Hammel she said that outside of those words she and the defendant had not spoken.

DEFENCE.

Six witnesses were sworn for the defence. Mrs. Dube testified in her own behalf and said she had lived on Campaw street for seven years. She had not spoken to the DeRoches for three years and the Patinaude for four years. She never cried out anything to them, because she had not spoken to them at all. Her conduct in her house was peaceful and quiet. She has been sick for five years, and under the care of a physicin for that length of time. She never swore at Mrs. DeRoche. She did not call anybody vile names. In relation to Bella DeRoche she said she had some words but that Bella called her a drunkard and a gin drinker.

Mrs. Elsie Patineaude testified that she has lived on Campaw street for one year. She was always in her house right next to Mrs. Dube and she's always found her a perfect lady. It was very quiet in Mrs. Dube's house. She never heard a word, never heard any noise from either side.

Judge Pickman stopped the case at this point. His honor said he had allowed the case to drift on in order to get the atmosphere of the situation. It was nothing out of the ordinary to find in a neighborhood like the one in question, and occasional outbreak among the children or the neighbors. The statute requires it to be "common railing and brawling," that is habitual, so as to disturb the neighborhood and be a nuisance.

His honor did not think the evidence sufficient in this case to show common railing and brawling. He advised the parties on both sides to return to their respective homes, not with a view that Mrs. Dube had won a victory, but with a view of becoming good friends. The defendant was then found not guilty and discharged.

STRIKE OVER

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 8.—According to Supt. Weymouth of the Seattle division of he Northern Pacific and Supt. Scott of the Cascade division of the Great Northern railway the telegrapher's strike is practically over. The former states that every office on the Seattle division of the Northern Pacific road save one is now in operation and that the company has all the operators it wants.

Supt. Scott, with headquarters at Everett, stated that every station, north of Everett, except Lockport, is supplied with an operator. Supt. Scott said also that the strikers are manifesting a willingness to go back to work.

CHIEF HOSMER

TO ATTEND CONVENTION AT DULUTH, MINN.

Chief E. S. Hosmer, of the local fire department, is making preparations for his departure to the National Association of the Chiefs of Fire Departments which will convene at Duluth, Minn., August 16 to 19.

A main topic for consideration will be the establishment of a uniform coupling for the apparatus of all the departments in the United States. The desirability of such a provision, whereby any engine with uniform coupling could go to any other city and be coupled to the hose and other apparatus without trouble, is manifest. Such an adoption might well be compelled by law.

MANY WERE KILLED

Department Store Building in Albany Collapsed

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Three hundred persons employed in the large department store of the John G. Myers estate at Nos. 39-41 North Pearl street, had just gone to work this morning when the whole centre of the building collapsed from roof to cellar. Nearly a hundred men, girls and children, were carried down in the wreck. The first estimate placed the number of killed and injured at 40.

Thus far all those taken out of the ruins have been alive. There is no doubt, however, that when the rescuers reach the bottom of the heap of debris they will find a number of dead.

The catastrophe, which occurred shortly before 9 o'clock, is the worst of its kind in the city's history.

CAUSE OF ACCIDENT.

The Myers estate has been making extensive repairs on its building. This morning a gang of Italian workmen started to remove an iron pillar that supported the main floor. Evidently they had failed to brace the floor properly, for scarcely had they loosened the post, when down came all three upper floors within a radius of 50 feet from the fatal pillar. The wreck crashed through the cellar, burying the workmen and carrying down those who happened to be working in that portion of the building.

The fire department was called out and the work of rescue began at once. Considering the nature of the accident the number of persons who escaped with slight injuries is remarable. The debris in which the firemen and their assistants are digging is light, consisting mostly of wood and plaster. Little or no heavy brick or stone work fell, and this fact gives hope that the number of fatalities may not be large.

The building was comparatively new, having been erected less than 20 years ago by the late John G. Myers. Since Mr. Myers' death two years ago the business has been carried on by a company consisting of Geo. P. Hilton, H. King Sturdee and Edward F. Hackett. It was one of the city's two large department stores.

PEEPING TOM

MAKES THINGS UNPLEASANT FOR PERSONS IN CHELMSFORD ST.

A peeping Tom, the meanest of human weeds, has been focusing his vulgar gaze on windows in Grand and Chelmsford streets. Last night shortly before 9 o'clock he made things unpleasant for persons in that vicinity.

Mrs. Waushausky, who lives in Sam Silverblatt's block, was one of the persons disturbed by the Peeping Tom. She was taking in clothes in her back yard when the deluded wretch poked his head around a corner, fixed his eyes on her and then ran out of the yard into the brushwood on Chelmsford street, a few yards away.

The stranger has been seen in the vicinity several times. One night last week three little girls who were returning home saw a man acting suspiciously on Grand street near the corner of Westford. He was gazing into windows, and at the approach of the girls laughed and walked away. It is believed that the man is mentally unbalanced.

WOMEN SMOKE

THOSE IN ARMY CIRCLES ALSO DRINK HARD.

WOOSTER, O., Aug. 8.—The courtroom was crowded yesterday at the continued hearing of the Taggart divorce scandal, which has brought out sensation after sensation in army circles, some of the testimony involving Washington society.

Stories of army women drinking heavily and smoking cigarettes were part of the evidence. Mrs. Taggart was given a chair at her attorneys' table, where they might refer to her at any moment. She watched closely each development of the testimony and seemed to offer many suggestions as the trial proceeded. She seemed in better spirits than at any time during the first week of the trial.

YOUNG ARRESTED

GEORGE W. YOUNG.

Lowell Man is Accused of Perjury

George W. Young of Lowell, the venerable legislative agent, who for nearly half a century has been a familiar figure at the state house, was arrested yesterday afternoon by headquarters inspectors on a warrant charging perjury. He was almost immediately bailed out by his son, surety being fixed at $3000.

The complaint against Mr. Young is the outgrowth of a civil action which has been pending for several years. It is alleged that on April 25 and 27, 1900, Mr. Young offered himself as surety on a bond to dissolve an attachment on real estate. In the affidavit which he made before the bail commissioner, Maj. Jones, it is claimed Mr. Young stated he had unencumbered property in Lowell.

The bond was accepted and nothing more was thought about the matter until an execution was issued in the attachment case in February of last year. When an attempt was made to collect on this execution it is claimed to have then been found by an examination of the records that the property which Mr. Young offered as surety was encumbered.

H. Theodore Fletcher is the complainant, and he is represented in the prosecution of the case by Lawyer R. H. O. Schultz.

Mr. Young, who is 79 years old, is widely known in this state and especially among the lawmakers on Beacon Hill. He has been interested in some of the most important measures that have come before the legislature.

Actively interested in Massachusetts legislation for years, there is no more familiar figure in the state house corridors than Young. In this city, where for nearly half a century his home has been on Middlesex street—almost a wilderness when he first located there—Young has enjoyed the personal acquaintance of more public men probably than any other man now living in this section. He has been an active member of the republican party since its foundation and was appointed a custom house official in 1861.

While he was at the custom house Mr. Goodrich, the collector, was opposed to the transfer of the county business from Lenox to Pittsfield. He was particularly opposed to its being transferred that year, and Mr. Young was asked by him to go to the state house and with others, do what he could against it. He was successful and in the two months he spent there became well acquainted. Later he lost his position at the custom house through change in party rule and since then he has devoted his attention to legislative work, being accounted one of the most successful legislative agents in the state.

Mr. Young's influence was a strong factor in the defeat of the bill to consolidate the Old Colony and the Nashua & Lowell railroad companies, and he took an active part in the sharp struggle which preceded the separation of Malden and Everett. He was also employed on the proposed annexation of Brookline to Boston and became acquainted with the members of the Whitney and Aspinwall families and many prominent Norfolk county officials who were opposed to the project.

Mr. Young has a wide acquaintance among the Boston politicians and he is also well known by many of national prominence.

He married, May 23, 1847, Miss Abby Bailey, and three sons and two daughters were born to them. He is a graduate of Exeter Academy and before his entry into politics was manager of a union grocery store on Rock street, Lowell, which was conducted on the co-operative plan.

Mr. Young assisted in forming the Middlesex club and has frequently attended the reunions of the older members. Recently he has been retained by prominent railroads to look after their interests.

The friends of Mr. Young in this city are of the opinion that there is something wrong in the matter of his arrest and that it will all be cleared up in good time.

OPPOSE DRAPER

Business Men Want Fitzpatrick to Run

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—Thomas B. Fitzpatrick of the firm of Brown, Durrell & Co. has been under serious consideration by some of the democratic leaders in connection with the party nomination for lieutenant-governor this year, but Mr. Fitzpatrick is not a party to the idea, and the leaders will have to look elsewhere.

The suggestion of Mr. Fitzpatrick arose from the fact that the democrats expect that Eben S. Draper will be the republican nominee for lieutenant-governor, and that this nomination will be displeasing to a considerable element in the party which does not like Mr. Draper's position on the tariff. The reform republicans will, the democratic leaders believe, welcome an opportunity to vote for a business man of high standing and ability, and one who would be recognized as not belonging in the class of professional politicians. Mr. Fitzpatrick has seemed to them to be an especially good representative of this type, and it is known that some of the republicans prominent in the reciprocity movement have been sounded as to whether he would be acceptable to them. The Hon. W. T. A. Fitzgerald, president of the democratic city committee, yesterday said he thought Thayer and Fitzpatrick would be an ideal ticket.

This gossip, however, was all news to Mr. Fitzpatrick when a reporter broached the subject to him. No one had mentioned it to him, he said, and he intimated that it would be useless for the party leaders to consult him on the matter, although he did not wish it to appear that he did not highly appreciate the honor involved in the suggestion. His business, however, demanded his entire attention, he assured the reporter, and declared that under no circumstances would he accept the nomination or be able to enter politics in any form.

BRIBERY CHARGE

Ten Boston Aldermen are Accused

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—The mayor's veto of the order granting crosscrossing rights in East Boston, combined, perhaps, with the weather, brought the board of aldermen to the boiling point at its meeting yesterday.

It is an open question whether some of its members didn't really stop over.

By the first vote the veto was declared sustained, but those in favor of the order forced a second vote, in which the veto was declared lost.

Alderman Linehan made two open attacks on the 10 aldermen favoring the order, the first general and the second in detail. He charged that money had been paid for the votes of aldermen, placing on the one side public safety and convenience and on the other side money and corruption.

This was in a general way.

The climax was reached, however, when Alderman Linehan, passing from one to another until he had counted in the 10 aldermen charged each in his turn with having been bought.

Alderman Bowen called him a liar and Alderman Curley, tapping his head, indicated, while he stalled, that the alderman from ward 12 was crazy. Alderman Baldwin used the word and the remainder dropped their characterizations into the general uproar.

LINEHAN CHARGED BRIBERY.

Alderman Linehan, shaking his finger in Alderman Bowen's face, told him that he was bought cheap, while to Alderman Curley he said, "You cost twice as much as the others, as you handled the stuff." Alderman Hennessey he told that he was dirt cheap. Bolton, Nolan and O'Toole he classed under the head of "cheap."

The attack was from the shoulder and left no doubts that he intended that it should be understood that he charged each of the 10 aldermen with having received money for his vote.

When Alderman Linehan started on his perilous trip about the inclosure announcing himself before each of the aldermen in opposition as he passed, it appeared a case of even money against his returning to his seat without a mixup.

He did return in safety with no worse damage than a few muttered oaths and suggestions that he ought to take himself to a madhouse.

MINORITY'S ADVANTAGE.

It has been in the air since the order was first passed by a vote of 10 to 3 that trouble was inevitable in the event the mayor vetoed it. The minority was represented by Chairman Whelton and Alderman Linehan and Bromberg.

STEAMER SANK

180 Passengers Thrown Into a Panic

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 8.—The excursion steamboat Sunshine sank yesterday afternoon at Broad Ripple Park, 10 miles from the city, with 180 passengers on board, all of whom were men except one, a woman, who was rescued by a launch. No one was drowned, but several were injured in the panic.

The boat piles on the back water of Broad Ripple dam on White River and was carrying a picnic party consisting of employes of the Indianapolis stock yards.

The overweighting of the boat caused it to turn over on its side and the superstructure broke from the hull. The water is 14 feet deep in the channel but the boat was near the bank when the accident occurred and in but seven feet of water. The upper deck remained above the water.

Persons in launches and canoes took a number of people from the water. The greater number clung to the upper deck, which was not submerged, until taken ashore by boats.

WIFE IS MISSING

Man Says His Money is Gone Too

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—In a small room at 77 Harvard street, Mr. Hanna a Syrian resident of Boston, mournfully awaits tidings of his missing wife Nellie, their 3½-year-old boy, Henry, and $700 in cash.

Mrs. Hanna was last seen on Friday last, when she told her husband that she was going to collect a bill of $3 due her.

As Mrs. Hanna, like the majority of Syrian women, was a peddler of fancy goods, the husband did not see anything unusual in it, and only when he came home that day her continued absence made him feel uneasy.

Their little child of 13 months was crying lustily, and a brief investigation revealed the fact that Mrs. Hanna's clothes were missing.

Further search, the husband alleges, brought to light that his $300 which was kept at home also disappeared, and that his wife withdrew $400 kept in her name in the savings bank.

Mr. and Mrs. Hanna have been in this country but a few years. Both have the reputation of being industrious and hard working people.

"I am at a loss to understand where she has gone and am willing to do everything in my power to find out her whereabouts," said Mr. Hanna yesterday to a reporter.

"As soon as possible I shall apply to the courts, but, meanwhile, my heart is breaking over my little children.

"I long to see the one that she has taken along, and it is pitiful to see the little one, who is too small to get along without a mother's care."

Simultaneously with Mrs. Hanna's disappearance, the absence from the city of a young Syrian, Sam Derrany, was also noticed.

He has not been seen around his usual haunts since last Friday, and no one could intimate where he has gone.

Neighbors say that Mr. Hanna was a loving husband and father.

STOLE A COAT

STRAPHARA SEPARATES FRANGOS FROM A COAT.

John Straphara was arrested last night by Inspector Walsh and Special Officer Regis upon the charge of larceny of a coat from one of his fellow countrymen, by name James Frangos. Straphara denied all knowledge of the charge, but when the inspector visited his domicile and asked him to open his trunk the coat was produced.

Frangos told the officers that a coat would be found in one pocket and a button in the other. Both articles were found as described, and the offender was locked up to await the judgment of the court.

Before the court this morning Straphara pleaded not guilty and asked for a continuance until Saturday, which was granted, and he was held in $200 until said date.

GIRL WAS KILLED

Struck by a Train at Andover

ANDOVER, Aug. 8.—Miss Minnie R. Claflone was struck and instantly killed by a train while crossing the tracks near the Boston & Maine station last night in company with James Curry, to whom she was engaged to be married in a few months.

The couple had waited for the passing of a freight train and had started to cross the double tracks, not hearing the approaching express train on the other track.

Curley saw the engine bearing down upon them and tried to rescue his fiancee, but she evidently thought it a joke and pulled herself away from him, falling upon the track directly in front of the engine.

Curry was also struck by the locomotive, but escaped with a broken arm. Miss Claflone was 23 years old, and has relatives living in Lawrence and in Ireland.

MEDICINE MAN

FINDS HIS WAY TO THE MARKET STREET COOLER.

A patent medicine vender arrived in town about 11 o'clock last evening with a very peculiar assortment of things not patented, so much so that he was allowed to continue his journey through the City of Spindles in the patrol wagon. At the police station he talked and talked until he nearly drove the keeper crazy. When locked up he became quite penitent.

MAXIMUM AND MINIMUM TARIFF.

The standpatters are warning the president against an endorsement of the reciprocity advocates on August 16. They hint that free trade democratic influence may be booming this reciprocity movement and hence President Roosevelt may have been led to let the whole matter severely alone.

Thus it would appear that already the reciprocity principles propounded by President McKinley in his last speech are entirely repudiated by the party bosses.

The subject of a maximum and minimum tariff may be considered but this too seems to be regarded with suspicion although the principle is to fix the extremes in each case. With countries that extend tariff concessions the minimum rate or some approach to it may be adopted while the high water mark is fixed in the maximum rate.

When Mr. Draper of Hopedale was criticized for his opposition to reciprocity, he came out for a maximum and minimum tariff as a basis of negotiating commercial treaties between other countries and the United States. This form of tariff is adopted in France, Spain, Russia, Norway, Greece and Brazil so that it is not original with American statesmen. If we cannot have straight reciprocity, this would be the best substitute as the president could decide what countries should have the benefit of the minimum rate.

FEDERAL CRIMINAL CODE DEFECTIVE.

Attorney Gen. Moody is of the opinion that the criminal code of the United States should be revised and extended so as to cover certain offenses which seem to be invented by cunning rascals in the government service and for which no penalty is provided.

There is no doubt whatever that in this suggestion Mr. Moody is quite right. It seems to be a travesty on law and justice that in some cases such culprits as Gaynor and Greene are able to evade the law, or rather set it at defiance.

It is a peculiarity of the statutes of the United States that nothing comes under the law except specifically mentioned in the law. As a great many offenses entirely new have been recently developed it is plain that the criminal code needs to be extended in scope. Some years ago this was forcibly illustrated in a case of theft at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. The statutes of the federal government had not provided against theft in a navy yard and hence the offender went scot free.

Should the work recommended by Attorney Gen. Moody be undertaken it is to be hoped that some privision will also be included that will enable the attorney general and his successors to proceed more expeditiously with the prosecution of the trusts and combines that exist in defiance of United States law.

THE KINGDOM OF NEVER GROW OLD.

In the present hot weather when the system craves something more than hard work, when the fancy strays to the woodlands, the lakes and the mountains, the surf on the beach and the bright flowing fountains, it is not necessary to apologize if the hum drum of the telegraphic ticker is forgotten, if the events that flow over the wire are set aside for a ramble in the "Kingdom of Never-grow-old."

Who that has sat before the footlights through that pretty scene in Ethel Barrymore's simple play, "Cousin Kate," will ever forget the climax where the happy Irish lover throws open the gates of the "Kingdom of never-grow-old." That lover had kept close to the "kingdom" so that his years bore lightly upon his shoulders; he had sought delight in the play, the acquaintanceship and the love of little children.

There is something in the love of a child that dispels doubt, compels faith and commands admiration on account of the sweet innocence which is the foundation of their faith and love.

When you look into the child's nature, study its heart, its mind, its freshness, its innocence so recently from God, will you not be more and more impressed with the force of the command of the Divine Master, "Suffer little children to come unto Me, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."?

The man who can enjoy the ways of children has within himself a sort of panoply against the cares and ills of life, especially if the children make him an object of their innocent love. In a similar manner it refreshes the mind to go back over the scenes of our childhood, to contemplate its joys, its innocence, and the total absence of care "when the heart was young."

There is always a charm in watching the dawn of intelligence, the beautiful simplicity of childhood before self consciousness arrives. Those who study the child find lessons of philosophy, of truth, of logic and of pathos. There are men who would not exchange an evening with the best interpreters of the greatest composers for one of sweet enjoyment with their children in the hallowed circle of the home. To such a man the sublime strains of Wagner or Beethoven are not so sweet as the lullabies of the nursery, the simple rhymes and ditties on which the little ones fix their thoughts as they sink to rest in their mother's arms. Such a man is ever in touch with the "Kingdom of Never-grow-old" which is so tenderly portrayed in the following verses based on the sentiment of the Irish lover in "Cousin Kate." The poem is by Will M. Maupin:—

THE BEAUTIFUL KINGDOM.

There are faces alight with the glory of love
In the "Kingdom of Never-grow-old."
There are hearts that are light as the clear skies above
In that kingdom of beauties untold.
And happy is he who can dwell in that land
Where children are ruling with scepters in hand,
For youth is the monarch of one happy band,
In the "Kingdom of Never-grow-old."

No sorrows lurk deep in grim thickets of gloom
In the "Kingdom of Never-grow-old."
But flowers of beauty are ever in bloom
And the pathways are shining as gold.
The laughter of little ones borne on the air
Is surcease of sorrow and cure for all care,
For happiness reigns and has banished despair
In the "Kingdom of Never-grow-old."

The little hands wave a warm welcome to all
In the "Kingdom of Never-grow-old."
The sweet little voices in harmony call,
And their little arms wait to enfold.
And Father Time pauses to taste of the joys,
To join in the games full of romping and noise
That are played all the hours by sweet girls and boys
In the "Kingdom of Never-grow-old."

Come, walk with me now through the cool shadows deep
In the "Kingdom of Never-grow-old."
And backward the years of our troubles will creep
While stories of youth are retold.
All burdens grow light and all cares we dismiss;
The gates are unlocked by a sweet baby kiss,
And Love sits enthroned in the City of Bliss
In the "Kingdom of Never-grow-old."

Funny, isn't it, how rain water will wrinkle your clothing?

It is really too bad that the bottom dropped out of the Park commission's cash box so early in the season. The commission was doing good work.

Lowell is a great town for "glad rags." To note the number of people that promenade in the street all dressed up in their Sunday clothes, the thought that the majority in Lowell do not work is liable to creep in.

This, according to statisticians, has been a great season for sleep, especially because of the cool nights.

There is ample room for improvement in the appearance of back alleys and yards and a great big opportunity for active service on the part of the board of health.

The doctor winks the other eye and smiles pleasantly at the undertaker when he sees a small boy wading into a bunch of green apples.

"Have a fresh cigar?" said the man from Porto Rico, offering his case.

"Thanks," said the Lowellian. "I'll relight this one. It's only half smoked."

"You wouldn't do that if you lived in Porto Rico," said the Islander. "There the best cigar costs four cents, and nobody who's anybody relights a cigar. The flavor is spoiled."

Tony, the bootblack, aged 11, was cleaning the broker's shoes. The broker had been on the right side of the market that day and was disposed to be friendly.

"Tony," he asked, "what would you like to be when you grow up?"

"I'd like to be de treasurer of the whole damn worl'," was the staggering reply.

A man covered seven pages and occupied one hour of Mr. Seen and Heard's time arguing in favor of a free bath. Here is the tail end of his tempest: "From the large patronage that the bath house on Broadway is receiving, the thought of a local Rockefeller with his tainted millions rises up like the form on beer. Lowell should have a free bath house.

The largest cargo that ever left the port of Philadelphia in one bottom started for Japan on July 20 in the English built steamer Monarch. The cargo consisted of 2,470,709 gallons of refined petroleum, 100 barrels of lubricating oil and 1200 cases of wax, all consigned to a Japanese firm at Wyokkaichi. It would require, says Consular and Trade Reports, an oil well with a capacity of 5000 gallons daily to work three years to supply the quantity of oil carried by the Monarch.

Industry and Chinese laundrymen are so indissolubly linked together in the average American mind that it was quite a shock the other day when a man whose family is in the country went to Sam Sing's shop himself for the regular weekly bundle and found Sam busily engaged, not at the ironing or the washboard but in reading a well thumbed paper volume. Never having seen a Chinee reading before, he inquired what the subject matter was. To his surprise, when Sam handed over the book, its title read "Deadwood Dick and the Pirates; or, How the Millionaire's Daughter was Saved."

Japanese women now have, under the new civil code, property rights and privileges of divorce, which put them nearly on a par with women in England or the United States in those respects.

The empire of Japan, says the "Japanese Blue Book" for 1905, comprises nearly one hundred main and nearly five hundred adjacent small islands, with about 18,000 miles of seacoast. That is why Japan needs so large a permanent navy. The area of the empire is 161,148 square miles. The population has grown from 33,600,000 in 1872 to 47,812,702 in 1905, besides 3,059,235 in Formosa.

There is a remarkable evenness in the division of the sexes in Japan.

He was sitting directly beneath an electric fan and when he drew a cigar from his pocket the attentive waiter hovered near with an opened bill of fare.

"You can't light matches under the fan," he explained to the patron. "Let me shield the light with this."

The man drew from another pocket one of the flint and steel lighters, there was a stir at the ratchet wheel, a flying spark and the end of a slow match was fanned into a glow.

The next evening the same customer drew out a cigar, bit off the end and felt in his pocket for a match. There was a sharp click at his back and the waiter held one of the same sort of lighters.

"It's going to save me an hour or two a week," he said, cheerfully. "Ever since the fans were turned on it's been hard to light a cigar at this table. I've given three gentlemen lights this evening, and one of them tipped me an extra quarter for being up to date."

"Electric clocks are great things," said the merchant who counts the pennies, "but they waste a lot of the time they save.

"I had one put in not long ago after a deal fell through because the old clock was five minutes slow. There was a wire running to a telegraph office that set it to 12 at high noon, and every hour we were given fresh assurances that the clock was right through a bell rung from the central office.

"Now the employees all stop work when the bell rings and each solemnly pulls his watch from his pocket to assure himself that he has lost no time in the last hour.

"I calculate that I am losing a half hour a day in time through this habit, to say nothing of the loss of precious moments spent in explaining to visitors how the thing works. I suppose that after a while the boys will get used to the new idea and be content to regulate only at noon. Now they want their time fresh every hour."

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. J. William Fielding and Miss Margaret Kydd were married yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock by Rev. N. W. Matthews, Ph. D., at the residence of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fielding, 14 Whidden street. The bride was given away by her father, Thomas Kydd. She wore white silk muslin, lace trimmed, and she carried bride roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Jessie Kydd, who wore pale pink silk muslin ,and carried bridemaid roses. Benjamin Fielding, the groom's brother, was best man. Albert Fielding, also the groom's brother, and Edward Fielding, his cousin, served as ushers. The parlor, where the ceremoney was performed, was prettily decorated with palms, ferns and cut flowers. A reception followed the marriage service and congratulations were extended, including telegrams from Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Broody and Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Kantor, the first named the president, and Mr. Kantor the treasurer of the Boston Mirror company.

Refreshments were served under the direction of Joseph Wilmot, assisted by Mrs. Wilmot, Mrs. Joseph Fielding, Jr., Miss Nellie Rawnsley, Miss Eva Law and William Fielding of Lynn. Among the out-of-town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. John Fielding of Lynn, Mr. and Mrs. David Laing of Andover and Rev. James Matthews of Plymouth, Penn., a brother of the officiating clergyman.

The wedding gifts were numerous, elegant and costly and included furniture, cut glass, china, rugs and other useful articles.

Mr. and Mrs. Fielding left Lowell on the 9.30 p. m. train, and after a wedding tour, which will include visits to Providence, R. I., Newport, R. I., and Block Island, they will make their home at 12 Birch street, Everett.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE.

People of Lowell and vicinity will find plenty of amusement at Lakeview park this week. At the theatre Joseph J. Flynn presents the Empire Specialty company. This company came to Lowell with a good reputation and will leave with a whole lot added to it. Every number on the program is very good.

George and Harrington give a horizontal bar act that is hard to beat. Enough comedy is sprinkled in to liven the act and the various stunts call forth a great deal of applause.

One of the most attractive acts is that given by William Gardner. He introduces a specialty of dancing on roller and ice skates, which certainly deserves a great deal of praise.

On the roller skates he gives an exhibition of back and wing, executing the most difficult steps with ease and grace of the ordinary buck dancer. He changes from the roller to the ice skates without stopping. He removes one skate and at the same time continues the step while seated in a chair. After he has fastened the ice skates to his shoes he mounts a pedestal and does a good turn.

Eckoff and Gordon certainly bring a whirlwind of comedy with them, for from the time they enter the stage until they leave the audience is one continual roar of laughter. Miss Gordon is a vocalist of ability and Mr. Eckhoff renders some pleasing selections on a number of instruments. Each number was encored and Mr. Eckhoff had to respond five times after rendering a solo on the clarinet. Thomas and Payne appear in a real coon sketch. Both sing and dance well. They have some jokes that are lively and original. Mr. Thomas is a real black man, with an uncommon amount of wit, and Miss Payne is a shapely and graceful creole.

Dan J. Harrington, the well known ventriloquist, gave an exhibition with his dummies that kept the audience convulsed with laughter. Harrington is well known to the local theatre-goers for during the past several years he played engagements at the Casto and Savoy theatres. He is one of the cleverest ventriloquist artists in the business today and throws his voice around in a manner which bewilders the audience. He still has his boy "Jerry" with him, and "Jerry" makes matters interesting to the professor during the entire evening.

This show will appear every afternoon and evening for the remainder of the week at Lakeview.

The Blue Serge Suits That Were $15 and $20 Are Now Marked $11.50

We have had a splendid business in these suits since advertising them a few days ago.

Half the quantity has been sold—but there is practically every size yet in young men's 33 to 38, men's 34 to 44.

Every suit is brand new, coats are double and single breast, and have hand-finished collars and buttonholes.

The suits are all that remain of young men's lots at $20, men's at $15.

These fine highest grade serges are in many respects the best values we ever advertised in suits for $11.50

HIS OLD PARTNER

Lawson Plans to Bury Him

THEY HAD PARTED IN LIFE

Waves Brought Body Near to Dreamwold

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—To save from a pauper's grave the man who was once noted as his business associate, and who claimed he was the "brains of the combination," Thomas W. Lawson will buy and erect a headstone for the body of Prof. A. A. Woodbridge, which for the past seven days has rested unclaimed at Cohasset, where it was found last Tuesday morning, nearly nude, tossing in the surf off Black Rock.

The man who, although of highest reputation throughout the country as a scholar and educator, had been for a year past, since the death of his wife, drifting through the cheapest resorts of humanity, living, when he could pay his rent, in dingy lodging houses in the South end; penniless, begging dimes and quarters from those who had once been proud to rank him as their friend, and who was, as he himself described it, "all in," is now learned to have been once a trusted lieutenant of Lawson during a part of the latter's career.

Fifteen years ago he was said to have been a right-hand man of the now famous Boston millionaire, at a time when the position of the latter was less secure than it is today, when his fortune was in process of building. He was himself, so me believed, on the road to millions.

By one of the turns of fortune's wheel, however, while the star of Lawson kept in the ascendant, the career of Woodbridge changed, luck left him, he sank lower and lower, to die penniless, a suicide.

Woodbridge's association with Lawson was seldom mentioned by the unfortunate educator during the latter part of his life, except in the claim made by him from time to time to the effect that Lawson owed him $10,000.

"Here I am without a cent," he would say bitterly, when in a particularly downcast frame of mind, "while Tom Lawson owes me $10,000. My brains placed him in the position he occupies today."

Lawson himself never admitted the claim. The relations between him and Prof. Woodbridge, it is understood, ended in a cloud, and the latter's family never knew just why the dreams of future millions fell through. Prof. Woodbridge never explained why his relations with Lawson ceased, and declared that he himself was ignorant of the cause. He was "Lawson's brains," he told them, his right hand man, wrote all his public utterances, aided him in forming his plans, and by rights should have been as rich as the "Copper King" himself.

And here the strangest point of all in the strange case comes out. For, as if to laugh at his claims, or else to emphasize them, when the end came and the once prominent educator met his death, fate took the body of the drowned man and sent it ashore almost opposite the home of the man whom he claimed to have helped to make.

Tossing about in the surf, the body was caught by a current which cast it five miles from the gates of Dreamwold, the famous summer home of Thomas W. Lawson. Just where Prof. Woodbridge met his death, whether he jumped over from some boat or whether he cast himself into the waters from some point along the South shore, is not known.

GIRL ATTACKED

BUT SHE ESCAPED FROM HER ASSAILANT.

WALTHAM, Aug. 8.—Miss Clara Wentworth, the 18-year-old daughter of Mrs. Clarence Wentworth, had a thrilling experience about 8 last night with a man who attacked her on Lake street, about half a mile from her own home.

The young woman managed to break away from her assailant and run into a neighbor's house, where she collapsed.

Word was sent to Chief McKenna, who lives at Piety corner. He telephoned to the station house, and Sergt. Taft sent Patrolman Currin to assist the chief. The two were furnished a good description of the man, and they had not gone far when they saw a man sitting on the stone wall near the E. B. Armstrong estate, Lexington street.

The man fitted the description, and the officers identified him as Bernard Butler, aged 22, who lives on Lexington street, directly opposite the police station.

Butler denied all knowledge of the affair, but objected to going to Miss Wentworth's home. He was told he could go there or to the station house, and he finally said he would face the young woman.

The instant Miss Wentworth saw Butler she declared he was the man who attacked her. Butler was then taken to the police station and locked up.

CAUSED A STIR

Non-Union Man Was Delivering Coal

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 8.—While the delegates to the annual convention of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, which began in Odd Fellows temple here yesterday did nothing of general interest or of great importance, nevertheless they had a rather busy day. The feature of the day's proceedings was the appearance of a delegate in front of the rostrum who declared that a non-union negro coal wagon driver was delivering coal at the building in which they met. This caused considerable stir and after some debate a committee was appointed to look into the matter.

In the meantime the negro driver was having a warm argument with several delegates on the sidewalk outside the hall, which attracted a large crowd. Delegate D. McCullum of New York was the man who discovered that the driver was not a union driver. He told the negro that he couldn't deliver the coal while the union was in session in the building.

The delegate sat on the cover of the manhole and began making a speech to the crowd that was rapily becoming larger. The non-union driver appealed to the chief engineer of the building who, finding that he could not persuade the delegate to let the coal be shot into the cellar, sent for a policeman. The policeman ordered the delegate off the manhole, which command he obeyed, and went into the hall with some of the delegates. The coal was then unloaded without further delay. Later in the day a committee reported that the chief engineer of the building had promised that no more coal would be delivered by non-union drivers while the teamsters are in session in the building.

Another committee reported that the employes of the bars and barber shops of two hotels where delegates were staying were not connected with labor unions, and it was recommended that delegates patronize the bars and barber shops of other hotels.

There was a half hour debate at the forenoon session over the question of admitting reporters to the hall during the sessions. It was argued that if newspaper men had been admitted to meetings of the union in Chicago the strike there would not have been a failure. The motion to admit the reporters was carried.

DIXON KILLED

HE WAS CRUSHED UNDER A BOB ENGINE.

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—George W. Dixon of 10 Oswold street, Roxbury, was instantly killed and Robert W. Russell of 30 Arlington street, Brighton, was seriously injured about 2.45 yesterday afternoon at the foot of 13th street, near building No. 76, in the Charlestown navy yard, by the falling of a bob engine and crane carrying a steam launch from the wharf to the construction and paint shop in the yard, where it was to undergo repairs.

STELLA ELLIOT

SHE STANDS BY HER CHARGES

She Adds to Previous Testimony

BROCKTON, Aug. 8—The searching cross-examination of Stella Elliot, the 18-year-old girl who first brought charges against Inspector Chester E. Harris, of the police department, by Atty. Elmer H. Fletcher, was the feature of the hearing before Mayor Keith and the aldermen yesterday afternoon, on the charges of immoral conduct brought by the mayor against Harris.

A new development was the testimony by the girl that at a time not before testified to she was intimate with Harris in the office of the Edison Electric Illuminating company station, R. E. McNeil letting them in.

Under cross-examination she testified that twice before the time previously testified to that she was with Harris on Foundry street they were together there.

"Why didn't you tell about the first time you were at Foundry street instead of the third?" asked Mr. Fletcher.

"I didn't think about it."

"Haven't you testified you were never in that doorway except on one occasion?"

"I don't know."

"Do you mean to say Harris told you about getting there, and how to open the slide door, the third time you were there and not the other times?"

"He did. He told me every time. He told me to open the door and go up on the steps and wait for him."

The only witness heard during the afternoon was the Elliot girl, and she was under cross-examination for two hours. The crowd at the hearing was curtailed by only allowing those to enter the council chamber for whom seats could be provided. None of the witnesses for the defence were sworn and Atty. Fletcher stated to a reporter after adjournment of the hearing that they will not be announced until they are ready to go on.

"Before we get through with this case we shall show," said Mr. Fletcher, "that Inspector Harris is innocent of these charges."

The hearing was adjourned at 5 o'clock to 1.30 this afternoon.

Atty. Fletcher, commencing at the time she left her home in Rockland, asked: "Did you say at the previous hearing that you had not been intimate with other men previous to coming to this city?"

"I refuse to answer."

"Did you make such a statement?"

"No, sir, I did not."

"Do you remember this question at the last hearing: 'Had you ever been intimate with any other man?'"

"I do."

"How did you answer?"

No reply was made by the girl.

She told of the different places where she had lived and worked after coming to Brockton in August, 1903, and telling of her first alleged intimacy with Harris, said: "He wanted me to come to the police station about 6.10 o'clock, and said everybody would be away at that time, and told me how to get there."

Witness admitted under cross-examination that she told Mrs. Taylor at the police station after she was arrested that she "would get even with Harris for arresting her."

"Up to that time you had no idea of charging Harris with being the father of your child?"

"No, I did not."

"Why had you told no one?"

"Because I didn't intend any one to know it."

She testified to telling the city marshal it was Harris, and denied she told him it was any other man. She also denied telling the matron of the lying-in hospital in Providence that it was a young man who had since left Brockton.

Asked if Mrs. A. P. Alden had not told her to push this case, witness said she did not, and that Mrs. Alden never said anything about the case until friends came forward with money to help her. She said she did not know who was furnishing the money."

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Committees from the Lowell lodges of the Knights of Pythias met last night with William B. Gale lodge in Lawrence, other lodges from other cities also being represented. The plans were made for a grand union outing of the Knights of the Merrimack valley to be held at Canobie Lake Park. The committee from Lowell were I. B. Romain and Harry Jones, Middlesex lodge; F. A. Chadwick and A. F. Fecteau, Wamesit lodge; M. L. Stone and H. C. Bowen, Samuel H. Hines lodge; L. O. Mason and John Thornber, Chevalier lodge; Sidney Blowen and F. A. Lepine, Lowell lodge.

The "Very Wells" baseball team of this city journeyed to South Lowell Saturday, in the midst of the woods where there is a fine ball field, and defeated the Lowell Machine Shops, a very strong team, by the score of 19 to 17. The "Very Wells" led throughout the game by a very small margin. The lineup was as follows: "Very Wells"—H. Leggat p, C. O'Neil c, E. Charon 1b, A. McHugh 2b, J. Savard 3b, E. Pearson cf, A. Pinard rf, E. Johanna lf, P. Lebeouf ss.

FOR POSTMASTER

NEW POSTOFFICE MAY BE BUILT

Interest in New Street Car Line

North Chelmsford is looking forward with considerable anticipation to the establishment of the new street railroad between Lowell and Ayer Junction which will form the connecting link between Boston and Fitchburg, for the line will pass through the north village to Westford and will open up a part of the town heretofore but sparsely tenanted. The new line will undoubtedly be one of the most popular trolley rides in this vicinity for it passes through a beautiful country and by several pretty summer resorts. The line leaving North Chelmsford passes by Crystal Lake and Falcon Heights into Westford and then proceeds along through Westford to Long-Sought-For pond or within a short distance of it. There are 30 men employed on the new line at Ayer Junction and it is the intention of the promoters to have it finished before the snow flies.

The village is soon to have a new postmaster, as the result of the resignation of John Hall and very probably will have a new post office. While the appointment has not yet been made there is little doubt that the next postmaster will be Charles Scribner, foreman at the Chelmsford Iron foundry. Mr. Scribner is also chairman of the republican town committee and Congressman Ames has a soft spot in his heart for the chairmen of the republican town committees in his district. Congressman Ames it is said has recommended the appointment of Mr. Scribner which practically gives it to him. With his appointment will come the erection of a new, roomy post office building on land owned by the Moore Spinning company just opposite the shanty at the railroad crossing, or just below Queen and Small's store. The post office at present is further up the street, about opposite the [illegible] of Dr. Varney.

The Time Will Come

When the Advice of This Lowell Resident Will Help You

Very few people are entirely free from backache. It does not take much to derange the kidneys. A little cold, a strain, stooping positions or hard work, overtaxes those delicate organs, and many aches and pains promptly follow. A Lowell citizen tells you here how every kidney ill can be relieved and cured. Read about it:

Mrs. C. Hodgman, of 31 Hastings street, Lowell, Mass., says: "My mother Mrs. Hartford, regards Doan's Kidney Pills as a remedy of great merit. They were procured for her seven years ago at Ellingwood & Co.'s drug store, and she used them for backache and other symptoms of kidney complaint which arise from a weakened or over-excited condition of the kidneys. The quick and thorough relief she obtained from Doan's Kidney Pills proved them to be deserving of great praise. During the years which have since passed she has had no reason to alter her opinion of the great value and effectiveness of Doan's Kidney Pills."

MAYOR BLISS

PENSACOLA, Fla., Aug. 8—Mayor Charles H. Bliss was placed under arrest here yesterday, charged with having in his possession considerable dynamite which the city had purchased for the purpose of draining a pond in the western section of the city. The dynamite was stored in a house near where the pond is located. John Burns, former street superintendent, made the affidavit containing the charge against the mayor.

FATHER HELD

HE IS CHARGED WITH USING PROFANE LANGUAGE.

BROCKTON, Aug. 8—The arrest of Philip Brady in the office of the clerk of court, followed the session of the police court yesterday.

Philip L. Brady, his 15-year-old son, was captured by the police in a raid Sunday, when Michael F. Murphy, P. W. Blunt, James J. Clifford and John F. Lynch were arrested charged with gaming on the Lord's day. The men were fined $10 each and paid. Young Brady was charged with being present and his case was placed on file.

His father is alleged to have used profane language in regard to the case and to the court and was placed under arrest on that charge.

SEIZED A NEGRO AND HANGED HIM.

WACO, Tex., Aug. 8—At 3 o'clock this morning, mounted citizens numbering 600 surrounded the court house and jail and after making prisoners of Sheriff Tilley, the jailer and all the deputy sheriffs, broke open the jail, took Hank Majors, colored, out and after hearing his confession hanged him from the New Bridge.

Majors had recently been convicted of criminal assault and given death penalty but he had been granted a new trial.

The time worn structure shown in the cut is one of the oldest buildings in the historic town of Georgetown, D. C. It is the prison once used for debtors. As long ago as the latter part of the seventeenth century it was used as a municipal lockup, and it was the only prison in that part of the country, which at that time was within the state of Maryland. Later on it became a slave pen. Public auctions of slaves were held in it. It became in after years police headquarters for the growing city. At present it is used by a congregation of colored Baptists as a meeting house.

A STATUE INHABITED BY BEES.

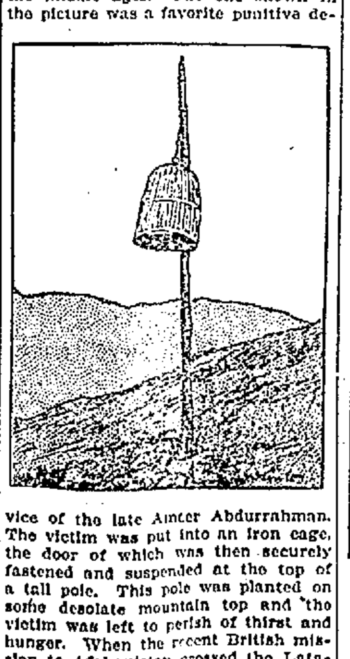

A colony of bees has been engaged for twenty-two years in storing honey in the hollow interior of the wooden statue which surmounts the dome of the courthouse at Liberty, Mo., shown in the cut. The figure of the Goddess of Liberty is made of thick pine planking and is fourteen feet in height. The statue is believed to contain at least five barrels of honey, although no one has ever attempted to secure any of it. The people of Liberty will not consent to have the statue disturbed. Whenever the dome and its goddess are painted it is necessary to do the work in the winter, when the bees are inactive.

A CRUEL AFGHAN PUNISHMENT.

vice of the late Ameer Abdurrahman. The victim was put into an iron cage, the door of which was then securely fastened and suspended at the top of a tall pole. This pole was planted on some desolate mountain top and the victim was left to perish of thirst and hunger. When the recent British mission to Afghanistan crossed the Lataband pass several of these reminders of the cruel ameer were still to be seen.

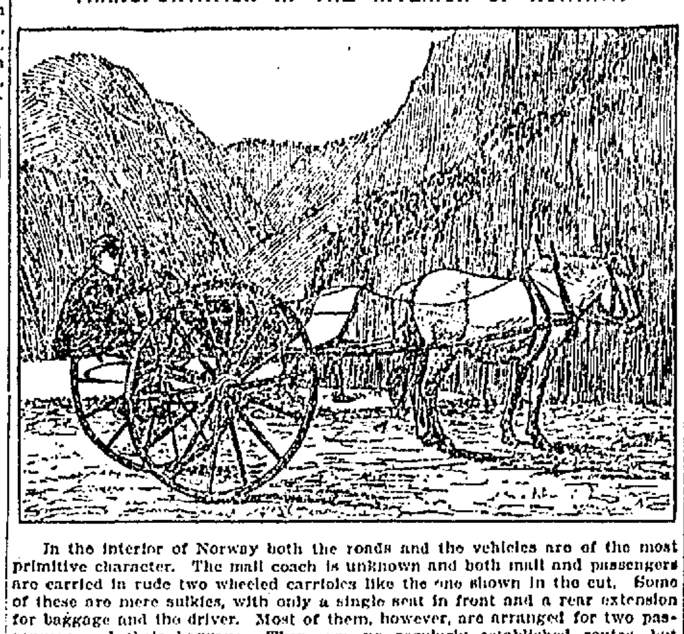

BRONZE DOORS FOR CAPITOL.

The massive bronze doors shown in the picture, although designed in 1858, have only recently been completed. They have occupied the sole attention of Melzar H. Mosman of Chicopee, Mass., for over two years. They belong to the southern, or house, wing of the capitol and are fourteen feet in height and over two tons in weight. They are divided into five panels each, representing in bas-relief scenes from American history.

TRANSPORTATION IN THE INTERIOR OF NORWAY.

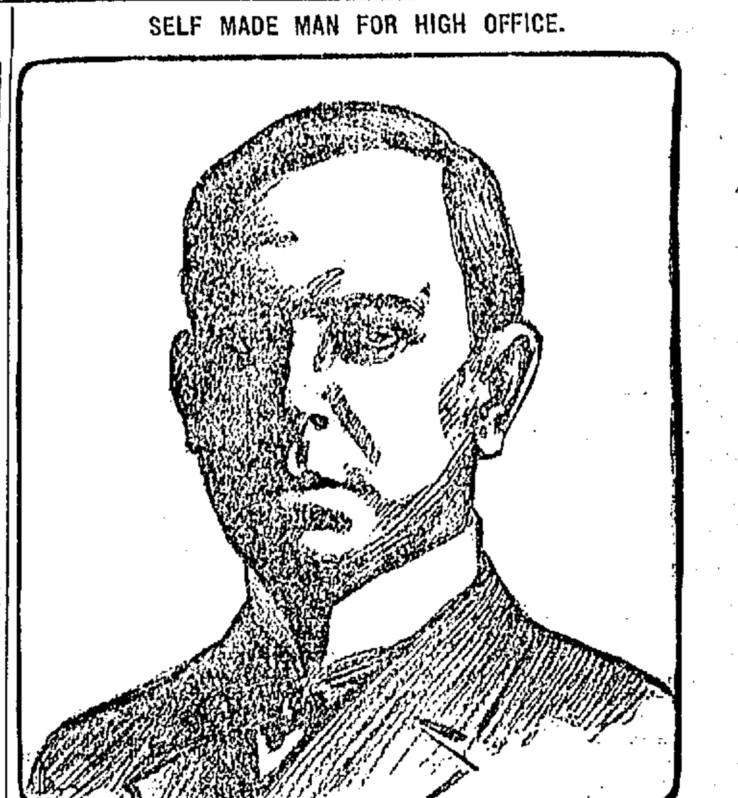

In the interior of Norway both the roads and the vehicles are of the most primitive character. The mail coach is unknown and both mail and passengers are carried in rude two wheeled carrioles like the one shown in the cut. Some of these are mere sulkies, with only a single seat in front and a rear extension for baggage and the driver. Most of them, however, are arranged for two passengers and their baggage. There are no regularly established routes, but every peasant who owns one of these go-carts is expected to respond to any demand, at any hour, and his fee is fixed by law.

ADMIRAL TOGO IN HIS CABIN ON THE FLAGSHIP MIKASA.

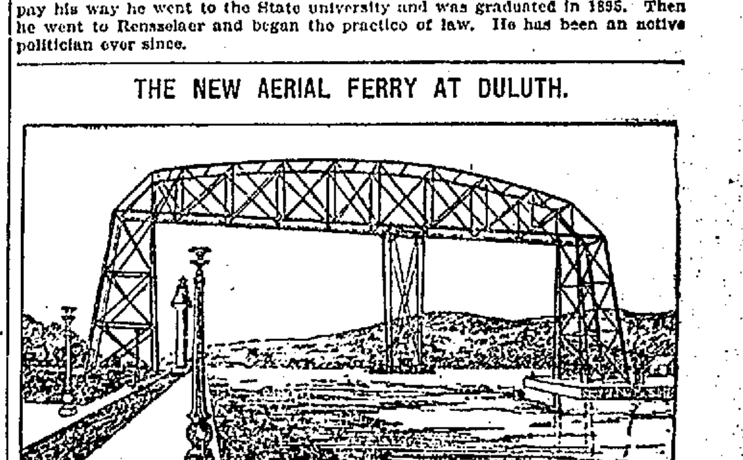

The cut shows Admiral Togo in his cabin on board the Mikasa. He is explaining to a war artist how it happened that he escaped death from the bursting of a shell during one of the engagements at Port Arthur. The fragments were collected carefully and cemented together, and the restored shell now stands in the admiral's cabin alongside a perfect one, which also came on board the Mikasa during the same engagement, but did no damage. The admiral keeps on his table two beautiful dwarf trees, several centuries old, which were presented to him by an admirer. Beside them is the indispensable smoking box, within which a bit of charcoal is always glowing. The open album is the one to which a visiting artist is always invited to contribute a sketch.

SELF MADE MAN FOR HIGH OFFICE.

Jesse E. Wilson, who has recently been appointed to succeed Melville W. Miller as assistant secretary of the interior, is a practicing attorney at Rensselaer, Ind. He is a native of Owen county, Ind., was born in 1867 and is the sixth child in a family of eleven. Mr. Wilson attended the public school, clerked in a dry goods store and taught school. After he had earned the money to pay his way he went to the State university and was graduated in 1895. Then he went to Rensselaer and began the practice of law. He has been an active politician ever since.

THE NEW AERIAL FERRY AT DULUTH.

The aerial ferry shown in the picture is now in operation at Duluth, Minn. It is the first structure of its kind in America, and it has been an unqualified success thus far. The suspended ferry car has a speed of four miles per hour. There are two electric motors, each of fifty horsepower capacity, located under the floor of the car. An ingenious arrangement of the track has been provided to carry the car and hangers. It is inclosed on three sides within the box section of the lower cord. In winter it cannot become coated with sleet or snow. It is estimated that the cost of running this ferry will not exceed $7,500 per annum. This is fully a third less than the cost of a steamboat ferry service.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT LAKEVIEW.

Next Thursday at Lakeview park will be children's day, and plans are being made to entertain a host of little ones on that date.

Every year these children's days have proved immensely popular with the small tots as well as the mothers, who find it a good opportunity to make the day one for a picnic in which the entire family takes part.

Children will be admitted to the afternoon performance in the theatre. Special features will be introduced in the show just for the entertainment of the youngsters.

After the performance is over there will be a grand exhibition of day fireworks. This is going to be a spectacle worth witnessing. The bombs burst high in the air, displaying figures which float through the atmosphere, gradually falling to the earth. The figures are captured by those in the park, for they land all over the place.

LIVELY MEETING

Billerica Voters Postpone Action

ON REMODELLING THE TOWN HALL

Land Scheme Severely Beaten

TOWN WANT NEWS ELECTRIC ROAD

To Connect It With So. Lowell

A special town meeting was held in Billerica town hall last night, and while usually the special meetings bring forth but a handful of people the attendance last night was a general surprise to a great many people, especially those who were trying to railroad a land scheme whereby the town was to accept a new street presumably for the purpose of enlarging and beautifying the residential district, but which, in fact, was supposed to be in the interest of the land owners.

The article calling for the acceptance of the street was turned down, however, as was an article suggesting changes in the town hall for the purpose of allowing theatricals to be held.

The proposition to have the town accept the road laid out on the land of Sidney A. Bull and Jasper F. Bruce brought out an interesting controversy. The proposition meant the opening up of some very desirable building lots, which, no doubt, could be readily disposed of at a great profit.

Mr. Bull stated that he believed the town should take the road in order to hasten the development of the town as a residential section of Lowell's suburb. The road as originally planned, was to be built entirely upon his land, but the selectmen decided that it must be 10 feet wider and that that much land on the frontage of Mr. Bruce's must be used.

Mr. Bruce said he seemed to be interested in the affair, and felt as though he ought to tell how interested he was. He rather surprised many of those who had signed the Bull petition when he said he knew nothing of the scheme until they had come in and staked off his land. He couldn't figure where he was going to come out if the road went through. "It would damage my property and spoil the only opportunity I would have for using my land for building purposes," he said in conclusion.

Mr. Bull allowed that there was a big demand for a new road and for building lots. He allowed that, should the road go through, many Lowell people would go out there, purchase lots and build houses, thereby increasing the tax income of the town. He said he had an opportunity of selling the lot which would come at the opening of the street, but he wanted to give the town a chance.

DeLacy Corkum, who is one of the noted orators of the town, was present, and in fact the meeting would not have been a success if he were absent. He stated that if Jasper was willing to dispose of his land under the conditions, it would be all right to let Bull have the road, but he abominably hated this crowding of individuals.

J. Nelson Parker stated that he had signed the Bull petition, but stated he would not have done so if he had known that Bruce was going to get a cold deal.

When the question was put to the voters for action it was overwhelmingly beaten, only three or four voting in favor if it and at least thirty in opposition.

The next article of interest was the discussion of the necessity of making changes in the town hall in order to comply with the requirements of the district police regulations. The matter came up under article three.

Selectman Kohlrausch said that the state inspector had inspected the hall and had notified the selectmen that several changes must be made or else the practice of holding theatricals must be discontinued. He said he had gone over the matter very carefully with the inspector but nothing could alter his attitude and the changes must be made.

Mr. Kohlrausch stated that the hall when built was made to comply with the law in every respect, but the statutes enacted last year had altered things considerably. He said the selectmen did not want to take the responsibility of making any changes or of leaving the hall as it is, and they submitted the case to the voters for settlement.

Architect Floyd was called upon to explain the situation and the solution of the problem. He said the state law would require five changes: First, a change in the arrangement for the drop curtain and the removal of all draperies on the stage; second, a skylight 8 by 10 feet over the stage, to work automatically in case of fire and to create a draft that would prevent the flames from going out into the audience; third, an exit from the hall in the rear; fourth, two stairways 5 feet in width to the galleries, and fifth a front exit from the hall to the street, entirely disconnected from the lower portion of the building.

Mr. Floyd said that the skylight was a police regulation and not a statute, and they could get by on this. He said the present arrangement of gallery stairs would do all right, that it would cost $271 for the fire escape for the rear exit, and about $3522 to remodel the main staircase, shut it off entirely from the lower building and make an entrance from the front.

Deacon Frederick S. Clark and J. Nelson Parker were both opposed to any changes. They favorid leaving the hall as it is and discontinue the theatrical parties. Mr. Parker said the income from such parties would not warrant the expense.

It was unanimously voted to postpone action on the matter and the hall will be left as it is for the present and perhaps always. Article 5 and 6 relating to the acceptance of a small sum of money remaining in the treasury of the Billerica Improvement association, to be used for the purpose of maintaining seats on the common, and article 6, providing for the acceptance by the town of all the personal property of the association, consisting of crockery, glass, silverware, snow plow and settees, were both adopted.

The meeting was called to order at eight o'clock with about fifty present, and after the moderator was chosen, polls were opened for balloting for an assessor of taxes for the current year to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Albert H. Andrews, who was elected last March. There were 37 votes cast, and C. A. Bowman received 21 of them, winning the election. William H. Sexton also ran and received 11 votes; DeLacy Corkum had 4 and Joseph Holt 1.

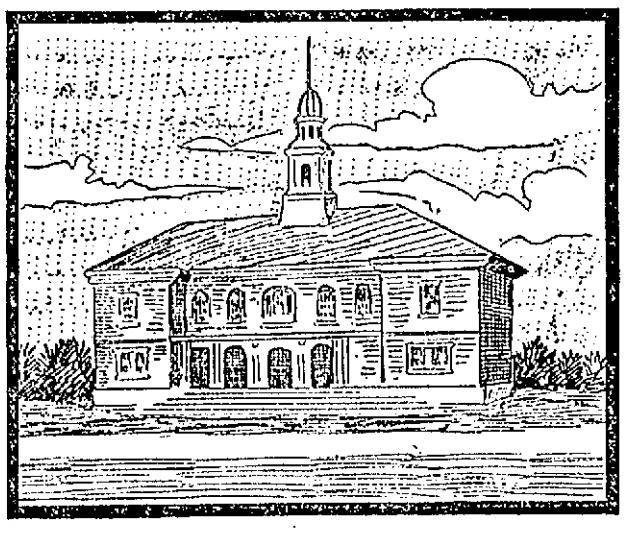

The meeting dissolved at 9.30 after the announcement of the vote.

WANT THE RAILROAD.

The residents of North Billerica are anxiously awaiting the promise of the officials of the Boston & Northern Street Ry. Co. to extend its tracks from South Lowell and Lown through North Billerica. A franchise was granted the railroad company, but after it was granted it seems that the officials changed their minds and thought it unwise to extend the tracks. The residents of Billerica are of the opinion that nothing would be lost by the railroad if it should connect South Lowell with North Billerica.

THE POPULATION.

The unverified population of the town of Billerica according to the census of 1905 is 2843, a gain of 566 over the figures of 1895. There are 1397 males and 1446 females. These figures were sent by Chief Statistician Charles F. Pidgin to Selectman Charles H. Kohlrausch.

CHIEF HOSMER

Will Answer Mayor Casey's Letter on Lighting

Chief Hosmer of the fire and street lighting departments is in favor of the present method of lighting streets and is diametrically and otherwise opposed to electric lights.

He will give a report to the papers tomorrow or the day after. The report will contain figures contradictory to those contained in Mayor Casey's letter that appeared a few days ago.

Mr. Hosmer says he is not looking for trouble, but he says he must make a statement, in figures, to defend himself and to rectify wrong impressions formed by those who studied the figures in the mayor's letter.

JEWELS STOLEN

REWARD OF $250 OFFERED FOR THEIR RETURN.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 8—An advertisement, published in the local papers today, offering a reward of $250 for the return of jewelry stolen at Block Island on Saturday last, revealed the fact that Harry D. White and wife, of New York were robbed of watches and rings valued at $500. The robbery occurred while Mr. and Mrs. White were bathing, they having left the jewelry in a bath house. efforts were made to recover the jewelry without unnecessary publicity but without success and Mr. White has now offered to pay $250 for the return of his property and "ask no questions."

Mr. White, is a member of the firm of Stern & Co., New York.

Master J. Harold Hackett, of Amherst street, is spending his vacation with Miss Lena Wood, of Portsmouth, N. H. He witnessed the explosion there on July 22nd, and the arrival of the envoys on August 8th. During the past three weeks he has visited Hampton, Rye, York and several other beaches.

C. F. KEYES Auctioneer
Real Estate, Public Auction and Private Sale
Office, 52 Central Street, Lowell, Mass.
OPEN EVERY EVENING.

Saturday, August 12, 1905

ABSOLUTE SALE BY PUBLIC AUCTION OF A VERY PRETTY COTTAGE HOUSE AND ABOUT 3000 SQUARE FEET OF LAND, SITUATED AT NO. 54 HAMPSHIRE STREET. ALSO A LOT OF LAND CONTAINING ABOUT 9800 SQUARE FEET ON HILDRETH STREET.

Having reached an age where the care and responsibility of real estate is more than I wish to carry, I will pledge for absolute sale these two parcels to be sold on their respective premises, Saturday, Aug. 12, 1905, regardless of any condition of the weather.

At 3 O'Clock

The first parcel is a pretty and attractive little home, situated on the westerly side of Hampshire street, numbering 54 on said street. It is a modern house of seven rooms and bath, cemented cellar, best of sewerage, gas lighting, and has all the requisites for a perfect home property. To the reader of this notice, I want to say, as to the situation and beauty of this parcel, you will have to look upon it with your own eyes. The rooms are of good size and conveniently set apart; the building is in perfect repair, and sets on good, high, level land. The lot is about 3000 feet in area, with a frontage on the street of about 30 feet. I have it rented at the present time and it brings in a yearly rental of about $192. Now this is a perfect little home for someone, in a first class neighborhood, and I am determined to sell it to the highest bidder on that day set apart.

At 3.30 O'Clock

I will sell a lot of land containing about 9800 square feet situated on the easterly side of Hildreth street, about opposite the cemetery. The city at this point has grand elevation and the surroundings are very beautiful, many pretty homes having been built during the past six or seven years. The lot has a frontage of about 50 feet on Hildreth street; the extreme depth being over 300 feet.

Now one could so place buildings upon this lot, giving it a 10-foot avenue the entire length on one side and fronting the buildings on the avenue. This would allow the erection of four or five houses that would certainly rent to good advantage as there are not many idle tenements in this locality. The same conditions go with this parcel as with the first, being that I have absolutely pledged my word that I will sell to the highest bidder.

Terms of sale: $250 must be paid to the auctioneer as a deposit on the cottage on Hampshire street, as soon as it is struck off. The same must be done with $50 on the Hildreth street land.

Per Order, STEPHEN McMONAGLE.

Saturday, August 12, at 4.15 O'Clock

POSITIVE SALE BY PUBLIC AUCTION OF A TWO AND ONE-HALF STORY, TWO TENEMENT HOUSE AND ABOUT 2447 SQUARE FEET OF LAND, AT NO. 21 ROBINSON STREET.

Being a non-resident of your city, I have pledged this property to be publicly disposed of to the highest bidder. I have recently papered and painted the interior, putting it in very good shape. The house contains eight rooms, four with each tenement. They are of good size, conveniently laid out and for small families very desirable. The building is in very good repair and for the person who could look after it properly it will make a grand good investment on the purchase price. The lot contains about 2447 square feet of land and is situated at the corner of Robinson street and Robinson court. It has good elevation and a number of fruit trees, and has a frontage of about 40 feet on Robinson street and about 60 feet on Robinson court. Robinson street is a short street running westerly off Congress street, and this house numbers 21 on said street. Now I am determined to sell this property as I do not want the bother of traveling down here from Manchester in order to look after it.

Terms: $200 must be paid as a deposit to the auctioneer as soon as the property is struck off.

By Order of ELIZABETH M. DRISCOLL,
Manchester, N. H.
